Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Georgia today adopted President Roosevelt as a native son. For eight hours today the people of Atlanta tried to impress the president with the sincerity and enthusiasm of their welcome.

On the way to the fair grounds, where he was to speak, the president passed through living walls formed by 100,000 men and women and children, who waved thousands of flags and tens of thousands of hats and handkerchiefs as they cheered every step of his progress.

When it was all over and the president had returned to his train in the evening to resume his journey he received a special delegation of leading Georgia citizens in his private car for the express purpose of telling them in as emphatic language as possible that he had just spent eight of the happiest hours of his life.

"I think you just can't help seeing what a fine time I have had," he said to one of them. "I shall never forget it."

The reply came promptly, and it was like scores of other remarks that were addressed to the president during the afternoon:

"We consider you a Georgian by birth, Mr. President. You are one of us. We love you because of your honesty and your courage to do what you think is right."

His Day in Atlanta.

The president and Mrs. Roosevelt reached Atlanta a few minutes after 11 o'clock in the morning, the earlier hours of the day having been spent at Roswell, where the president's mother was born. At the union station was a large delegation of citizens headed by Gov. Terrell, including the mayor and many other officials of the states and city. After a reception of handshaking the president was escorted to a carriage with Gov. Terrell and driven immediately to the state fair grounds. Mrs. Roosevelt went to the governor's mansion, where she was entertained by Mrs. Terrell and a committee of one hundred of the most prominent society women of the capital and the state.

Cheered by Vast Crowds.

The streets through which the president passed on his way to the fair grounds held such a crowd as might have been expected in New York or Chicago, and people not less enthusiastic in their demonstration. The drive extended the whole length of Peachtree street, a distance of two miles or more, and the president stood in his carriage until the end of the journey, constantly lifting his hat and bowing to the cheering crowds. His reception was of the whirlwind order, with all the accompaniments of a noisy welcome. There were about 30,000 people inside the fair grounds, and about one-third of these were able to get standing room in the racetrack in front of the speakers' stand. As soon as the president reached this stand the parade of the military organizations began to pass in review. The parade included two troops of the Twelfth cavalry, who had marched all the way from Chickamauga for the occasion; several companies of infantry from Fort McPherson, several troops of Georgia cavalry, and half a regiment of state infantry.

After the parade had passed Gov. Terrell made a speech presenting the president to the crowd. Then for good measure the mayor of Atlanta and Senator Clay also made introductory speeches. The crowd was noisy and the president had some difficulty in speaking on that account, for the multitude seemed to be afraid it would not cheer hard enough or often enough.

Speech at the Luncheon.

A luncheon followed the open air speech at the fair grounds. From the speakers' stand the president was taken to the Piedmont club, attended by a detachment of the Twelfth cavalry. One hundred guests were seated at the tables, which were profusely decorated with flowers and flags. During the progress of the luncheon John Temple Graves, editor of the Atlanta Daily News, addressed the president in a personal welcome as a man "whom it was a delight to meet aside from his official character." He referred to the president as "Georgia's most illustrious grandson," which the president received with a broad smile. In closing Col. Graves spoke of the president as a man "in whom the statesman is greater than the politician and the man greater than the president."

The allusions brought rounds of cheers as the president arose to reply. The president said in part:

"Mr. Graves and My Hosts: It is almost unkind to greet a guest in a speech to which it is impossible that any guest should adequately respond. Gentlemen, surely it must be almost unnecessary to say, not alone how I have enjoyed myself today, but how deeply touched and moved I have been at your reception of me as Georgia's descendant. I told Gov. Terrell I had a kind of ancestral revolutionary right to his chair, because the first revolutionary governor of Georgia was my great-great-grandfather, Archibald Bulloch, after whom one of my boys is named.

"No man could meet with such a reception as you have given me today; no man could see your city, could see your people, could address such an audience as I have addressed and not be a better citizen afterwards.

Tribute to Uncle Remus.

"Now I am going to ill repay the courtesy with which I have been greeted by causing for a minute or two acute discomfort to a man of whom I am fond—Uncle Remus. Presidents may come and presidents may go, but Uncle Remus stays put. Georgia has done a great many things for the union, but she has never done more than when she gave Mr. Joel Chandler Harris to American literature.

"I suppose he is one of those literary peo-

FORTS TO GUARD PANAMA CANAL.

Secretary Taft Will Take Artillery and Engineer Officers to Isthmus to Prepare Plans.

NAVY TO HAVE STATIONS.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The United States proposes to make the Panama canal absolutely impregnable. Naval stations will be created on both sides of the isthmus for the use of American fleets, and fortifications will be constructed at the entrances of the waterway and at suitable points along the route.

It is a big work which the war and navy departments have undertaken, and it is begun now in order that the defenses of the canal may be completed when the canal itself is inaugurated. The navy department has been preparing for some time to provide means for the naval defense of the canal, and Secretary Taft will take with him to the isthmus within the next ten days the high ranking officers of the artillery and engineer corps to draft plans for the construction of fortifications.

This action on the part of the military arms of the government has created considerable comment among diplomats, especially those representing European powers.

"What," they ask, "has become of the principle of neutralization, which was the basis of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain and which made American construction of the isthmian waterway feasible?"

Powers Cannot Object.

Nothing indicates more clearly the purpose of President Roosevelt to make the canal an American project and to defend it against the world in case of need than his decision to erect fortifications at commanding points upon the route. It is the contention of the administration that there is no ground for objection by any government; that in taking measures to fortify the canal it is simply following a course which was determined upon when the senate amended the first Hay-Pauncefote treaty by stipulating that the principle of neutralization should not apply to measures which the United States might find it necessary to take for securing by its own forces the defense of the United States and the maintenance of public order. The second Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which the senate ratified, contained no reference to fortifications, omitting, in fact, a prohibition against their erection in the original convention. The second section of article III. of the treaty merely provides that the canal should never be blockaded, nor any right of war exercised, nor any act of hostility committed within it. The United States is given power, however, to maintain such military police along the canal as might be necessary to protect it against lawlessness and disorder. The treaty specifically stipulates that it does not impair the "general principle of neutralization" established by the Clayton-Bulwer treaty.

Right to Fortify Unquestioned.

The administration always has gone on the theory that the United States had the right to fortify the canal, if it saw fit, and the Spooner act of 1902 authorized the president to enter into contracts, among other things, for the defense of the canal. In the treaty made with Panama article XXIII. provides if it should become necessary at any time to do so, the United States may establish fortifications for the safety or protection of the canal. Another article of the same treaty binds Panama to sell or lease to this government lands on the Pacific and Caribbean sea coasts for use as naval stations.

The navy department has been receiving reports from ships which have been making surveys, and in a few weeks it will send Lieut. Commander Logan, one of the most capable young officers in the service, to Chiriqui Lagoon, a large bay on the Caribbean coast, for the purpose of making an exhaustive survey to determine whether that place is suitable as a site for a large naval station.

Secretary Taft will take with him to the isthmus when he sails, the last of this month, Brig. Gen. John P. Story, chief of artillery, Maj. William M. Black, and Maj. George W. Goethals, the last two men being engineers. Gen. Story is one of the senior members of the board, which has been preparing plans for the fortification of the United States and its dependencies, revising, in fact, the plans of the Endicott board of 1886, which has been followed in the construction of the land defenses of the country. Maj. Black spent a year upon the isthmus of Panama and is thoroughly familiar

HOW BACON 'RODE THE GOAT.'

Initiated by President Roosevelt Into "Kitchen Cabinet."

TALE OF TRAIL OUT IN RAIN.

Wet, Soaked, and Soggy but Game, and Now a Charter Member.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Robert Bacon, first assistant secretary of state, and former partner of J. Pierpont Morgan, was initiated into the kitchen cabinet last Friday by President Roosevelt. Other members of the kitchen cabinet were Gifford Pinchot, forester of the United States; James R. Garfield, chief of the bureau of corporations; Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, and one or two other close friends of the president.

It rained pitchforks last Friday, and the president had a reception to the American Bankers' association on hand. He got tired after a time and sent word to Pinchot and Bacon to come to the White house at 4 o'clock.

"Put on some old clothes," the president's message said, "for I intend to initiate Bacon."

Take Tramp in Natty Suits.

Bacon is rich, so is Pinchot, and the question of clothes does not bother them much. They were at the White house at 4 o'clock in natty business suits, patent leather shoes, and all that sort of thing. They found the president dressed in an old and disreputable suit with rough rider hat and a pair of heavy shoes. The president looked at Bacon and Pinchot, grinned, and said:

"Come on, we'll take a tramp."

They went out into the rain. The president led the way and took his companions out Pennsylvania avenue, through Georgetown, and down a narrow street to the bank of the canal. There is a bridge about a mile down the canal, but none at the point where the president stopped.

"O, well," said President Roosevelt, "it doesn't matter. Bacon, you take our watches and pocketbooks; Pinchot and I will wade across. You go down to that bridge yonder and meet us on the other side."

"Not by a darn sight," said Bacon, who was athletic himself when he was in college. "I came out on this walk with you and I am going where you go."

"Bully," shouted the president. "Come on, then."

All Three Take Plunge.

He plunged into the canal and Pinchot and Bacon followed. The water was about three feet six inches deep at its deepest point. The three men waded across, the president leading. They were thoroughly wet from the heavy rain, so a further ducking made no difference, but when the president got to the other side and looked at the patent leather shoes and natty business suit of Baron Pinchot he grinned again.

They walked several miles on the other side of the canal and came swinging back to the city about 6 o'clock. The president told Bacon he had been initiated as a full fledged member of the kitchen cabinet. Bacon is now open to all sorts of invitations from the president for exercise in the open air.

When Pinchot got home he was met at the door by an ancient negro mammy who has been in his family for years and who was Pinchot's nurse.

"Well, Massa Gif,' 'said mammy, holding up her hands in horror, "You suhtainly am a sight. You'se been out wif dat president ag'in."

TRADE BRIGAND FOR CAPTIVES.

Offer of Valiente's Brother to Exchange British Prisoners for Kinsman to Be Accepted.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TANGIER, Oct. 20.—Negotiations for the release of Capt. Crowther and Lieut. Hatton, the British marine officers who were captured by Anjera tribesmen under the command of a brother of the imprisoned brigand, Valiente, who offered to set his captives free, in return for the release of his brother, apparently have been successful. Valiente embarked on the torpedo boat destroyer Pathfinder today, and it is understood he is to be taken to Ceuta to be exchanged for the two officers.

William Meister, in attempting to drag the man's body from the wire, met a similar fate.

JURIES TAINTED BY POLITICIANS.

United States Marshal Ames Admits He Selected Talesman at Congressman Snapp's Request.

CUSTOM IS OLD, HE SAYS.

A method of securing jurors that opens the way for political parasitism and even for political control of the federal courts was revealed yesterday in the impaneling of the jury for the two Iroquois theater damage suits before Judge Kenesaw M. Landis.

Two "volunteers" were dismissed summarily by the court, and when it was found that one of them had been entered at the request of Congressman Howard Snapp of Joliet there followed a discussion in which United States Marshal John Ames defended a system that admits "professional" jurors to earn a living from the regular juror's stipend of $3 a day.

Further than that, Marshal Ames declared he would grant any congressman's request that a man whom he believed worthy should be given an opportunity to serve on a jury.

Talesman Tells of His Request.

The incident in the damage suits brought by Edna Hunter and Edith Banschaf against the managers and owners of the Iroquois theater was the first which caused any comment. It was not developed that there was a motive for "packing" the jury, but that the man was desirous of entering the jury box.

John Ryan of Joliet had passed the examination of the defendants' attorneys, but in the questioning by the counsel for the plaintiff strange facts came to light. Ryan stated that he had received word from Congressman Snapp that talesmen would be needed this week and that he came to Chicago last Monday with a letter from Snapp to Marshal Ames asking that he be placed on a jury.

When the facts became known Judge Landis dismissed him curtly, and a few moments later he accorded the same treatment to W. A. Whitman, who had received a "tip" from a stenographer in the marshal's office.

Marshal Ames Indignant.

Marshal Ames was indignant that the Ryan incident should "be taken up as if it were crooked," and declared he had nothing to conceal in the matter. Congressman Snapp, with whom he is slightly acquainted, he said, wrote him several months ago telling him that he would be grateful if he could secure Ryan a place on a jury. Ryan came to his office last Tuesday with a note from the congressman, which, as near as Marshal Ames could remember it, said:

"This will introduce John Ryan, the man about whom I wrote to you. He is a good citizen and will make a good juryman."

The marshal said he told Ryan to give his name to Chief Deputy Patterson and to remain in readiness, as talesmen might be needed at the last of the week.

When Marshal Ames was questioned as to the right and wrong of such a proceeding, he asserted that he believed himself above suspicion and that he had secured many jurors in the same way.

Judge Aware of the Practice.

"Frequently friends of mine have come to me," he said, "with a request that when talesmen are needed I will look up certain men whom they have named. I have repeatedly done this, and when men who I knew would make good jurors come to me with similar requests to be put on a jury I have a clerk take their names and when they are needed I send for them. There is nothing wrong about it, and it has been done with the knowledge of some of the judges.

"The fact that Mr. Snapp is a congressman," he continued, "is no reason why I should refuse a man whom he names. I would do the same thing for any other congressman. There has never been any concealment about it and the practice has not been criticised. I am not concerned with what it might lead to. All I know is that these men make good jurors in every respect. Many of them are retired business men who want something to occupy their time."

Condemned by Judge Landis.

Judge Landis was extremely brief in explaining his attitude toward such a practice.

"This is the first occurrence of the sort that has come to my notice," he remarked, "and all that I can say is that no volunteers will get on my juries if I can prevent it. It is no better than the small town custom of taking courtroom loafers who have become professional jurors. I am afraid this is not a new thing in Chicago, as there are several men who have served on more than one jury in a short space of time to my knowledge."

Judge Landis refused to discuss the possibilities of a long practice of this sort, but would not deny that if a congressman could place several friends on a jury he could not only pay off his protégés in this way, but might in some cases secure control of the verdict.

An apparent effort to avoid further complications in the talesman problem was seen later in Judge Landis' action. He requested the jury commissioners to prepare a list of thirty-five men to be drawn in the regular way, thus doing away with the necessity of issuing subpœnas to be served by deputies upon any persons they choose to select. The new panel will be ready for the Monday morning session, and if the jury is not completed from it another will be ordered at once.

Eight Jurors Are Accepted.

After two days of questioning eight jurors have been accepted, a remarkable progress in a case which has had so much publicity, and it is hoped that the jury will be completed early next week. The four men who were accepted during the day are Louis A. Brucks and F. E. Ball of Chicago, B. L. Franzen, Bensonville; and George Sutfin, Dundee.

Among the persons who were rejected were R. B. Everson, 633 West Sixty-fifth place, who explained that he knew twenty persons who were in the fire; S. J. Steele, 7351 Princeton avenue, who knew a young girl who was killed in the fire; and Frank Wrischig of Cloverdale, who was excused because he was a friend of Dr. Robert Owen of Wheaton, who was in the fire.

A. B. Williams, a clerk in a State street department store, came as a substitute for the head of the department in which he worked, and he was sent back with a warning to his superior that he would be punished unless he appeared to answer the subpœna in person.

After admonishing the jurymen not to discuss the case or to read any literature upon the fire, Judge Landis excused them until Monday morning.

Snapp Explains His Action.

Congressman Snapp at his residence in Joliet last evening said he had given Ryan the note to Marshal Ames at Ryan's urgent request, the time he wrote a personal letter several months ago. He denied that he had sent other men to Ames. He did not know that the Iroquois cases were in progress.

Ryan was fire marshal of Joliet about twelve years ago. Since that time he has lived in apparent idleness. At different times he has been interested in politics.

HUMOROUS WIFE DIVORCED FROM "GROUCHY" HUSBAND.

Des Moines, Ia., Court Takes Only a Half Hour to Separate Woman from Unappreciative Man.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Because her husband, instead of appreciating her efforts at humor, gave her a cold stare whenever she cracked a joke at the table, Mrs. Rosalie Pohlman applied for a divorce today from John Pohlman. It was granted by Judge McHenry within half an hour after the petition, accompanied by the affidavits, was filed.

That Mrs. Pohlman prides herself on a certain ready humor and that she is hurt if her well turned witticisms go unappreciated, is well known to her friends. She was hurt, indeed, when, so far from laughing at her pleasantries and the funny stories told by her children, her husband would commonly greet her efforts with the surly remark:

"What a set of fools you are!"

Finally tiring of living with such a "grouch," Mrs. Pohlman decided to secure a divorce.

KING'S SISTER IS BETROTHED.

Infanta Maria Teresa of Spain Will Wed Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria.

MADRID, Oct. 20.—The betrothal of Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria to the Infanta Maria Teresa, sister of King Alfonso, was formally accomplished today. The prince went to the royal palace, where he signed an act of Spanish naturalization in the presence of the royal family, and this evening a royal banquet was given at the palace in honor of the betrothal, at which the German ambassador was present as the representative of Prince Ferdinand. The marriage is popular and the infanta is much felicitated.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Because his aged mother, who has been in poor health, desired to have all her family together, Robert Mather, president of the Rock Island road, came here from Chicago this morning to take her and J. H. Mather, his brother, and sister-in-law, in a special train to his sister's home in Moline, Ill., where the whole family will be reunited for a few days.

A list of thirty-four wrecks, with a loss of twelve if not twenty lives, was the record of the great storm which swept over the lakes from the west, striking Chicago Thursday night and reaching the lower lakes yesterday. Wires to many important news centers were carried down by the wind, and it was feared by underwriters yesterday that the list, not only of vessels but of the dead, would be doubled when these points were heard from.

The highest velocity reached by the wind at any point was at Cleveland, where it registered seventy-six miles an hour. At Buffalo it blew for some time over fifty miles an hour. At the straits of Mackinac and at several points on Lake Superior snow added to the terrors of the gale. The storm center passed directly over the straits and Sault Ste. Marie, the wind blowing from all directions during a period of twelve hours.

Local Business at Standstill.

Local marine business was brought almost to a standstill on account of the gale. No passenger steamers to the east shore ventured out, and only half a dozen of the stanchest freight carriers cared to brave the norther. The winds brought a fleet of eleven schooners flying down the lake, all of which showed signs of the struggle with the storm at the north end of Lake Michigan.

The heaviest loss of life and property was when the Canadian ship Minnedosa foundered on Lake Huron off Harbor Beach. Nine people went down with the vessel, and the insurance companies will pay $130,000 on the ship and cargo.

Serious Damage at Holland.

Holland, Mich., Oct. 20.—One of the most serious results of the storm on Lake Michigan was the wrecking of the steam barge Kate Lyons off Holland, Mich. Capt. Oscar Henderson and a crew of three men were saved after effecting a thrilling escape from the doomed vessel. Shortly after the sailors took to the ship's lifeboat the barge broke in two, and now lies on the beach, a total wreck.

Bound for Manistee, the Kate Lyons left St. Joseph in the afternoon before the wind had freshened into a gale. It carried a cargo of lumber. At 8 o'clock in the evening, when off Holland and the wind had veered from southwest to northwest and was blowing a gale, Capt. Henderson decided to go into port. He shifted his course, but was unable to make the harbor.

Then he and the crew took to the lifeboat, and after a heroic struggle to prevent the boat from smashing against the pier the men succeeded in making a landing and clambered ashore. Soon after the men landed nearly 150 feet of the government pier was washed away by the heavy sea.

Shores Strewn with Debris.

The shores of Macatawa bay and Ottawa beach at Holland harbor are strewn with wreckage as the result of the storm.

The damage is estimated at $30,000. The waves pounded against the government pier until it broke and part of it was swept into the channel. Sand may have so obstructed the channel as to make navigation impossible this winter.

The water in the bay raised two feet and flooded lawns of hotels. Sail boats and dozens of rowboats were set adrift and knocked to pieces. The boathouse of Charles Scales of Chicago was wrecked and a gas launch and racing sailboat were sunk. The boathouse of F. C. Swett of Chicago was wrecked, but a launch was saved.

No Lake Town Escapes.

At St. Joseph the George F. Happ dock and boat livery was swept away entirely, causing a loss of $3,000. A portion of the dock of the Graham & Morton line also was damaged by the heavy sea.

At South Haven more than 100 feet of the government pier was washed away and considerable damage was done to cottages and other buildings along the shore.

At least 30,000 bushels of pears are on the ground in the orchards between St. Joseph and Muskegon, Mich. The pears are the Kieser variety, which ripens late in the fall. Thousands of bushels of those which blew down were not ready to be picked for several weeks yet, entailing a great loss to the fruit farmers.

Goes Down with Nine.

Harbor Beach, Mich., Oct. 20.—The Canadian schooner Minnedosa foundered two and a half miles off this port in Lake Huron early today. It carried down the entire crew of eight men and the captain's wife.

The Minnedosa was bound from Fort William with 80,000 bushels of wheat for Lake Ontario. It was in tow of the steamer Westmount, which also was towing the barge Melrose. The Melrose and Westmount succeeded in getting into the harbor of refuge late this afternoon, when the loss of the Minnedosa was reported.

The lost boat was in command of Capt. Phillips, who had his wife with him. The names of the other members of the crew cannot be learned here tonight.

Six Rescued After Struggle.

Ludington, Mich., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Clinging helplessly to the trembling rigging of a wrecked vessel, and immersed every minute for four long hours with great waves which swept across and broke over the boat, five men and a woman, the crew of the schooner Vega, were the principals in a rescue made by life savers on the east shore of Lake Michigan tonight.

The Vega is a two masted vessel, and was bound from Cecil Bay to Milwaukee with a load of slabs. All night the little craft battled for life in the great seas that swept Lake Michigan. The wind attained a velocity of sixty miles an hour, and the schooner, scudding under bare poles, was at times completely ingulfed in water.

It was sighted off this port at 10 o'clock this morning, and an hour later came abreast of the piers. But so heavy was the sea that the vessel was unable to make the harbor, and was swept past the piers into the breakers.

It dragged at the anchors for 500 feet, but finally went to the bottom. The sailors took to the rigging, where they clung for four hours, nearly perishing from exposure and exhaustion. They were drenched to the skin and benumbed with cold.

Life Savers Work for Hours.

Meanwhile the Ludington life savers under Keeper George Robinson reached the scene of the wreck by the aid of a tug and a team of horses. The vessel was stranded, about eighty rods south of the channel and forty rods from shore.

It required seven shots with the cannon before a line was finally laid across the deck. The crew soon made the hawser fast in the rigging, but fouled the whip around the heavy line, so that the breeches buoy could not be hauled out. This caused a delay of two hours, and grave fears were entertained lest the spars should break and carry the sailors in the rigging into the lake. The ship rolled frightfully, but the masts held.

The first to come ashore was Mrs. Jergenson, wife of the captain. Amid cheering she was hauled through the breakers to shore unconscious. Her condition is critical, but she will live.

One by one, the captain coming last, the five men were hauled through the surf in the breeches buoy and landed, half drowned, on shore. Some of them were nearly dead from exposure, but all will live.

The Vega will prove a total loss. The rescued were George Jergenson, captain, and wife; John Swanson, Martin Anderson, Thomas Thorsen, and a cook.

Schooner Sinks; Crew Lost?

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 20.—The schooner Tasmania of the Corrigan fleet is sunk two and one-half miles southwest of the Southeast Shoal lightship on Lake Erie.

The barge passed Detroit last night in tow of the Bulgaria, laden with iron ore for Ohio ports. Today when the steamer Walter Scranton passed the lightship the captain saw the spars of a sunken ship extending above water, and from one of them still was flying the Corrigan colors.

The barge Golden Age, in tow of the steamer William Edwards, is stranded on the east bank of the channel in Lake St. Clair, 1,500 feet below the Flats canal. After breaking a towline the Edwards came on here, and a tug will be sent to bring the barge down.

Steamer Beached; One Drowned.

Rogers City, Mich., Oct. 20.—The steamer Joseph S. Fay of Cleveland, owned by the Bradley estate, sprung a leak while fighting the furious gale on Lake Huron, off this port today, and was beached by Capt. Fletcher at Forty Mile Point light, six miles from this city.

The tremendous seas washed off the pilot house after the steamer struck the beach, and Capt. Fletcher and most of the crew of fourteen men drifted ashore clinging to it. All the other members reached shore in safety, clinging to wreckage, except Mate David Syze, who was drowned.

Schooner Sinks; Seven Rescued.

Grand Marais, Mich., Oct. 20.—The schooners Nirvana and Galatea went ashore this morning while trying to enter this port for shelter from the northeast storm. They were in tow of the steamer Barth, which succeeded in making the harbor.

Two Leave Ship; Drowned.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 20.—The steamer Sarah E. Sheldon went ashore four miles east of Lorain this morning. Two of the crew were drowned.

The Sheldon left Cleveland with a cargo of coal Thursday night and was bound up lake. Its troubles began in getting out of the harbor and from then on until it was beached at Lorain it was almost continuously at the mercy of the tempest.

After running ashore it was buffeted and pounded for more than seven hours by the wind and waves. Two tugs from Cleveland, one of which bore the life saving crew of this port, succeeded in rescuing all but two. These two attempted to escape in a small lifeboat and they were swept out to sea and lost.

The drowned men were John Fox, wheelman, and Charles Evans, second mate. The vessel is a complete wreck.

Two Barely Escape with Life.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Capt. Albert Ohman and Gus Parsons, a deck hand, were swept overboard from the schooner Unadilla when the schooner was cast adrift just outside the breakwater in the storm today. They were rescued by Capt. Thomas Lawson of the tug Conneaut, which had put out to the assistance of the Unadilla and Sweetheart, these boats having broken away from the steamer Pringle.

The two men were picked up by the tug in the tremendous seas more dead than alive, and later were taken to the Marine hospital. The Unadilla lost its entire deck load of lumber. The tow was bound from Superior to Tonawanda.

The steamer Western States of the Detroit and Buffalo line, bound here from Detroit, got within a mile of the harbor when it was compelled to turn back. It ran up the lake sixty miles for shelter under Long Point, on the Canadian shore, and will come in in the morning.

Swims Ashore; Saves Six.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 20.—Thrilling scenes attended the rescue of the crew of the schooner Mautanee, which went ashore in the gale eighteen miles east of here early this morning. Soon after the vessel struck the rocks it began breaking up, rendering the position of the crew extremely hazardous.

With no hope of reaching shore in the frail lifeboats, one of the crew volunteered to attempt the feat of swimming to the land with a line. Although nearly exhausted by his fight through the breakers, the gallant seaman succeeded in reaching shore and making the hawser fast.

With a basket improvised as a breeches buoy the entire crew of five, preceded by the cook, Mrs. Kate Daily, was hauled safely to shore. The last report received from the stranded ship was that it had pounded nearly to pieces on the rocks.

SAVES TWO BOYS FROM LAKE.

Fire Lieutenant Minwegen Rows to Rescue—Lads Flee When They Reach Shore.

Two young boys, whose names could not be ascertained, were rescued from drowning yesterday morning by Fire Lieut. Peter Minwegen, when a boat from which they were fishing, 100 yards off shore at the foot of Winona street, capsized. Minwegen witnessed the accident from the door of the Argyle fire station, and running to the shore, launched a row boat and rowed to the rescue. On reaching land both boys, who appeared badly frightened, took to their heels. One was apparently 10 and the other 12 years of age.

INQUIRY FEVER INFECTS INDIANA

Investigation Epidemic, with Goshen as Storm Center, Spreads Over State.

PRESS SLEUTHS ON TRAIL.

Every Hamlet Is on Qui Vive for Postoffice Scandals of Judge Baker Brand.

Northern Indiana is in a ferment of excitement over the Goshen postoffice—violation of the civil service law—scandal. The entire natural gas region from the historical novel zone north to the poet's corner and from the Pink Mink Marsh to the Ohio state line is shaken as never before in its history. Goshen is at present the storm center, but the investigation which began in the Goshen postoffice is expected to be carried on through every postoffice in the state.

Ordinarily this might not produce much interest, but the specter of graft which is stalking across the country has thrown the citizens of Indiana into a feverish condition. They are seein' things at night and looking hourly for horrible revelations. Goshen at present is in throes of agony, with South Bend and Kokomo also in the extreme agitation.

Split Over Baker Decision.

The quiet little city of Goshen, in the eyes of its patriotic citizens, now occupies the place on the public stage which was filled last week by New York and its life insurance scandals and by Peoria and Prof. Dougherty. The town is divided into two hostile camps, made up respectively of those who are with Federal Judge Baker, accused of ordering a postoffice clerk to "cough up" a campaign contribution, and those who are not.

Factional politics seems to play an important part in the Goshen fight. Judge Baker is an adherent of Senator Beveridge. Congressman Brick and Postmaster Sherwin are numbered with the cohorts of Vice President Fairbanks.

Everybody in the town, including democrats, prohibitionists, and all other citizens, regardless of race, sex, or previous condition of servitude, for the time being, at least, seem to have dropped other party affiliations so as to take a deeper interest in the great question of the day. It is all that is spoken of in Goshen. People stand in little groups on the corners and in the courthouse yard and talk over the latest development of the case.

Curiosity Is Disappointed

Judge Baker being in Chicago, Postmaster Sherwin is the center of interest in Goshen, and he attracts as much attention as he walks down the street as a 4-11 fire.

The promised government investigation was most disappointing. When Charles L. Robb, assistant attorney general of the United States and United States District Attorney Joseph Keeling appeared in Goshen two days ago it was expected that something finally was going to happen which would satisfy the public craving to know all about the whole affair, and possibly might result in something entirely new and vastly exciting.

All that could be found out yesterday in Goshen from the disappointed residents in regard to the visit of the officials was that they had come and went. The investigators quietly had slipped into town and gone immediately to the Hascall hotel. They remained hidden in a room while a United States marshal sallied back and forth bringing in succession the postmaster and his clerks. Then before the town was aware of it the federal officials had packed up their belongings and gone away.

Witnesses Shrouded in Mystery

The postoffice clerks were besieged with questions. "What did the investigators ask you? What did you tell them?" But the witnesses were shrouded in mystery. They had been put under a solemn oath not to reveal what happened in the star chamber of the Hascall hotel. They could say nothing.

So the investigation, instead of quieting the popular curiosity and excitement, only fanned it into fiercer heat.

The excitement spread to South Bend through a curious case of mistaken identity. About the time the federal officials finished their work and left Goshen a mysterious stranger arrived at the Lafayette hotel. It had been wired from Goshen that the investigators might pay the South Bend postmaster a visit and so South Bend was on the lookout. Reporters, referred to by the South Bend papers themselves as argus eyed, hunted through the hotels of the town in search of the investigators.

South Bend Holds Its Breath

Finally it was triumphantly announced that one of them had been run to earth. The South Bend papers, each with the firm conviction that it had a great beat, announced that "Acting Assistant Postmaster General Robb is in South Bend and is making his headquarters in room 37 Lafayette hotel."

The Lafayette hotel is not the Waldorf-Astoria of South Bend, but the papers pointed out that Mr. Robb had gone there in the hopes of remaining in town undiscovered until he had completed his investigations.

The announcement that Mr. Robb had arrived produced great excitement. Congressman Abraham Lincoln Brick and his cohorts held anxious conferences as to whether ceremonies of honor and respect, headed by a brass band, should be paid to the distinguished visitor or whether he should be permitted to remain incognito at the Lafayette hotel.

Postmaster Horace Greeley Miller ordered a dress parade of the postoffice staff and the office was given a scouring and the letters and postcards sprayed with eau de cologne. The office cat had its claws manicured and a pink ribbon tied to its tail.

'Twas the Wrong Mr. Wright.

Business stood still in South Bend awaiting the crash. Then the terrible discovery was made that the Mr. Robb at the Lafayette hotel was not the assistant attorney general, but a traveling salesman for sewer pipe.

The tension was relieved. People breathed again and went after their mail without the terrible thought that they were liable to be halted at the threshold of the postoffice and investigated.

But meantime the conviction that Mr. Robb will yet go to South Bend firmly prevails in the town and the citizens are standing by while the argus eyed reporters who dug up the sewer pipe salesman are camping at the depot.

Elkhart, the thriving metropolis half way between Goshen and South Bend, jealous of the proud eminence of its rivals, appeared yesterday as a claimant for honors and cried aloud for investigation. Elkhart citizens pointed with pride to one of the clerks in the Elkhart postoffice who came out with a statement to the effect that during the last campaign he was approached with a demand that he pay 5 per cent of one month's salary to the campaign fund.

Fired After Quiet Fashion.

He refused and the collector asked Postmaster Anderson to enforce discipline. The postmaster refused and his friends claim that this was the reason of his removal by Congressman Brick, who appointed Dr. C. M. Eisenbeiss.

They were saying yesterday at Elkhart that had Postmaster Anderson compelled his clerks to pay up their assessments as Postmaster Sherwin did, Congressman Brick would not have lopped off his head.

Still, as a farmer in the postoffice who was discussing the great question with some neighbors, said: "And anyhows, ef Anderson had made the feller pay up so that Abe Brick wouldn't have fired him, why, then this here investigation would have happened and he would have been fired anyhow. Might jest as well lose his job from one as tother. Politiks are mighty uncertain, anyhow."

Woman Arrested in Male Attire Reluctantly Goes Back to Skirts.

As A Young Man.

In Her Real Character.

Mrs. Augusta Helvey.

Mrs. Augusta Helvey, the young St. Louis woman who was arrested in Van Buren street while seeking work in male attire, reluctantly has decided to go back to skirts. She told Justice Caverly at the Harrison street police court that she would be glad to exchange her "glorious freedom" for a little substantial freedom from the bridewell.

Her case was set for Monday. Then friends furnished a cash bond of $50 and some wearing apparel and she left the station. She has lost her position as "waiter" at a downtown hotel, but says she means to apply there for work as a waitress.

"But I do hate to give up trousers," she said. "I may be jeopardizing my defense by saying that, but it is the truth. For four days the world has been mine.

"That sounds sentimental, but it is a cold fact that I find I can earn from twice to three times as much money in a pair of trousers as I can in skirts."

Mrs. Helvey is 26 years old and came originally from Fairbury, Neb. There she married a man named Vaughan, from whom she secured a divorce in St. Louis four years ago. She came to Chicago on Sunday to seek work, having donned some of her husband's clothes. While here she resided with Mrs. A. M. Ross, 3501 Wabash avenue, who helped her keep the secret.

LABOR FEUD MORE BITTER

DELEGATES TOO HOSTILE TO RETURN ON SAME TRAIN.

Reform Element Refuses to Ride with Victorious "Skinny" Madden Crowd—Barney Cohen Announces Policy of "Old Style" Unionism—Striking Printers Cause Inspection of Nonunion Men's Quarters, Resulting in Changes for Better Sanitation.

Chicago delegates to the state federation of labor convention at Danville came home on different trains last night, the "lily whites," as the reform element has been termed, declaring that the same train could not hold both them and the "Skinny" Madden faction.

The bitterness engendered between the factions was not sweetened any by the last day's session of the convention, which again was dominated by the Madden delegates. Just before adjournment the Madden men devoted an hour to grilling the leaders among the "purification" faction. They also administered a death blow to the scheme for holding labor elections by popular vote, which the "lily whites" made strenuous efforts to have adopted.

Prevent Debate on Floor.

The referendum vote plan was killed in the committee's report and thus the Madden party precluded the possibility of any debate on the floor of the convention.

Barney Cohen, the reëlected president of the federation, headed the homecoming delegation of Madden adherents. According to his declaration, there will not be any peace for the "reformers" in the labor movement in Chicago from this time on.

"I stand for trade unionism pure and simple," said Cohen, "and not for wishy-washy reforms. There is too much politics in labor organizations. I intend to begin a crusade for a return to old style unionism, and that means a cleaning out of all those leaders who profess to be engaged in purifying the labor movement."

Solicitous for Nonunionists.

Striking union printers, suspecting that the apartments occupied by the nonunion printers were not sanitary, complained to the health department and caused an inspection to be made of the quarters at 339 Dearborn street, where sixty nonunion workers have been housed. As a result changes were made in the building to comply with the ordinance.

Members of the freight handlers' union are searching for men who have defrauded west side business men of considerable money that might eventually have found its way into the coffers of the organization. Scores of tickets have been sold for a ball which the supposed friends of the union said would be given on "Wednesday, Oct. 22." On the back of the ticket is printed, "You will have the time of your life as sure as Wednesday comes on Oct. 22." Wednesday will not fall on Oct. 22 for several years.

DENIES ALLIS-CHALMERS TALE.

President Whiteside Says Report Company Has Been Absorbed Is Stock Jobbing Story.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The Bullock Electric company of Cincinnati has been absorbed by the Allis-Chalmers company. The General Electric company has purchased a majority of the Allis-Chalmers common stock, according to reports of E. C. Converse of Pittsburg, as a result of a deal which has been made by the directors of the three companies.

A few weeks ago the capital stock of the Bullock company was increased to $5,000,000 to enlarge the plants. The Allis-Chalmers company, a rival of the General Electric, leased the Bullock company in March, 1904.

The price at which the General Electric obtained control, it is reported, was $25 a share for common stock.

President Whiteside of the Allis-Chalmers company tonight said:

"You probably have heard that the Bullock plant increased its capital," he said. "So far as the General Electric story is concerned, it is merely a stock brokers' rumor. I do not care to talk about affair."

COURT HITS EXPRESS COMPANY

Decision That Concern Was Dealing in Liquors and Was Not Acting as Carrier Confirmed.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 20.—Judge Phillips, in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in affirming the decision of the federal court for North Dakota in the case against the Western Express company, decided that the express company in furnishing beer to customers was acting not as a common carrier, but as a wholesale and retail dealer in liquors. The lower court assessed the express company $3,800 for violation of the national excise law. This ruling is affirmed.

Woman Found Dead in House.

Mrs. Josephine Danda, 34 years old, was found dead in her house, 1405 South Forty-first avenue, by her husband, Michael Danda, when he returned from work last night. The cause of her death is not known, although the police learned that treatment administered by Mrs. Mary Zalezna, 618 West Eighteenth street, had something to do with it. Detectives are searching for Mrs. Zalezna.

Cuts $30,000 Fee to $15,000.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 20.—The state Supreme court today decided that the fee of $30,000 allowed by the Ramsey District court to Charles E. Otis, one of the attorneys of the Wilder estate, for services in connection with the litigation over the Amherst-Wilder $1,000,000 charity bequest should be cut to $15,000.

SHALL CHURCHES CONTROL MONEY FOR INDIAN SCHOOLS?

Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Noble Red Man Unable to Agree on a Policy.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The distribution of Indian tribal funds held in trust by the government to churches for educational purposes caused a lively discussion in the Mohonk conference of Friends of the Indians today.

Congressman John J. Fitzgerald, a member of the Catholic church and of the committee on Indian affairs, said that he should oppose any interference with President Roosevelt which aimed to have him change his present attitude towards the distribution of tribal funds to church schools.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, the presiding officer, said that while the government had a settled policy against giving government funds to Indian schools, he considered it far worse to distribute tribal funds for school purposes upon the request of the people.

"If the Indian is capable of handling his own money," added Dr. Abbott, "let the guardian hand it all over to him to use as he will, but do not let the Catholics and Protestants go around among the tribes circulating petitions and exploiting sectarian matters in this harmful way."

ASKS ENDOWMENT FOR NURSES.

Principal of Training School Wants Financial Help to Educate Women for Work in Foreign Fields.

The Chicago Training School for Nurses, 4949 Indiana avenue, last evening celebrated its twentieth anniversary with an elaborate musical program and addresses by members of the faculty.

Mrs. Lucy R. Meyer, principal of the school, urged the securing of an endowment of $200,000 to defray the expenses of deserving young women who desire to become nurses and take up missionary work in foreign fields.

During the existence of the school 2,000 young women have been in attendance and 1,000 have been graduated.

Moore of the Fifty-third District court today filed suit against fifteen railroads of Texas for sums ranging from $3,000 to $25,000. THIEF'S CACHE IS FOUND.

TRUNK DISCLOSES $9,000 OF ADAMS EXPRESS ROBBER.

Police, by Shadowing Friend of E. G. Cunliffe, Who Took $101,000 in Pittsburg, Find Part of Sum He Declared He Had Burned, and Remaining $10,500, It Is Believed, Will Be Found—Friend's Betrayal Was Cause of Arrest in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The discovery of $9,065 in a trunk here, a part of the $101,000 stolen by E. G. Cunliffe from the Adams Express company in Pittsburg, disproves his statement that he burned $20,000, and leads the police to believe that the $10,500 still missing or unaccounted for will be found. Cunliffe was taken to Pittsburg today and is in jail there.

The $9,065 was found in a trunk belonging to a butler in a prominent family at Black Rock, but the butler and the family are ignorant of the fact that it was the house.

The discovery of the money in the Black Rock home was brought about by keeping a close watch on one of Cunliffe's chance acquaintances, George Eisenman, who was with Cunliffe when he was arrested yesterday morning. He met Cunliffe in a cheap hotel Wednesday night. Cunliffe gave a package to Eisenman to take care of. He said it was laundry.

Finds Big Sum in Bundle.

Eisenman took the bundle to his sister's house, opened it and found the big sum of money.

Capt. Arnold of the detective bureau, who knows Eisenman, had him shadowed all today, and he was seen to give a small package to his friend, the butler. Tonight Eisenman was taken to the Black Rock house and asked the butler for the package. The latter turned it over to Capt. Arnold.

It came out tonight that Cunliffe had tried to bribe Capt. George Arnold of the local detective force, also that Cunliffe had been betrayed by a friend to secure the reward of $2,500 offered by the Pinkertons for his arrest.

During one of the talks with Capt. Arnold Cunliffe last night proposed to divide the $80,000 which he had sent to his brother-in-law, Joseph W. Boardman, in Bristol, on the promise of secrecy.

Arnold led the prisoner on his wild proposition, and after Cunliffe's plans were laid bare the detective told Cunliffe that the money he had intended to split up had already been found in Bristol.

Friend Betrays Cunliffe.

The betrayal of Cunliffe was by James Missett, who formerly lived in Bristol and knew Cunliffe well. Missett went in the Tremont hotel barroom and saw Cunliffe standing at the bar, and said: "Hello, Cunliffe, what are you doing here?"

Cunliffe turned around and pretended not to know Missett, who left the barroom in a hurry, and when outside inquired the amount of the reward offered for the capture of Cunliffe. The next morning Missett went to New York and on reaching there visited the Pinkerton agency in Broadway.

He said he knew where Cunliffe was and wanted to know what reward was offered for him.

He was told $2,500.

Missett assured them that he was in earnest, and said that if they would give him a written agreement that he would get the reward if he told them where the missing man could be found he would do so. This was agreed to and Missett told them. The arrest of Cunliffe followed.

Altogether about $90,000 has been recovered or accounted for. Almost $80,000 was found in his suit case in Bristol.

Low Spirited Over Failure.

Cunliffe was low spirited when he arrived today in Pittsburg. The finding of so much of the money by the detectives set the robber's plans awry. It had been his intention to trade on his secret and secure lenient treatment. And it is believed that his statement of having burned $20,000 is for the same purpose, and that eventually he will give out the secret of its hiding place.

The man's expenses during the ten days that he carried $100,000 about with him reached only $15 a day. His room in Bridgeport was $2.50 a week. He did not mingle in the gayety of the little hotel, and made no show of his money. A girl with whom Cunliffe had spent much of his time was found to know nothing of his having so large a sum.

In the suit case a pair of shoes held $10,000. Layers of banknotes separated shirts and other garments.

Bridgeport police are watching several individuals there, hoping to trace the remainder of the stolen money through them.

PURITY LEADER ASSAILS ACT.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grannis Repudiates Move of Conference Looking to New Organization.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Elizabeth B. Grannis of New York, president of the National Christian league for the promotion of purity, has repudiated the action of the National Purity conference in taking steps providing for the formation of a new permanent national purity organization in the meeting at Chicago next year.

The closing session of the conference was marked by serious dissension between Mrs. Grannis and the delegates, who at a meeting a few hours previous, which she did not attend, elected temporary officers and completed plans for a new organization.

Mrs. Grannis claimed that as head of the National Christian league she should have been consulted, but instead she was put at work on resolutions, and during her absence a plan for a new national organization was hastily carried through. She does not propose to allow the new association to usurp the powers of the league she represents and which has been in existence for twenty years.

OOM PAUL'S RELATIVE IN LUCK.

Paul G. Kruger of Yakima, Wash., and Sister, Mrs. Hoffman of Chicago, Get Large Estates.

North Yakima, Wash., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Paul G. Kruger learned today that he is wanted in Chicago by his half-sister, Mrs. Martha Hoffman, who has been hunting for him for months to settle an estate worth $50,000 which has been left to him.

Part of this comes from Germany and the other part is from the estate of his sister, Mrs. R. P. Rheim, who, with her husband and two children, lost their lives in the Iroquois fire. Rheim left three apartment houses. Kruger and his half-sister, it turns out, are the only living heirs of the Rheims in America.

Mr. Kruger is a grandnephew of Oom Paul of the Transvaal, with whom he staid during the year 1898. His father was Ernest G. Kruger, a colonel of the German dragoons, who was killed at the battle of Deppel Shatzen, Denmark, in 1867, and left a large estate, consisting of coal lands.

CRY OF FIRE IN A THEATER.

Fight in Gallery of the People's Causes Many of Audience to Run for Exits.

Two men started a fight in the balcony of the People's theater, West Van Buren and Leavitt streets, last evening, and their shouts were mistaken for cries of "fire." Many people rose from their seats and rushed for the doors before learning the cause of the trouble. The men were arrested, and at the Warren avenue police station said they were William Goggin, 17 years old, and Edward Lyons, 20 years old. Before they submitted to arrest a riot call had been sent in, and the arrival of the patrol wagon loaded with policemen added to the excitement. Before the arrival of the wagon Special Policeman George Green detailed at the theater, had been knocked down and kicked by the struggling men. The performance on the stage was interrupted for fifteen minutes.

Injured Boy May Die Unidentified.

Despite the efforts of the police to learn the identity of the 14 year old boy who was crushed between two heavy cars at Clark and Polk streets Thursday afternoon, it is thought he will die as a result of a fractured skull at the Emergency hospital without being identified. The boy was well dressed, wearing a blue serge suit and a sailor cap. He is thought to be the son of well to do parents.

FRESH SCANDALS IN BANK FAILURE.

Allegheny Concern Said to Have Paid $100,000 to Secure State Deposits.

WHO GOT THE BIG BRIBE?

Cashier Clark, Before Killing Himself, Made Written Confession Involving Many.

Pittsburg, Pa. Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Scandal treads upon the heels of scandal, following the suicide of Cashier Clark and the closing of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny.

Despite positive denials, it is declared tonight that the bank's shortage will reach a total of $1,200,000.

Two startling features developed today. One was that Clark had left a complete confession, giving in minute detail all his dealings with Pennsylvania politicians, and showing when, how, and to whom the "political" loans were made. The confession, it is said, was found in the vaults by Bank Examiner Cunningham, who declines to make it public.

The other sensation was the allegation that the Enterprise National bank paid a commission of $100,000 to some party or parties for being designated as a depository of state funds. Who got the $100,000 has not yet developed, but it is believed the bank's books will disclose the guilty person or persons.

Appeal to Senator Penrose.

It is said, however, that immediately after the bank closed Wednesday, a telegram was sent Senator Boies Penrose, in Philadelphia, imploring him to hasten to Washington, and to use all his influence with the national banking authorities to prevent any knowledge of the payment of commissions for the use of state funds becoming public. How well the senator succeeded is not known, but so far no reference to this payment of $100,000 has been made public.

President Fred Gwinner of the bank, says he has no knowledge of the payment of such a commission, but as it appears from the statements of the directors themselves that Cashier Clark was the whole bank, this does not impeach the truth of the assertion that such a commission was paid.

Interest in the Confession.

Public interest centers almost exclusively upon the confession of Cashier Clark, which is said to implicate many prominent state politicians. The bank officials and directors were assured positively by Cashier Clark not later than Saturday or Monday last that the bank had no political paper in its vaults.

Whether the bank examiner can properly retain possession of the confession remains to be disclosed. Attorneys asked about the matter today said they thought it should properly be in the possession of the coroner of Alleghany county and be submitted in evidence at the inquest over Cashier Clark's body.

Coroner Joseph Armstrong's political affiliations are with men who are not anxious for any disclosures, especially so shortly before election. The time for the inquest has not yet been fixed.

Many Politicians Involved.

A statement was made today by a reliable man that there are other politicians interested in the closing of the Enterprise National bank besides those already named by President Gwinner and other directors. A man in the inner circle of local politics said today:

"I have positive information that this bank has for years been a regular clearing house for politicians, and that men of all factions have met here on common ground to negotiate loans and further their campaigns with ready money when needed.

"It has been notorious for years in political circles that the Enterprise bank was the place to get 'what you needed.' I have even heard that the board of directors was carefully selected with a view of having men on it who would be too honest themselves and too unsophisticated to suspect any dishonesty around them, so that in time they would become mere figureheads in their own bank, from the president down, leaving the management of its affairs to one man or to a group of men, some of whom would not be officially connected with the bank in any capacity."

Will Not Shield Politicians.

It is believed that the directors will not stand for any further political deals. They are thoroughly aroused, and feel that they have been made the dupes of Cashier Clark and the state political gang. This feeling of resentment has taken stubborn form and has fixed their determination to lay bare to their depositors and to the stockholders every transaction of the bank with state politicians through the cashier, whether the controller of the currency makes a practice of it or not."

"There is not a politician on the directorate," said W. A. Selling, the youngest member on the board, tonight. "We are just plain busines men on the board of directors of this bank, and the depositors are our neighbors and friends. They have the right to know all that has transpired, and I am of the opinion that their desire to understand what has happened will be gratified."

Penrose Denies It Again.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.—United States Senator Boise Penrose tonight denied emphatically all rumors connecting him with loans in the Enterprise National bank at Allegheny. He said:

"I have no obligations of any kind in the Enterprise National bank. I am not connected in any way, directly or indirectly, with notes of W. H. Andrews, if there are any such in the Enterprise National bank. I have no interest whatever in the Pennsylvania Development company or with any other project in New Mexico. Any intimations to the contrary are malicious falsehoods for political effect."

New Jersey Banks Closed.

Passaic, N. J., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The private banks of Michael Lujanovitz here and in Boonton were closed today by the state commissioner of banking and insurance because of irregularities which indicated an apparent shortage of $4,000. The two banks are patronized by Huns, Slavs, and Magyards in the mill district of Passaic.

LA FOLLETTE GIVES OUT PLANS.

Governor Will Go to Senate, Lenroot to State Executive's Place, and Connor to Congress.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Robert La Follette will go to the United States senate. Speaker Irvine Lenroot of Douglas county will be the candidate of the governor to replace him as chief executive. Lieut. Gov. Davidson is to be sidetracked and W. D. Connor is to be placated with a nomination for congress in the Tenth district.

Such is Gov. La Follette's plan for the future distribution of the Wisconsin political plums.

These plans of the governor are now definitely known. In a recent conference with one of his chief lieutenants in Chicago Gov. La Follette announced his decision.

INDIANA ROADS EXONERATED.

Commission Says Difference in Coal Rates, in This Specific Instance, Is Not Discrimination.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The Indiana railroad commission handed down a decision today exonerating the state's trunk line corporation against charges of discrimination in coal hauling rates. It is declared that differences in rates do not mean discrimination, necessarily. The railroads delivered coal to manufacturers from Indiana coal fields for 60 cents a ton but charged private consumers 85 cents. The commission holds that factories, by giving railroads something to haul away in the nature of manufactured products, compensate them for low rates, while private consumers cannot do this.

Clothes Attract Clever Fellows

A stock broker of Columbus, Ohio, spent yesterday on La Salle Street. Returning to the Auditorium hotel he was attracted by the ultra cut and finish of an overcoat displayed in our window. On entering the store he expressed surprise that it was a ready-to-wear shop. He said: "I was under the impression that it was a shop of ———. (He mentioned the name of a well known Chicago tailor.)

He bought the overcoat. Next winter we will sell him all his business suits. Overcoats ready-to-wear.

Northwestern National Life Said to Have Paid Former Minnesota Officers $5,000 to Suppress Report.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 20.—The Hennepin county grand jury, it is stated, has secured evidence that the former officers of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company paid money to former state officers for corrupt purposes.

It is alleged that two former state officers were paid $5,000 in a room at the Ryan hotel for suppressing a report exposing the corruption of the old company.

It is alleged, also, that the democratic and republican state committees each received a campaign contribution of $1,000.

Labor Commissioner Williams admits that he was offered $1,000 for the state committee, but that Mr. Johnson, who was the candidate for governor, would not agree to name the man for insurance commissioner that the old officers of the Northwestern National wanted. Williams insists the republican committee gave the required pledges and received the money.

The Northwestern Life Insurance company as reorganized is not concerned in this investigation.

JEROME ANSWERS MURPHY CHARGES

New York District Attorney Denies He Sought Place on Tammany Ticket.

TALKS PLAINLY TO CHIEF.

Calls Ahearn Only a Tool, Forced to Do Bidding of the Gang.

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—District Attorney Jerome went up to Zeltner's hall at One Hundred and Seventieth street and Third avenue tonight and talked to 2,000 cheering, shouting enthusiasts for an hour. He had announced that he was going to answer the Murphy "charges" that Jerome secretly had sought to make a deal with Murphy for the Tammany nomination.

Jerome started out after Murphy without any preliminaries, saying:

"It is only such a little question, so few words in it: 'Where did you get it?' Whence came your automobile? Did you find it under one of your barns? Did somebody send it to you in a registered letter? Only such a little question: 'Where did you get it?' and it calls forth columns in newspapers from the great Panatata of them all.

"Now, I said I would answer the 'gentleman from Good Ground' this evening. The only trouble is, you won't be able to keep him talking. It will be like Devery in the last campaign—they will fall on him and suppress him after tonight; he won't say any more.

"I read that the 'Great one of Good Ground' says 'Jerome sent a confidential man to me on two or three occasions on his own behalf.' I find that 'confidential man' one John Ahearn, says 'I took it upon myself to ask him if he would accept the nomination of district attorney at the hands of Tammany Hall.' My gracious; in criminal court, where there is an indictment with such a variance between the allegation and the proof, we would throw that indictment out!

"Let me say to you, when he says I even agreed to join the Tammany Hall general committee he told that which was not true. I never did. But mind you, I should have no shame in joining the Tammany Hall general committee. There is no man whose memory I reverence or love more than that of my father. He was a member of that committee. I believe in the organization, but I don't believe in despotism.

Tells What Did Happen.

"Now let me tell you what did happen at this first alleged interview, when Ahearn says he took it upon himself to ask me if I would accept a Tammany hall nomination for district attorney. Some months ago Ahearn came to my office. I always had been glad to see him, and am glad to see him now. He hasn't done the square thing, he hasn't done altogether the truthful thing, but don't I know what it means to have those fellows put the gaff to you?

"Ahearn came to me in good faith, with his heart full of friendship, believing that the greatest thing in the world he could do for any man was to get him on the Tammany hall ticket. He honestly believed it, and he came to me months ago and said: 'Jerome, if they gave you the nomination, would you reject it?'

"'Why,' I said, 'Ahearn, any body of citizens whose nomination I could accept with honor, I will accept. That is all there is to it.'

"And as for my discussing and making it a condition that McClellan should or should not be on the ticket, all that is an absolute absurdity. On its face it requires no contradiction or refutation.

"He did say in this interview a true thing, that I had said I had done McClellan a wrong. I did say that, and I had. And no man regrets it more than I do.

"Well, poor Johnny Ahearn finally develops a second interview with me. He lunched with me. Aha! O, how my opponent, poor Jim Osborne, would dwell on that before a jury. Gentlemen, he lunched with me. Well, he did lunch with me. I have lunched with better; I have lunched with worse men. He says he got a phone from somebody. So did I. There was a third man present who got us together, who suggested that Johnny Ahearn was anxious to see me. Well, there wasn't any reason why I should not see him.

Why Don't You See Murphy?

"So we went to lunch. That interview reads along:

"'I said to him, "If you are a candidate for district attorney, why don't you go and see Murphy?"'

"Shades of the lamented Devery. Old Bill Devery, with the wisdom that experience had taught him, said to an errant cop one day in a trial court, 'When you are caught with the goods on you, don't say nothin'.'

"Has my weak voice been raised to say that liberty is dead in this land? And here is the proof: 'If you are a candidate for district attorney by Tammany Hall, why don't you go and see Mr. Murphy?'

"Now what actually happened there is this: that Ahearn, coming with friendship in his heart—as the little fellow feels, as he feels today—and I don't want to say a mean word about him, because many a year will roll by before he will forget his effort to strike me a blow. He is too white and decent and loyal, is that little heart that is in that breast of his.

"And I do not want to see anything that will make his life harder; but this ruthless hand from Good Ground has reached out and just as poor Armitage Matthews was driven to his death by another gang of political outcasts, so the brave little fellow has been driven to take the platform and strike his friend, or try to. And that is political freedom!

What the Convention Did.

"I am accused not only of sending a confidential man, but of stooping to his liveried chauffeurs, and the sage of Good Ground stands and says, 'No, he would not see Jerome.' There is no reason for me to see him,' that his case (mind you, that is, my case) is in the hands of the convention.'

"In the hands of the convention! Why, he knows that he is a lia—tut! hush! He knows he was not telling the truth when he said it. He knows that up to 8 o'clock and after that the convention was sitting there waiting for the bosses downstairs.

"Murphy's convention waited until finally a slip of paper—and this is the absolute truth, I mean what I tell you, that committee that was to take it upstairs didn't know who a candidate was until they got that slip of paper handed them, they walked upstairs into the convention, and, hurrah, they were off in the stretch. And that is democracy; but not my kind. Not today; not tomorrow, and not so long as on this fair footstool of God I live. To be ruled by Good Ground—for these fellows to get a slip handed to them on a piece of paper from J. Sargent Cram or somebody, and, then, like a liveried chauffeur at Good Ground, to stand, saying, 'yes, Mr. Murphy, thank you, yes.'"

Asks Folk to Help Jerome.

William B. Hornblower has signed and sent out the following call to Gov. Folk of Missouri:

"The undersigned citizens of New York, without regard to party, invite and urge you, for the sake of good government, and in order to keep in office a fearless, faithful public servant, to come on and speak for Jerome."

William M. Ivins, candidate for mayor, opened his campaign before several thousand people at Carnegie hall. He declared the discussion of the resumption of franchises for surface and underground transportation purely academic, "in view of the poverty of the city," and said no public utility franchise should be granted in perpetuity, but put himself on record against confiscation. He termed Mayor McClellan a "subtle politician," and said an effort has been made to "distract attention from the main issue, namely, honest and efficient administration, to public ownership."

Mayor McClellan made a tour of Brooklyn tonight, speaking in several places.

W. R. Hearst and other candidates on the Municipal Ownership league ticket spoke at east side rallies.

BOYS WORK; FATHERS IDLE

VARIETY OF CASES IN JUSTICE HURLEY'S COURT.

In Some the Parent Rests and Keeps Children Out of School to Help Support Family; in Others He Toils and Makes All the Rest Do Same—One Lad Acts as Nurse for Three Little Brothers and Sisters Who Are Motherless.

It was fathers' day in Justice Hurley's court yesterday. A roomful of men were tried for violating the compulsory education law and there were all kinds of cases, from the fond papa who was satisfied to know that "everybody works but father," to the parent who worked himself and insisted that everybody else work, too.

It was toward the close of the afternoon that the case against Rufus Ellsworth, 317 Grand avenue, was announced for trial. Mrs. Ellsworth, the wife, took the stand, having a wan, sorrowful look in her face. She told how it all happened. Her husband was of a restful disposition, so the two grown sons and one daughter all secured positions and were working every day. Then the mother felt she ought to toil, so she went downtown and found employment.

Once Tried to Keep Policy Shop.

This left Ralph, a 13 year old lad, to roam the streets. He was found by truant officers and the father was arrested. Rufus testified that he once tried to start a business and work, but his wife objected.

"I installed a policy shop in my house," he declared, "but my wife wouldn't stand for it and tore up the sheets. Now they are all working but me."

"Your honor," observed W. L. Bodine, superintendent of compulsory education, who was prosecuting the cases, "it seems that this is a case where everybody works but father, and he sits around all day."

"So it appears from the testimony," replied the justice. "I think under the circumstances that a brief sojourn in the county jail would do this man good." Ellsworth thereupon was committed to a cell because he had no money with which to pay his fine of $10 and costs.

Father Works Family and Public.

The case of Jacob Minguel, 793 Ogden avenue, next came up to add a striking chapter to the series. Evidence was introduced to show that he worked but insisted on all the rest of the family working, too. The testimony showed that he had caused his 10 year old daughter Stella to be taken from the John Crerar school and taught to beg on the streets. It was charged that the little girl had been sent to Englewood, where she was made to go from house to house begging for money or anything useful.

"This is certainly a contrast to the case before," remarked Supt. Bodine. "Here it is a case of the father working and working everybody else, too, including the public."

The crowds in the courtroom smiled, and the amusing situation drew a broad grin even from Justice Hurley. Minguel also was sent to jail.

Six fathers of the Seward school district were fined for failing to observe the compulsory law. They were arrested in a raid of the district by truant officers.

Sad Case; $5 Fine.

A boy of school age cannot be kept away from his studies to act as nurse for his younger brothers and sisters in his own home. This question was settled by Justice Hurley when he decided that Dominick Bagdonas, 13 years old, should be sent to school immediately, despite the fact that he had been taking care of his three motherless brothers and sisters.

The case came up in the arrest of the lad's father, John Bagdonas, Forty-fifth and Honoré streets, for allowing Dominick to remain away from school. The father was fined $5 and costs for neglecting to send Dominick to school. Judge Hurley explained his decision thus:

"The case is sad, but I cannot allow any boy to stay out of school to become a nurse for other children."

TRADER UNABLE TO AID MOTHER

Member of the Board of Trade Tells Judge He Cannot Give $3 a Week to Parent.

Alonzo C. Curry, a member of the board of trade, told Judge Pond in the County court yesterday that he was unable to pay $3 a week toward the support of his mother, Viana Curry, 65 years old. He had been summoned to show why he had failed to make the payments for the last two months.

Curry said his board of trade membership was worth $3,000, and that although daily he made "trades" in the wheat pit he had earned only $40 in the last two months. He said he could not sell his membership because it was involved.

On cross examination it came out that Curry has a sister, Mrs. H. J. Stewart, who also had been paying $3 a week toward the support of their mother, who now lives with a family by the name of Eastman, living at 417 Warren avenue in Ravenswood.

Curry told the court he was willing to take his mother to his own home and care for her, but that he would never go to the Eastman home to get her. Why he took this stand Judge Pond after several questions put to Curry was unable to learn. On Curry's promise to resume payments as soon as he was able the case was ended.

SEEKS REFUGE IN BRIDEWELL.

Frederick Ryan Appeals to Police for a Sentence That Will Give Him Winter Comfort.

Frederick Ryan will be thankful to any person who will give testimony against him that will result in a bridewell sentence. Ryan, who lives at 194 Gault court, shivered and chattered his way into the Chicago avenue police station last evening.

"My, but it's getting cold," he muttered. "Guess if it keeps up this way it'll be too cold for me this winter."

He walked up to Desk Sergeant Carey and requested that he be locked up.

"Have some copper appear against me in court in the morning," he said, "and have me sent out for $25 worth—make it more if you can. I want to make a winter's inspection of the bridewell."

Ryan said prospects for a winter's work were poor and the prospects for winter's cold were good. He will be arraigned before Justice Mayer this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct.

ALLEGED GAMBLERS ARRESTED

Rooms on South and North Sides Are Raided and Twenty-four Men Are Captured.

Word circulated among the gambling fraternity that "the lid had been lifted" proved to be erroneous yesterday, when twenty-four men were arrested by detectives. Those arrested are:

Amberg, Adam, and eleven inmates, at North Clark street and Chicago avenue.
Decker, Frank, and seven inmates, at Forty-third street and Ashland avenue.
Smith, Edward, and one inmate, at Clark and South Water streets.
Taylor, L. D., and one inmate, 3210 Cottage Grove avenue.

When Chief Collins was informed that the cigar dealers are circulating a petition with 5,000 signatures to induce him to lift the "lid" on the gambling devices in the stores he declared in the afternoon that he will not alter his decision that the slot machines are to be barred entirely.

MURDER HALTS A WEDDING.

Boston Man Goes to Lexington, Ky., to Marry and Man Found with Fiancee Is Killed.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 20.—After a courtship of six years William King, a horse trainer of Boston, came here to wed Katherine Sebree. When he went to the young woman's home to be married he found C. W. Scott, a whisky salesman, there. Scott was shot just beneath the eye and is not expected to live. King claims the bride-to-be shot Scott and the young woman denied it.

JEALOUS WOMAN OWNS TO MURDER.

May Buckley Confesses That She Killed Mrs. Clara McCluskey.

HER RIVAL IN LOVE.

Slayer Trailed by Tracks in Mud from Saloon at 666 West Madison Street.

May Buckley last evening, after hours of questioning by the police, confessed that she shot and killed Mrs. Clara A. McCluskey in the doorway of Mrs. McCluskey's saloon, 666 West Madison street. The murder, which was committed a short time after 1 o'clock yesterday morning, was prompted by jealousy.

Mrs. McCluskey's death was instantaneous, and no word suggesting the identity of her assailant escaped her. The slayer, as was discovered later, ran through the mud covered alley in the rear of the saloon and fled into "Vic" Abrams' barroom, one block away. There she told the story to Abrams. Encouraged by him to secrecy, she evaded the police until noon, when she was arrested.

Even then she stubbornly refused to admit to the police any knowledge of the affair, and only after she was confronted with the statements of two women to whom also she had told of the murder, was Lieut. Harding enabled to extract a confession of the crime.

The woman is about 32 years old and speaks in tones and with a choice of words that distinguish her from the other women taken by the police in connection with the affair. She refused to discuss her own career back of recent months.

Police Follow Clews.

After the shooting the police were not long in securing clews to the murderer. In the mud imprints of a woman's feet could be seen approaching from Paulina street to the rear door of the saloon. Then the footprints could be discerned at a greater distance apart, as if the woman was running rapidly, leading to Lincoln street. That determined that the slayer was a woman.

At 9 a. m. Mabel Marchesseault, who acted as a day bartender in the place, arrived. She was taken at once to the Lake street station.

"May Buckley has done this," she declared. "She has threatened many times to kill Mrs. McCluskey and now she has done it."

The story of the women's broken partnership and friendship was told by their former employé. Since getting a divorce from her husband, eight years ago, Mrs. McCluskey had conducted several saloons on the west side. Last May she opened the one at 666 West Madison street, taking as a partner Mrs. Buckley. Two months later the partnership was dissolved, Mrs. Buckley selling out her interest for $250.

Quarrels Due to Jealousy.

Quarrels between the women had been frequent. The attention of Albert Tyreman, Mrs. Buckley's alleged husband, to Mrs. McCluskey had been the cause. Last Tuesday night Mrs. Buckley had appeared at the place and a quarrel started. Tyreman was the cause of this row.

After learning these facts Lieut. Harding detailed detectives to locate Tyreman and Mrs. Buckley. It was found they had been living together at 870 West Madison street. Tyreman later was found at 215 West Madison street, where he is employed as an engraver. He denied all knowledge of the affair and said he had not seen Mrs. Buckley since Monday night.

Witnesses were found who told of seeing Mrs. Buckley in the Keystone hotel, a lodging house conducted by Frederick and Jessie Thornton, at 850 West Madison street. The place was searched, but the fugitive had gone. The Thorntons were taken to the station, but for hours denied having seen Mrs. Buckley since the preceding day.

Mrs. Buckley Arrested.

Soon after noon Detectives Bowler and Tishart saw Mrs. Buckley and Mrs. Edna O'Connell, a roomer in the Keystone hotel, standing at Lincoln and West Van Buren streets. Both were taken to the station, where they protested ignorance. Mrs. Buckley was haggard and apparently had passed a sleepless night. For hours she held out as innocent, and only when the lieutenant asked her to remove her shoe while he compared it with the outlines of the footprint did she falter. Then she was taken to a cell, not yet having confessed.

Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. O'Connell were subjected to a rigorous examination and finally each broke down and named Mrs. Buckley as the assailant. Each signed a statement telling of the woman's hurrying into the hotel at 3 a. m. and hysterically telling of the murder.

Mrs. Buckley's Confession.

Then Mrs. Buckley was led to the police office and the statements were read to her. Placing her head between her hands and leaning over the desk, she sobbed for a few moments and then sat erect and faced Lieut. Harding.

"It's useless to deny it any longer," she said. "Yes, I killed her."

"I don't drink much," she continued, "but have been drinking heavily ever since I learned that my husband and 'Mac' (Mrs. McCluskey) had been visiting restaurants and saloons together. I quarreled with him about it Monday night and we separated. I know I bought the revolver on Tuesday in a pawnshop near Madison and Morgan streets, but don't know why. I paid $2 for it. At 12:30 o'clock in the morning, with a friend, Rose Currier, I went to McCluskey's saloon. 'Mac' wouldn't serve us a drink.

"I told her she had done me the greatest wrong a woman could do another, and said I would get even. But she laughed and said that she had something behind the bar that would fix me. I knew she meant a revolver.

Goes Back to Kill.

"When we got outside I said good-by to Rose, and she went away. Then I went around Paulina street to the alley and to the rear door of the saloon. I tapped on the door. I knew she would come to the door, but I hadn't intended killing her just then. As she opened the door and recognized me she stepped back, calling me a bad name. Then I jerked the revolver out of my waist and leaned forward, pressing it against her, and fired.

"I threw the revolver away and ran down the alley to Lincoln street. I saw that Vic Abrams' place was open and ran in there and ordered a drink. Then I told him what I had done, and he was frightened. He closed up his place in about fifteen minutes and walked to Hoyne avenue with me. He advised me to keep quiet about it and I would not be suspected. When he left me I went to the rooming house of Mrs. Thornton.

"Mrs. Thornton and Mrs. O'Connell were frightened when I told them, but I took several drinks and lay down to try to sleep. I couldn't, and later, when Mrs. O'Connell said she was going downtown, I decided to go down and see a lawyer. We went back to Vic Abrams' place, however, and had several drinks. He advised us to get away, and we went to Van Buren street to take a car. Then we were arrested."

Abrams May Lose License.

Abrams, who is a notorious character, was arrested after Mrs. Buckley had confessed and charged with aiding and abetting the escape of a criminal. The revocation of his license will be asked for by the police.

C. H. McClusky, the divorced husband of the murdered woman, assisted the police in the search during the day. He is an auctioneer and declared he is not a permanent resident of the city.

A 10 year old son of the couple now is a student in a River Forest academy. The last meeting of the parents occurred a week ago, when they planned studies and a career of the boy. The woman was devoted to the child, who never was allowed to know of her business. She was 38 years old.

CLIMB PORCH FOR JEWELS

ROBBERS GET $600 WORTH OF PLUNDER IN EVANSTON.

Residence of W. T. Rickards Entered While Family Is Away, Rooms Are Ransacked, and Valuables Stolen—Two Women Hold Up a Man and Then Compel Him to Aid Them in Taking $450 from Saloonkeeper Who Had Just Sold Out.

Gems valued at $600 were stolen from the residence of William T. Rickards, 1324 Forest avenue, Evanston, last evening. The thieves entered the house through a window over a front porch while the family was away.

When Mr. and Mrs. Rickards returned at 10:30 o'clock they found the rooms in disorder. Drawers had been opened and contents were strewn over the floor. The window was still open and tracks in the soft earth showed where the robbers had jumped down after completing their job. The tracks led to the walk and were lost there.

A hurried search disclosed to Mrs. Rickards that three rings and a prized necklace had been taken. A more thorough investigation, it is believed, will show the loss of other valuables. One of the rings taken was set with six small diamonds; another with two diamonds and one opal, and the third with a large opal encircled with diamonds. The necklace is set with sapphires and rubies. It is an heirloom.

Women Make Man Help Rob.

Two women held up one man, and, finding no money in his pockets, forced him to aid them in securing $450 from Stephen Kavil, 483 Canal street, who had sold his saloon a few hours before. The three were arrested by Detectives Thieme and Mason of the Maxwell street station. They gave the names of Anton Martins, Lizzie Grock, and Lizzie Barron. The women are powerful, and, when they saw Martin leaving his home at 497 Canal street, they followed him a short distance. Then seizing him one of the women searched his pockets while the other held his arms pinioned. Under threats of punishment, Martin told the police, the women told him of the money they knew Kavil had received in payment for his saloon. He accompanied them. They went to Kavil's house, found Kavil asleep, and took his money. Martin was given $20 as his share.

Steal $1,400 Worth of Coats.

Thieves entered the store of P. Shapiro & Co., 121 Newbury avenue, early in the morning and stole a wagon load of coats, worth $1,400. The property was recovered last evening in a barn in the rear of 84 Johnson street, and two women and four men were arrested by Lieut. Ambrose and Detectives Mason, Thieme, Grace, and White. The gave the names of Morris Goldstein, Max Greenfield, Jacob Kuropat, Jennie Goldstein, Esther Greenfield, and Jacob Ferber.

STABBED AFTER A QUARREL.

Buda Stanich Is Injured Seriously by Saloonkeeper in South Chicago.

As a result of a quarrel last night in the saloon of Daniel Zegoraeh, 8930 The Strand, South Chicago, Buda Stanich, 40 years old, 8909 Greenbay avenue, was stabbed and his companion, Eliastanich Stanich, was slightly cut by Zegoraeh. The latter had followed them from the saloon and attacked them when they were nearing their home. Pedestrians summoned the police, and Zegoraeh was arrested by Policeman Riley after a struggle in which he attempted to shoot the patrolman.

A fire, which the police believe to have been of incendiary origin, was discovered in the three story frame building owned by Isa Stanich, 12 Eighty-ninth street, soon after the stabbing of Stanich.

The flames spread rapidly, and when the firemen reached the scene the place was enveloped in flames. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

WOMAN STABBED BY HUSBAND.

Mrs. Patrick Reilly, Seriously Wounded, Forgives Spouse and Begs Police Not to Arrest Him.

Mrs. Patrick Reilly, 31 years old, 206 Wood street, reported at the Desplaines street police station last night that her husband stabbed her in a quarrel on Oct. 11, and she asked to be sent to a hospital for medical attention.

She fainted in the station while telling her story and was taken in an ambulance to the county hospital. There it was found she had been stabbed three times and that the wounds were serious. Mrs. Reilly said she did not want to have her husband arrested.

"I don't think he meant to stab me," she said, "and I would not have come here if I had been able to go home."

WOMAN ROBS CAPT. STREETER OF HIS "PRECIOUS" DEEDS.

Attacked on Street, He Strikes Her and Then Secures Her Arrest—Marches to Police Station with Her.

"Capt." George Wellington Streeter of the "Deestrick of Lake Michigan" walked into police headquarters early this morning, accompanied by Policeman McGeehan, and charged Helen Felton, 33 years old, with attacking him at Randolph and State streets and robbing him of $25 and "precious" deeds to the disputed property on the north shore.

According to "Capt." Streeter he had been accosted by the Felton woman as he neared the crossing.

"Where are you going?" she said to him, as she reached for his vest pocket.

Drawing back, the startled seaman stopped as he readjusted his famous and one time silk hat, and, after seeing that "it was only a woman," struck her a blow in the left eye. The money and deeds, however, had been quickly transferred from Streeter's pockets.

"Sure I talked with her for a moment," admitted the "captain" to Desk Sergeant Horrigan, "but then I thought that I was one of her many friends. I never thought she was so loose fingered. She beats anything that I ever had conversation with."

While the "captain" told of his experience with Helen Felton he frequently paused and played with a large red tie that covered the vari-colored shirt beneath. A heavy walking stick, carried in his right hand, was used to demonstrate how he would have dealt with the robber had he been a man.

Helen Felton was arrested, charged with larceny. She was left by the sun burned claimant to the "Deestrick of Lake Michigan," who walked out of the central station.

Streeter told the police he was 65 years old and lived at the Wellington hotel. He will appear against the Felton woman in the Harrison street police court today.

DRUG ENDS MUSICIAN'S LIFE.

Emil P. E. Hansen, Who Was Found Unconscious Early Monday Morning, Dies in Hospital.

Emil P. E. Hansen, 449 State street, a musician, 43 years old, who was found unconscious in State street from a drug early Monday morning, died yesterday at the Detention hospital where he had been taken after he had partly regained his senses at the Chicago Emergency hospital.

Before Hansen was taken to the Detention hospital his brother Henry C. Hansen, 2678 Magnolia avenue, president of the Columbia Parlor Frame company, was notified by the hospital authorities. They asked his advice, but it is alleged he refused it, saying he did not care what happened to his brother.

Joseph Jaeckle, 1762 North Halsted street, a brother-in-law of Hansen, assisted in taking him to the hospital, where he died. Hansen came to the United States forty years ago. In recent years he met with financial reverses.

CLUBDOM EXTENDS HAND TO TOILERS.

Illinois Federation Pledges Sympathy and Social Help to Working Girls.

ASKS SWEEPING INQUIRY.

Resolution Is Adopted Calling Upon Congress to Investigate Conditions.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, at its closing session today, outstretched its helping hand to the girl of toil, and, without a dissenting vote, offered to lend her its assistance in the struggle for the betterment of her industrial and social conditions.

The pledge of sympathy was given with the adoption of a resolution calling upon the federal government, through congress, to institute a sweeping investigation of the conditions under which feminine toilers are compelled to work all over the country.

The resolution was penned by Miss Jane Addams of Hull house, Miss Mary McDowell of the University of Chicago settlement, and Miss Wald of the Nurses' settlement in New York. Mrs. Harriet M. Van der Vaart and Miss Anna Nicholes of the Neighborhood house were in the convention to support the resolution.

Toiling Girl Tells Her Story.

Last night the resolution was favorably acted upon by both the committee on resolutions and the executive board. Before it was presented to the convention a factory girl, simply dressed and apparently conscious of the new friendship, stepped to the platform and began telling her story. She was a small figure dressed in black with a touch of white around her neck, a voice with the ring of refinement in it.

As the girl began speaking the clubwomen glanced at their programs and read "The Story of the Glove Makers," by Miss Agnes Nestor. There was an outburst of applause, then deep silence. The clubwomen wanted to hear the story.

No Bond of Sympathy.

"We all work together in the factory," she said, "but we don't care for one another. We don't have a chance to meet each other. There is no bond of sympathy between us. Our one thought is 'Are we going to have our jobs tomorrow or are we not?'

"With a strong organization there is another story. If we work under an agreement we feel better satisfied. I want to be fair to the employers and for that reason I say that under an agreement we do better and more thorough work. We know we are not likely to be discharged at any moment without cause. We don't know the man we work for, except by name.

"But we are not in harmony with him and there is no close relationship unless there is organization. If we went to him individually and made known our wants he would say to us, 'draw your pay and go, we can get some one to take your place who will be satisfied.'"

Organization Works Wonders.

Miss Nester then told the story of the organization of the glove workers. She said it had resulted from a widespread demand for the nine hour day, better working conditions, better social conditions, and better wages.

As Miss Nester retired from the platform she was greeted by another outburst of approval.

Miss Mary McDowell then urged the passage of the resolution. She said: "President Roosevelt has assured us that he is heartily in sympathy with the movement and that he will do what he can to assist us. But he has told us that the women of this country must say whether or not we shall have the investigation. He says if the women want it they can get it. He is right. But we must go to congress with a united front. Let us remember that it is most necessary for us to use our power.

"The reason why we want the legislation and why we want government control is that we may be able to compare the conditions of women all over the country and be absolutely certain of our facts.

Uniformity the Crying Need.

"It is easy to say that divorce is on the increase, that marriage and birth rates are falling off, it is the unquestionable proof of such conditions that we want, and the reports of the condition for the country in general.

"At present the laws governing the employment of women in the various states are not uniform. For instance, there is a law in Delaware prohibiting the use of profane and indecent language on the part of a boss or employer toward his employé. It has been my experience that such a law is needed in Illinois and that such a condition as that cannot be remedied in any other way.

"Now, you women couldn't have this federation of clubs if you had to do all the work your grandmothers did. You couldn't go to Europe when you felt like it and you couldn't join self-culture clubs if you had to make all the things these working women make for you.

Would Help Workers to Culture.

"I think it stands us in need to know what the working conditions of these women are and then to better them if the need be. It is only common justice that we should help them to get a little of all this culture we are after for themselves."

Mrs. Ellen M. Henrotin, speaking on the history of organization among women, declared that the feminine toilers in this country always have been handicapped by a lack of association with women of leisure.

"Women in England," she urged, "are much better protected because they have the assisting hand of the influential and the wealthy, women whose social position is such as to relieve them of the criticism attending a new movement."

Miss Anna Nichols read the report of the industrial committee, which showed that both the compulsory education and child labor laws had been enforced. The reading of the report was followed by the adoption of a resolution calling upon Gov. Deneen to retain in office Factory Inspector Davies.

Demand Demolition of Iroquois.

Other resolutions were adopted as follows:

Calling for the enactment of a law to prevent overburdening and underfeeding horses and for the protection of other animals.

Calling for the vacation of the former Iroquois theater by its present management and the erection of an emergency hospital on the site.

Calling for the overhauling of the federation's private traveling library.

Before adjournment Mrs. H. J. Bohn of Morgan Park read the report of the forestry committee. The federation decided to hold the next convention in Chicago as the guest of south side clubs.

SHERMAN POINTS WAY FOR VOTERS.

Lieutenant Governor Addresses Young Men's Club on Good Government.

SPOILS SYSTEM A CURSE.

Urges Election of Strong Men to Drainage Board and Other Places.

From the storehouse of his twenty years' experience Lieut. Gov. Lawrence Y. Sherman gave his views on good government last night to an audience composed of more than 200 young men at the Sherman house. The occasion was a smoker given by the Young Men's Good Government club.

Mr. Sherman interjected considerable useful and interesting information on practical politics in his address, but in the main it was a lofty exploitation of conditions that made for the ideal government, delivered in his characteristically epigrammatic style.

He was emphatic in his assertion that "job holding" was not the only thing in politics, and said that party machinery should not be controlled entirely by those holding the places, severely criticising the spoils system. He advocated the election of Ald. R. R. McCormick, republican candidate for president of the sanitary district board, who had been indorsed by the club, as one of the first steps to be taken in the direction of good government.

Men Needed in Office.

"Good government," said he, "was never in such straits as when it is in the hands of men who are obliged to make their bread and butter out of their party. The men to be trusted are those who make great sacrifices of means and time in private life to go into public service. When I say this I instinctively think of the republican candidate for president of the drainage board, Mr. McCormick.

"I don't want to criticise the old board, but many of the trustees have been on it for many years, and in making this great sacrifice to public service their private business must have been sadly neglected. [Laughter.] I think it is time to give the young man a chance. Let him put the harness on, and see what he can do in closing up the business of the district.

"I suppose by this time there is on my desk a bulky report that has been compiled by the drainage trustees. It seems to me that a fitting way to audit those formidable accounts is to get a young man on that board, elected on the good, sound platform of 'aggressive honesty,' as Mr. McCormick puts it. Put on a man of your own kind—some aggressive, clean, bright fellow like McCormick—and the people all over the state will recognize that you have taken a long step in the ultimate end of your organization."

Machine Not the Party.

Mr. Sherman's observations on machines were received with the close attention that their expert character warranted. Said he:

"I never have gone on the theory that the republican machine is the republican party. It merely is the skeleton on which the party is constructed. It is no more the party than a skeleton is a man. A party machine ought not and cannot survive unless it has the rank and file of the party back of it.

"Men holding office are the dominant faction but they are not the whole party. Patronage is not to be despised or ignored—the places must be filled by some one, but job holding is not the only thing in public office. I don't believe in a party machinery based on party spoils. The spoils system is the greatest curse of good government."

Tells of Personal Experiences.

Much of Mr. Sherman's talk was of a personal character, delivered after the manner of a monologue.

"Speaking of railroad passes and jobs," said he, after he had told a couple of stories to illustrate his point," I never have been able to get much of either. I've had to worry along without."

His friends, recalling the interstate commerce appointment that was sidetracked, smiled. And again:

"For sixteen years—and I have attended every republican convention in that time—I never saw a band wagon that I didn't know was coming but I never climbed into one in my life. What's the use? You get no credit unless you were in the junk shop where it was put together.

"We can all afford to be licked when we know we are right.

"'Practical politics' consists in putting into office men who are not fitted for it to be controlled by others you didn't elect.

"Politics is not necessarily a survival of the fittest, but a survival of the toughest.

Changes in Law Not Needed.

"Why this eternal uproar about changes in law? If the legislature went into exile for ten years the country would be just as well off.

"I belong to that order of cranks that believes it is better to enforce a bad law than to neglect it."

F. W. Burlingham spoke on practical work that could be accomplished by the club.

Ald. McCormick came in late from a meeting in the stock yards district and made a short address.

AWAIT DECISION FROM YATES.

Friends of Ex-Governor Expect Him to Announce from Springfield Whether He Is a Candidate.

Ex-Gov. Yates went back to Springfield yesterday without announcing his candidacy for the United States senatorship. His friends said he would give out at Springfield any notice he might have to make, and gave it as their belief that he would soon become an open applicant for the place.

It is known, however, that the ex-governor did not receive any assurances, during the three days he was in Chicago, of active help from either faction of the republican organization in Cook county.

The impression the ex-governor got from his talks with the friends of Gov. Deneen was that they were more interested in local results in Cook county than in the question of who shall be the next United States senator.

It was also pointed out that, if the men now in charge of the republican organization in Chicago were to come out actively in favor of the election of ex-Gov. Yates or any other candidate, while they could deliver to him a number of senatorial districts, yet they would provoke contests in others, and whoever was elected they would be left with a number of fights on their hands.

The reason the friends of Mr. Yates feel confident that he will be a candidate is they think they have him persuaded that if the party managers will only keep hands off in Chicago he can come here and make a speaking campaign which will win the county without other help. The ex-governor has great faith in the effects of his oratory and susceptible to that kind of an argument.

PASTORS PRAISE GOV. DENEEN.

Presbyterian Ministers Give Him Vote of Thanks for Preventing Libertyville Racing Meet.

Gov. Deneen received the praise of the Presbyterian pastors of the state at the closing session of their annual synod meeting held at Champaign yesterday. He was given a vote of thanks for his action in crushing the attempted racing meet at Libertyville, Ill.

The Rev. T. R. Quayle, pastor of the Libertyville Presbyterian church, who introduced the resolution, declared that Illinois has a governor who is fearless in his stand for what is right.

"We hear a lot about Gov. Folk, Gov. Hanly, and other ideal executives," said the pastor, "but I want to say that Gov. Deneen is a man of sterling character."

The resolution was passed unanimously by the three hundred ministers.

RAILWAYS ARE BIG BUYERS

ORDERS FOR EQUIPMENT THIS YEAR WILL BREAK RECORD.

Pennsylvania Road Alone Has Contracts Which Will Keep All Steel Car Factories Busy During 1906—Illinois Central and the Southern Said to Have Obtained an Option on the Tennessee Central—President of Baltimore and Ohio Is Better.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The railroads are being deprived of an important weapon in their fight against President Roosevelt's rate regulation campaign as a result of the evidence which is being secured by the interstate commerce commission in the refrigerator car hearings.

In order to prevent comprehensive legislation, sought by the president, the railroads have been disposed, as a compromise, to agree to greater control of the refrigerating car service. Testimony taken by the commission shows that the railroads make charges for the refrigeration service and collect them for the refrigerator companies. In other words, according to the contention of government officials interested in the subject, the railroads should have included the refrigerator charges in their schedule of rates on file in the office of the interstate commerce commission.

May Take Issue to Court.

There is excellent reason to believe as a result of the hearing that the commission will issue an order requiring this to be done in the future. It is expected that the refrigerator companies will carry the question into the courts. The facts which have come out in this connection show the extent of the control exercised by the railroads not only over traffic which it has been recognized they have handled, but over shipments of perishable goods.

It was developed by the testimony of H. M. Emerson, traffic manager of the Atlantic Coast line, that the shippers would be compelled under the contract with the Armour car lines to use cars of this company exclusively or the railroad would not transport their freight. At the same time, he said, the schedule of the road would permit the use of other private cars, and that the apparent inconsistency is a matter that the legal department of the road would have to solve if brought into controversy.

Direct Settlement with Shippers.

Mr. Urion, counsel for the Armour lines, objected to bringing out the basis of the settlement of claims for loss, but made the statement that his company had paid out over $80,000 in claims and that claims for $50,000 are being investigated. These settlements, said Mr. Urion, were made directly with the shippers and the Atlantic coast line had no part in the settlement. He said further that if there is any recourse back on the railroad the Armour car line is better able to take care of it than the shippers.

Commissioner Prouty asked Mr. Emerson what protection the shipper has against the imposition of an unreasonable charge under the exclusive refrigerator car contract. The witness responded that the shipper chose the company furnishing the cars and made his rates with that company.

"But if it should prove unreasonable and a shipper should make an arrangement with another private car line you would not have the car?" persisted Mr. Prouty.

"Our tariffs say we would," said Mr. Emerson.

"But your contract says you would not."

"That is true and it raises a question that would have to be settled by our legal department," said the witness.

Officials of the Central of Georgia, the Southern, and the Seaboard Air Line testified that the Armour car lines have exclusive contracts with their roads to handle all refrigerator business.

MAYOR SUMMONS AUTO SCORCHERS

Notifies Seventy of Them to Appear at the City Hall and Explain.

LICENSES ARE IN PERIL.

Chief Collins Continues His Search for Violators of Speed Ordinance.

Mayor Dunne yesterday took up the warfare against speeding autoists which has been begun by Chief Collins and sent to each offender against whom the police have secured evidence a note ordering him to appear in his office next Tuesday between the hours of 2 and 4.

At that time the executive will act again in a judicial capacity and will ask the speeders to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked. The note mailed to each of them last evening read:

My Dear Sir: The police department has reported to me a violation on your part of the ordinances relating to the running of automobiles in this city. I do not care to act peremptorily in the way of revoking your license without giving you an opportunity to be heard.

Please call at this office next Tuesday, between 2 and 4 o'clock. Yours truly,

E. F. DUNNE, Mayor.

Mayor on the Situation.

The mayor refused to discuss the comparative flagrancy of the cases, but said some of the offenses had been such as to warrant an immediate revocation of licenses. There are some seventy names on the list. It is said there will be several wealthy men in the group awaiting their turn in the mayor's outer office.

"A great deal depends upon the attitude of the men," said the mayor, "as to the action I shall take. Some have been defiant. and I intend to make it clear to them that they are in a class with the cab drivers and expressmen, a fact that seems to have escaped them. That their vehicles cost thousands instead of hundreds and that they drive them for pleasure does not lessen the degree of their guilt. Millionaire and laborer are alike to the law."

Seeking Evidence Against Others.

Chief Collins refused to reveal the names of those whom his men have found infringing on the auto regulations, and declared that when he turned the list over to the mayor he was through with them unless they repeat the offense. His energies and those of his men are now turned to securing evidence against other drivers.

Detective Muchowski, who zealously went to work verifying the list by visiting each of the addresses, succeeded in finding all of the men except one. In this case a fictitious address was given, as the detective found when looking for S. Harris at 5006 Cornell avenue. The machine was numbered 1,601.

Oppose Automobile Garage.

Residents of Oakwood boulevard and members of the congregation of the Holy Angels' church are resisting an attempt to erect an automobile garage at 3935 Vincennes avenue. The Rev. A. J. McGavick presented a petition to Corporation Counsel Lewis and Building Commissioner Williams will be asked to deny the request for a permit for the building.

The residents of the street declare that such a structure will deface the boulevard. An opinion from the corporation counsel is that a garage is in the same class as a livery stable and therefore cannot be built without the consent of the property owners adjoining.

William C. Byram, a lawyer, who is also under bail on the same charge, was the principal witness.

HOPE REALIZED AT LAST

A Piano Upon Which Any One—Without Knowledge of Music—Can Play with the Precision of a Professional Pianist.

THE KRELL AUTO-GRAND UPRIGHT ASTONISHES MUSICIANS.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HOLD A KRELL AUTO-GRAND

The KRELL AUTO-GRAND may be played like an ordinary piano, or—Presto!—a self-playing piano that is responsive to the slightest sentiment of the performer. An upright instrument with the playing mechanism on the INSIDE.

Think of what this means! If you are found of music you have the power to produce any composition of your preference. That, too, with as much expression as your musical feeling would lead you to play if you had the most perfect technique in the world.

The KRELL AUTO-GRAND is easy to master. With a little patience and a few hours' practice you can perform the harmonies of the masters—or the swing of a cottonfield song—with the correctness, nicety of execution and emotional power of an accomplished musician.

Yesterday a little girl of eight years sat at the KRELL AUTO-GRAND and played "Johnny Jones" from the first act to the drop of the curtain—and she played it a great deal better than the fingers of most pianists, whether amateur or professional. She was proud and her twinkling eyes showed it. Her mother remarked "She thinks she is doing it all." "I am," said Miss Dimples. And if she wasn't, who was? Which proves how simple and how effective your control is of the KRELL AUTO-GRAND.

Will you see for yourself the capabilities of this almost human piano? Nothing we can say would convince you of its wonderful adaptability so much as a personal test.

GEO. P. BENT, 211 Wabash-Ave., is sole representative for the KRELL AUTO-GRAND. Demonstrations will be gladly given, or further particulars by mail if requested. Your old piano taken in exchange.

GILHOOLEY CAUSES A STIR

VENIREMAN DECLARES DEFENDANT SMILED AT HIM IN COURT.

L. Felt, After Answering Questions of Attorneys Satisfactorily, Says Accused Man Made a Series of Signs, Which Causes Him to Declare He Would Not Believe Alleged "Slugger" on Oath — Prospective Juror Is Excused.

Charges that Charles Gilhooley attempted to influence or intimidate a venireman, while the latter was being examined as a possible juror in the "sluggers'" case, were made before Judge Chetlain yesterday by L. Felt of the firm of Felt & Tarrant, 56 Illinois street.

Mr. Felt had been under consideration for two days, and had replied satisfactorily to the questions of the attorneys. In the afternoon he caused a commotion in the courtroom when he declared he had changed his mind and openly announced that he would not believe one of the defendants under oath. Pressed for an explanation, the venireman declared that one of the men on trial had made certain signs and smiles at him. He declined to name the man he accused and was excused.

Later, on being questioned by the judge in private chambers, he declared that Charles Gilhooley was the person who had made the threatening signs.

Gilhooley denied the charges and said that, if he had smiled, he had done so at some joke or remark of counsel and that he had no intention of intimidating the venireman. The court took no official action on the charges made by Mr. Felt. No additional jurors were selected.

FIVE ANARCHISTS ARE INDICTED

Action at Paris Result of Bomb Throwing in Attempt to Kill Loubet and Alfonso.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Indictments were drawn up today against five anarchists for the throwing of a bomb May 31 last at a carriage containing King Alfonso and President Loubet. The principal person accused is Avino, alias Ferras, who is indicted for the attempted assassination of the king and president and their escort. Avino has not yet been captured. Charles Malato, who is known as a philosophic writer, and an anarchist named Caussanel are charged with complicity in the outrage and with having explosives in their possession. Vellino, & Spaniard, and Harvey, an Englishman, are indicted for having explosives in their possession.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

The court of inquiry into the case of Paymaster Ring, general storekeeper at the Boston navy yard, has found him to have been careless and negligent in the performance of his duty, but does not impeach his integrity and recommends no further proceedings.

Alvin Smith, American consul at Trinidad, has been removed from office. The cause is failure to render his accounts and is attributed solely to neglect and carelessness. Mr. Smith was appointed from Ohio.

The appointment of Col. W. H. Michael, chief clerk of the department of state, to be consul general at Calcutta, was announced at the department of state. Col. Michael succeeds Stanley Stoner.

HUMPHREY'S BILL IN ITS LAST SLEEP.

Ghostlike Measure of Recent Legislature Throttled and Entombed.

DENEEN IS EXECUTIONER.

Act Relating to Roads and Bridges Dies After Sponsor Gave It Hope of Life.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—A Rip Van Winkle of the forty-fourth general assembly which recently startled Gov. Deneen and the state officials by coming to life was put to sleep again today, finally and effectually. It now decently is buried and its ghost will not walk. On its headstone is the following inscription:

"Senate bill 13—Thought to have met an untimely fate May 6 at the last session of the legislature—came to life again Oct. 11; was executed, officially Oct. 20, and rests in peace."

Senator John Humphrey is the chief mourner. No other relatives are known to exist.

Unlimited possibilities in legislation confronted Gov. Deneen when this supposed corpse came out of the grave and proceeded to cavort in unseemly fashion. It was an amendment to the roads and bridges act applying to counties under township organization. The purport of the measure has not been subjected to scrutiny and whether it was good or bad is of little importance compared with the other questions raised by its reappearance.

Put Through by Humphrey.

It was put through the senate by Senator Humphrey and sent over to the house, where Representative Pierson of Humphrey's senatorial district took charge of it. It was amended and advanced to third reading, and roll call was reached on May 6, the last day of the legislature, when laws were being made at the rate of one a minute. The official record of its disposition as left by Clerk John Reeve and his assistants in the house is decidedly mixed.

It is recorded that the bill received 71 yeas and 2 nays. As a constitutional majority of 77 is required for passage the bill was declared dead. The list of members voting for it was given, as usual, and this list shows that 93 voted "yea," more than enough to pass it.

Juggling with roll calls has been charged to the clerk's assistants frequently, but just what process this bill went through is difficult to ascertain. Probably it was a mistake.

Gov. Deneen Throttles It.

It went to the secretary of state as a bill which failed to pass and there remained in peace until the state fair the first of this month. Senator Humphrey came to Springfield and dug it up. He persuaded Speaker Shurtleff and Lieut. Gov. Sherman to sign it and then Clerk James Paddock of the senate presented it to Gov. Deneen, five months after the legislature had adjourned sine die. The governor promptly sent it to Attorney General Stead, who today advised him to veto it.

In vetoing it Gov. Deneen said he would have done so if it had been one of the ten commandments, calling attention to the unlimited possibilities if it were possible to drag out bills five months or a year after the legislature had adjourned and after the secretary of state had issued the session laws purporting to be all the laws passed by the general assembly at its last session.

BAR WHITE PLAGUE IN SCHOOLS

Minnesota Board of Health Recommends Shutting Out Teachers and Pupils with the Disease.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 20.—The state board of health has decided to issue a circular to county superintendents of schools forbidding the employment as teacher of any person suffering from tuberculosis, and debarring children suffering from that disease from admission to the schools.

Weighty Professional Endorsements.

That the several American medicinal roots, the concentrated glyceric extracts of which make up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have the strongest kind of endorsement by scores of leading medical writers of all the several schools of practice, a brief glance at the standard works on Materia Medica will show. Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same." He also mentions catarrh of the gall duct, jaundice and constipation as diseases which the use of Golden Seal root overcomes; also catarrh of the intestines, even when it has proceeded to ulceration, is remarkably benefited by Hydrastis (Golden Seal root.)

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhœa, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver; also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. Hobart A. Hare, M. D., of the University of Pa., says of Golden Seal root that it is of service in chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels, following abuse of alcohol, and as a tonic after malarial fever." He further says, it "has a distinct anti-malarial influence." Also "good in all catarrhal conditions, and as "a curative agent in chronic dyspepsia."

Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., of the Medical Department, University City of N. Y., is equally loud in his praise of Golden Seal root, especially for its tonic effects in convalescence from acute diseases and its special tonic influence upon mucous surfaces and upon the gall bladder.

Doctors Barton and Tully recommended Golden Seal root as a pure tonic and as an alterative in diseased conditions of the mucous membranes.

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the American Dispensatory, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched, * * * the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinions. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *."

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription for woman's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion of Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering in the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our land, who extol each article named above in the highest terms. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

By reading the little book noted below any one will readily see the applicability of the "Golden Medical Discovery" to the cure of all the foregoing list of diseases as well as many other chronic affections, especially those of the heart, kidneys, bladder, skin and blood.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

In cases of chronic ailments, attended by marked, or persistent, constipation, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken conjointly with the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery," to regulate the bowels. They act in harmony with the "Discovery," and will be found to be the most valuable laxative, or, in fuller doses a cleansing cathartic.

Podophyllin, the active medicinal principle of Mandrake root, enters largely into the composition of the little sugar-coated "Pellets," in fact is one of their chief ingredients. They regulate the liver, stomach and bowels.

BIG MEN ESCAPE CRASH IN POWER.

Witness in New York Inquiry Says Judson Planned to Get Astor and Vanderbilt.

IS HEAVIEST SHIP ON SEA.

New Liner Amerika, with 41,000 Tons Displacement, Makes Maiden Voyage.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Oct. 20.

Astor and Vanderbilt Nearly Caught in Power Crash.

John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt had narrow escapes from being victims of the slump in International Power stock on April 30, 1902, according to the testimony given today by J. H. Hoadley, when his cross examination in the suit of Franklin Scott & Co., brokers, against Hoadley, Joseph Leiter, and Cyrus Field Judson was resumed. Plaintiffs seek to establish the three defendants equally were liable for some $65,000 which Judson owes the plaintiffs as the result of his pool transactions in Power stock just before the smash.

It was when Power had been put up to $140 by Judson and John R. Drexel's manipulations, Hoadley testified that Judson told Hoadley John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt were interested in Power and were anxious to buy a big block of stock, even at current prices. It was Judson's idea, however, Hoadley said, they could be induced to pay even a higher price, if the market returns showed proper quotations. Hoadley believed Judson, and as he owned considerable stock, much of which was in trust with Judson, he actively encouraged Judson. It was just fourteen days later that the Power bubble burst and Hoadley found Judson had sold him out, disposed of all the stock he held in trust, besides a lot of collateral.

Then Judson confessed his faults and was forgiven on his promise to surrender all he had to Hoadley.

"And why did you lend all this stock and money to Judson?" he was asked.

"Because I believed him straight at the time and wanted to help him out. I wanted to be kind to him, in fact. I often had been kind to him before."

"And how much did you lose in consequence of his alleged deception of you?"

"I lost $3,000,000 in the day's crash," said Hoadley.

"You had been buying stock on your own account, hadn't you, when you saw prices booming?"

"Yes; and I found afterward I had been buying the stock I had lent Judson, and paying far more for it than the price at which I lent it to him."

Maj. Gen. John R. Brooke, U. S. A., retired, declared today in the suit brought against him by the countess of Buena Vista of Havana for depriving her of the beef killing concession in Havana, that her slaughter houses were insanitary. She is suing him and the United States. The act was in his administration as governor general of Cuba in 1899 and 1900.

Heaviest Ship Afloat Makes Maiden Voyage.

Displacing 1,000 tons more water than any other craft afloat, the new steamer Amerika of the Hamburg-American line arrived here today on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic. Despite the displacement of 41,000 tons the Amerika is not the biggest steamship in the world, as the steamer Baltic of the White Star line is longer, wider, and of greater tonnage.

The Amerika is deeper than the Baltic. The new steamer has a length of 690 feet, a breadth of 74 feet, and a depth of 53 feet.

The Amerika came from Cherbourg mole to the Sandy Hook lightship, 3,050 miles, in 7 days 17 hours and 12 minutes. While the vessel made an hourly average speed for the voyage of only 16.468 knots, it is capable of more speed. In making the passage from Hamburg to Dover it averaged 17.26 knots per hour.

The steamer carried 1,631 persons, including the crew. Except for one storm on the banks of Newfoundland, the maiden trip was without weather disturbances.

Newfield's Hoodoo Dinner Success Despite Regrets.

The hoodoo dinner of Jake Newfield, the east side "well, well" orator, took place tonight according to schedule in Kornreich's hall at 136 Clinton street. It was in honor of Jake's 50th birthday, and true to his promise he had the table set with thirteen plates, with the names of thirteen east side politicians who dodged the dinner on the cards on the plates.

The combination of thirteen plates as announced on the printed cards and the fact that Jake was born on a Friday and was celebrating his birthday anniversary on a Friday was too much for most of the thirteen original guests, several of whom are candidates for office at the coming election. The dinner was a howling success, notwithstanding.

Assemblyman Edward Rosenstein remarked just before it opened: "I would like to go. I don't want to get that fellow's voice after me in the campaign. I have an idea it would kill the hoodoo." Rosenstein purchased a floral horseshoe and sent it to Newfield.

Friends of Max Eckman, the republican candidate against Rosenstein, heard of this move and nailed several rabbits' feet over the door in expectation Eckman would attend. Several young men also showed up in front of the hall with black cats, whose backs they rubbed in the doorway.

Newfield made several speeches just to show his friendship for all. He first made a glowing, penetrating speech in favor of McClellan. His calliope voice could be heard for two blocks. He got up and made a speech in favor of Ivins. In the course of the evening he shouted for Jerome, Osborne, Hearst, the socialist, and even the prohibition candidate for mayor.

Kaiser Will Not Challenge for Yachting Cup.

Emperor William will not challenge for the America cup next year, and no other German will try to capture the famous trophy. All reports to the effect that a challenge would come from Germany and the intimation that the kaiser would issue it were dispelled today by Director Ballin, who arrived in this country on the Amerika.

Ballin is the kaiser's personal yachting representative and brought the schooner yacht Hamburg over here last May for the transatlantic races.

"The emperor has no idea of challenging," said Mr. Ballin upon his arrival, "and, in fact, the idea of any German seeking the trophy is absurd. Not that they would not like to try for it, but it would be impossible for them to try. The emperor has no yacht to challenge with, and neither has any one else. There are no designers in Germany to build a racing yacht.

"But a cup may be expected in 1907, and I understand King Edward would like to donate a cup as well."

Girl Robs Firm to Give Sweetheart Money.

To supply money to a man with whom she was in love, May E. Golding of Buffalo, cashier of the New York branch of Larkin & Co., confessed in court today that she had been stealing from her employers for two years. Her confession admitted thefts to the amount of at least $2,000. Her manager testified that the amount stolen was about $8,000.

When arrested recently Miss Golding said she took the money to help her parents and a sick sister in Buffalo.

Today the girl said that she met a man on a street car crossing the Brooklyn bridge in 1903 and fell in love with him, and several times a week since then she has given the man stolen money.

GEORGIANS CALL ROOSEVELT SON.

ple who insist that art should have nothing to do with morals, and will condemn me as a philistine for not agreeing with them, but I want to say that one of the great reasons why I like what he has written is because, after reading it, I rise up with the purpose of being a better man, a man who is bound to strive to do what is in him for the cause of decency and for the cause of righteousness.

"I feel too strongly to indulge in any language of mere compliment or mere flattery. Where Mr. Harris seems to me to have done one of his greatest services is that he has written what exalts the south in the mind of every man who reads it and yet what has not even a flavor of bitterness toward any other part of the union. There is not an American anywhere who can read Mr. Harris' stories who does not rise up a better citizen for having read them, who does not rise up with a more earnest desire to do his part in solving American problems aright.

"I cannot too strongly express the obligations I am under to Mr. Harris, and one of those obligations is to feel as a principle that it is my duty [which if I have transgressed I have not transgressed knowingly] never as an American citizen to say anything that could be construed into an attack upon any portion of our common country.

Dealing with Corruption.

"The surest way of blunting the public conscience in dealing with corruption is confuse the public mind as to who is corrupt and who is not. There are plenty of men with whom we differ radically, plenty of men of whom we radically disapprove, and to whom it is right and necessary that we should express that disapprobation, but beware of expressing it in terms that imply moral reprobation. When we express moral reprobation let us be sure that we know the facts and then that we say only exactly what is true.

"To accuse an honest man of being a thief is to gladden the heart of every thief in the nation. In our legislative bodies, in our national congress, if you know that any man is corrupt, you are not to be excused if you do not hunt him out of public life, whether he is of one party or whether he is of another. But if you accuse either specifically or in loose general declamation, all men of being corrupt, you just so much weakened your own strength when it becomes necessary to assail the genuine corruptionist.

"So far from asking that you be lenient in your judgment of any public man, I hold that you are recreant to your duty if you are lenient. Do not be lenient but do be just. If you dislike a man's policy, say so. If you think he is acting in a way so misguided that he will bring ruin to the state or nation, say so, but do not accuse him of corruption unless you know that he is corrupt. If you have good reason to believe that he is corrupt then refuse under any plea of party expediency, under any consideration, from refraining from smiting him with the sword of the Lord and of Gideon."

After the Luncheon.

Following the president's address Col. Graves introduced Gov. Heyward of South Carolina as the guest second in honor only to the nation's chief. Gov. Heyward added his welcome to the south to that already extended by Georgia.

During the dinner the band stationed on the veranda played a number of the national airs, among others "The Star Spangled Banner." As he recognized the familiar strains the president sprang to his feet, followed by all present, seemingly forgetful of his surroundings. When the band played "Dixie" he joined in the cheering.

A reception followed the luncheon, which, though brief, afforded the opportunity for several hundred to meet the president. The Georgia School of Technology was visited on the way to the city and here the president spoke briefly.

Speech at the Fair Ground.

The president's speech which interested Georgians most was the one he delivered at the fair grounds before the luncheon. In it he talked to the people of their growing prosperity and of their great staple crop, cotton. He said, in part:

The president then passed to a discussion of the great staple crop of the south—cotton—saying in part:

"It was the cotton crop of the south that brought $400,000,000 of foreign gold into the United States last year, turning the balance of trade in our favor. The soil and climate of the south are such that she enjoys a practical monopoly in the production of raw cotton. No other clothing material can be accepted as a substitute for cotton. I welcome the action of the planters in forming a cotton association, and every assistance shall be given them that can be given them by the national government.

"Moreover, we must not forget that the work of the manufacturers in the south supplements the work of the planter. It is an advantage to manufacture the raw material here and sell to the world the finished goods. Under proper methods of distribution it may well be doubted whether there can be such a thing as overproduction of cotton. Last year's crop was nearly fourteen million bales, and yet the price was sufficiently high to give a handsome profit to the planter. The consumption of cotton increases each year, and new uses are found for it.

"This leads me to a matter of our foreign relations, which directly concerns the cotton planter. At present our market for cotton is largely in China. The boycott of our goods in China during the past year was especially injurious to the cotton manufacturers. This government is doing, and will continue to do, all it can to put a stop to the boycott. But there is one measure to be taken toward this end in which I shall need the assistance of the congress. We must insist firmly on our rights, and China must beware of persisting in a course of conduct to which we cannot honorably submit. But we in our turn must recognize our duties exactly as we insist upon our rights. We cannot go into the international court of equity unless we go in with clean hands. We cannot expect China to do us justice unless we do China justice.

Must Treat China Fairly.

"It is our clear duty, in the interest of our own wageworkers, to forbid all Chinese of the coolie class—that is, laborers, skilled or unskilled—from coming here. But we should not only operate the law with as little harshness as possible but we should show every courtesy and consideration and every encouragement to all Chinese who are not of the laboring class to come to this country. Every Chinese traveler or student, business man or professional man, should be given the same right of entry to, and the same courteous treatment in, this country as are accorded to the student or traveler, the business man or professional man of any other nation. Our laws and treaties should be so framed as to guarantee to all Chinamen save of the excepted coolie class, the same right of entry to this country and the same treatment while here as is guaranteed to citizens of any other nation.

Then came a drive about the city under the escort of the cavalry and the reception committee, the president's train leaving for Jacksonville promptly at 7 o'clock.

Visits Mother's Girlhood Home.

Earlier in the day, before arriving at Atlanta, President Roosevelt carried out his long cherished plan of visiting the home of his mother, at Roswell, Ga. One of his reasons for coming south was that he might see the old homestead where his mother spent her girlhood. The president reached Roswell at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, and after breakfast entered a carriage and was driven to the mansion. Here he was greeted by two old servants who lived on the place during his mother's young womanhood. One of these is "Aunt Grace," who acted as maid to Miss Martha Bulloch, who afterward became Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, and the other is William Jackson, who decorated the mansion on the occasion of the marriage if its young mistress. The president was deeply touched as he shook the hands of these old servitors.

Makes a Brief Address.

From the homestead the president was driven to the town park, where a stand had been erected, from which he delivered a brief address, saying:

"You can have no idea of how much it means to me to come back to Roswell, to the home of my mother and my mother's people, and to see the spot which I already know so well from what my mother and my aunt have told me. Among the earliest recollections I have as a child is hearing from my mother and my aunt, Miss Annie Bulloch, as she was then, about Roswell; of how the Pratts and Kings and Dunwoodys and Bullochs came here first to settle; about the old homestead, the house on the hill; about the Chattahoochee; about all kinds and sorts of incidents that would not interest you, but interested me a great deal when I was a child. I wish I could spend hours here to look all through and see the different places about which I have heard all kinds of incidents.

"It has been my good fortune to have the right to claim that my blood is half southern and half northern, and I would deny the right of any man here to feel a greater pride in the deeds of every southerner than I feel. Of the children, the brothers and sisters of my mother, who were born and brought up in that house on the hill there, my two uncles afterwards entered the confederate service and served in the confederate navy. One served on the Alabama as the youngest officer aboard. He was captain of one of its broadside 32 pounders in its final fight and when at the end the Alabama was sinking and the Kearsarge passed under its stern and came up along the side that had not been engaged hitherto, my uncle, Irving Bulloch, shifted his gun from one side to the other and fired the two last shots fired from the Alabama.

"My other uncle, James Dunwoody Bulloch, was an admiral in the confederate service. Men and women, don't you think that I have the ancestral right to claim a proud kinship with those who showed their devotion to duty as they saw the duty, whether they wore the gray or whether they wore the blue? All Americans who are worthy the name feel an equal pride in the valor of those who fought on one side or the other, provided only that each did with all his might and soul and mind his duty as it was given him to see his duty."

Brief Stop at Macon.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 20.—Three thousand people were assembled at the railway station here when President Roosevelt's special train arrived at 10 o'clock this evening. The president appeared on the rear platform of the train and spoke for five minutes, saying that he had begun the day in Georgia with a visit to his mother's old home at Roswell, and had been welcomed everywhere.

"For the last three days," he continued "I have been greeted by the people of the old confederate states and I have found among them the same valor, devotion, and feeling to their country that they showed to their flag from 1861 to 1865. I have found them all united."

The president referred to Grant and Lee and said that there was no rivalry now except in the interest of the common country. He spoke of Georgia as the "wonderful and beautiful state" and hoped the day would soon come when he could revisit Macon and "see you all again."

FORTS TO GUARD PANAMA CANAL.

with the conditions along the route of the canal. He has been preparing tentative plans of fortifications, which have been considered by the fortifications board. Maj. Goethals is an accomplished engineer and is the recorder of the fortifications board.

May Have to Buy Islands.

These officers, under the direction of Secretary Taft, will examine the strategical situation and will obtain data for use in the preparation of plans for the defense of the canal. For this purpose it may be deemed advisable to acquire three islands in the Bay of Panama, which have sugar loaf hills, and erect guns upon them. It will be necessary, of course, to establish fortifications at two entrances of the canal and install guns of long range and great power.

The cost of this work has not been even guessed at by the engineers. There is a question, too, whether the war department will find it necessary to go to congress for the money. The Spooner act indicates that this expense should be met out of the $145,000,000 appropriated for the construction of the canal; at least this is the view of some of the officials of the war department. Secretary Taft is of the opinion, however, that it will be wiser to transmit to congress the views of the board as to the nature of the fortifications to be built, in order that a separate appropriation may be made for this work.

"Originals" Who Lack City Hall Jobs Think Place Holders Are Plotting.

Mayor's Union Traction Message to Have as Preface "Little Ballot" Figures.

The "original" advocates of municipal ownership—those of them who have not yet achieved city hall jobs—discovered a deep laid plot last evening. They accused those of their former coworkers who have achieved city hall jobs of laying the plot. The result was a more than ordinarily lively meeting of the executive committee of the Municipal Ownership league.

The charge made against what is known as the "city hall faction" in the committee was that it was trying to change the organization of the league so as to oust from power the members now in control. At present the league is a pretty close corporation. President T. P. Quinn and his followers form a majority of the executive committee and the executive committee is practically the league.

At the last meeting of the main body, however, when it was determined that everybody must turn in and fight the franchise ordinances, Daniel L. Cruice, who is allied with the mayor and his friends, moved in an innocent sort of a way that a committee on ward organization be formed so as more effectively to fight these ordinances. This looked like a reasonable proposition, and Mr. Cruice, W. F. Ganz, A. Appelmann, C. A. Windle, and Joseph Suess were put on the committee.

Committee Report Rouses Protest.

This committee reported to the executive committee last evening and President Quinn and his adherents set up a cry of protest at once. The report recommended the appointment of subcommitteemen for each ward, and, furthermore, named the men to be selected. They were either city hall employés, members of the democratic county committee, or others identified with the city hall.

"What does he know or care about municipal ownership?" shouted President Quinn when the name of John F. Higgins for the Thirteenth ward was read. "He has just come from the Criminal court, where he was being tried on forgery charges."

"He is a city hall employé pure and simple," was the further comment made when City Sealer Grien was announced as the representative of the Fifteenth ward, and when ex-Ald. William H. Lyman was suggested for the Twenty-second ward Mr. Quinn fairly boiled over.

"Why, he was the man who introduced the Yerkes fifty years ordinance in the city council," he shouted, and then added:

"The scheme is plain enough. It is to bring a lot of men down here who never were in favor of municipal ownership so they can outvote its sincere advocates and turn the organization into a Dunne machine. It won't work."

Mr. Quinn was right—at least to the extent of it not working last night. He moved that the report lay over one week, so the names of the men suggested for ward workers could be "carefully examined," and his motion prevailed. Mr. Cruice, Mr. Windle, and others argued that the names were those of representative business men in the various wards, but the majority of the committee supported the motion to lay over, and it was done.

Dr. Maurice F. Doty was elected first vice president of the league, to take the place of G. F. Grosberg, who has organized the Illinois Municipal Ownership league, and is considered a deserter.

Mayor Preparing Message.

Mayor Dunne outlined during the day the form of the message he will send to the city council next Monday evening on the traction question.

"I will have collated," said he, "the vote on the little ballot for and against municipal ownership in every ward in Chicago at the last election, so that each alderman can be informed, if he does not already know, exactly how his constituents voted on this question.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS COLLEGE BRED MEN

Statistical Bureaus Are Sadly Wanting in Intelligent Employes, Says Expert.

ILLINOIS VARSITY IN VAN.

Opportunity for Commercial Training Timely—Installation of James Over.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Figures never lie—unless they are compiled by government statisticians. This was the burden of the address made today by Dr. E. D Durand, special examiner for the United States bureau of corporations, in the conference on commercial education at the University of Illinois. He was the principal speaker in the last session which winds up the installation of President Edmund J. James. He made some interesting admissions in the course of a discussion on "Training for the Government Service."

"The majority of people little dream," he said, "as they gaze with awe at the beautiful compilations sent out by the government department, of the slovenly manner in which individual items are drawn up. Many of the reports sent out are worthless and meaningless because of this. The trouble is that the government has put cheap clerks on the work that should be done by expert statisticians."

Following this Dr. Durand offered inducements to university men to train for the federal service and told them what to study.

Uncle Sam Needs Educated Men.

"The economic work of the government is growing rapidly," he continued. "We need large numbers of good men trained in the schools of commerce. The desirability of having these men is realized more every day by the powers that be.

"The commerce and labor department offers the broadest field. The agricultural, vital statistics, mining, interstate commerce, and railroad bureaus ought also to demand especial economic training of their employés.

"The diplomatic service, also, would be improved by such men. The consular employés are not under the civil service rules, and appointments have been made without much regard to fitness, but a change is in sight.

"That the government pays too much to clerks and too little to men in responsible positions is a well known fact. Field work in the corporation bureau especially demands high grade men. The facts are highly difficult to get at sometimes.

"The training which this university is planning to give in business methods ought to be an adequate preparative for government service. A broad foundation is necessary."

Merchants Getting Together.

Prof. J. S. Hagerty of the University of Ohio also addressed the conference. His subject was "Commercial Organization."

"Business men," he said, "are more communicable among themselves and even among competitors than formerly in regard to organization, methods, and other data. There are business secrets, but general principles are not secrets.

"Business men are coming to believe that the interest of business will be promoted by a more general dissemination of facts about business. Business men are coming to believe that knowledge of general principles is of value to the young man beginning a business career. To the economist the facts of business ought to be the data of economic science."

Other speakers were Prof. R. W. Patterson of the University of Iowa and W. H. Schoff, secretary of the Philadelphia Commercial Museums.

Has Promoted State Education.

With this session the week of jubilee is at an end. For the numbers and the prominence of the men who have attended the installation of Dr. James this has been one of the most important educational gatherings ever held in the Mississippi valley. The men at the head of the affair believe that the purpose of the celebration has been accomplished. That purpose, in short, was to call national attention to the marvelous progress which the principle of state supported education has made in the United States during the last few years, owing to the generosity of the state and federal governments.

Another purpose was to point out how on one hand the state university has supplemented the great system of privately endowed institutions like Harvard and Yale, and on the other has become the handmaid of public administration in the state and nation to such an extent as to justify its designation as a scientific and educational arm of the government.

The students returned to routine work today. Such as had recovered from the effects of "pajama night" and are not too interested in tomorrow's football game and campus are getting down to business.

NEGROES' "BLUE BOOK" ISSUED

Volume Lists Churches, Societies, and Clubs of Colored Population and Many Persons' Names.

Chicago now has a "Colored People's Blue Book." It was issued yesterday. In the 140 pages of the volume its compiler has told the story of what the negro race has accomplished for itself in Chicago. And a good deal of a story it is, too—such a one as Booker T. Washington would enjoy reading.

D. A. Bethea, who compiled the book, is a student at the Jenner Medical college. In his table of contents he includes churches, secret societies, secular societies, political clubs, social clubs, women's clubs, and newspapers. Negroes in the city have six political clubs—all of them republican—fourteen social clubs, and sixteen women's clubs, all, apparently, in a flourishing condition. Seven newspapers are listed.

A classified business directory of the city is added to the book as an appendix. In it appear the names of one architect, eight artists and cartoonists, thirty-nine clergymen, nine dentists, forty-eight attorneys, thirty-eight physicians, and eighty-five public office holders. Even the advertising in the book is restricted to negroes.

LEWIS RUNS OFFICE IN DEBT.

Corporation Counsel Asks Aldermen to Make Up Deficit, but Is Turned Down.

The ornate legal opinions of Col. J. Ham Lewis come high. The corporation counsel yesterday asked the council finance committee for $25,000 to pay a $15,000 deficit and run his office until the end of the year.

This request was declined by the committee which voted to allow Col. Lewis $10,000 additional for the last three months of the year. Nothing was done in the matter of the deficit.

Maj. E. B. Tolman, corporation counsel last year, turned back $15,000 of the $120,000 appropriated. This year's deficit has been caused by the swarm of special attorneys for traction, tax, and other litigation.

Night Watchman of Iowa State Capitol Discharged Because He Is Declared to Be Too Fat.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Tom Graham, who tips the scales at 300 pounds, was discharged as night watchman at the state capitol by Custodian McCurdy because he was too fat. Graham is an old soldier and has the G. A. R. lined up in an appeal to the governor to restore him to his former place. He says his only duty is to see that the doors are locked, and that he can do it as well as any one.

Beef Juror Dead.

A.J. HOFFMAN

A. J. Hoffman, foreman of the federal grand jury which returned indictments against the Chicago packers last July, died of appendicitis on Thursday at his residence in Mendota, Ill., after a short illness. It is expected that the other twenty-one members of the jury will attend the funeral tomorrow in Mendota. Mr. Hoffman was made foreman of the jury by a unanimous vote. Within the last two weeks he visited the government building and District Attorney Morrison. At that time he was in good health.

CONTESTANTS WIN A POINT IN SCHANDEIN WILL CASE.

Question as to Instructions Decedent Gave Attorney Withdrawn After a Lengthy Legal Argument in Court.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 20.—The contestants in the Schandein will case won a point today when the attorney for the Heyls withdrew a question put to Attorney Frisbee, who was the legal representative of Mrs. Schandein.

The question: "What instructions did Mrs. Schandein give you regarding her will of 1903?" put by Attorney Quarles for the proponents of the will, was the cause of a lengthy legal argument, the attorneys for the contestants denying the right of Mr. Frisbee to answer on the ground that it was a professional secret. The question finally was withdrawn.

Judge Carpenter ruled that Mr. Frisbee could not testify concerning instructions given by Mrs. Schandein which resulted in the 1903 agreements. This document is supposed to have been based upon an oral agreement made by Mrs. Schandein in 1896 and by which Heyl credited himself with $1,600,000, now in controversy in the Circuit court in a restitution suit brought by the Milwaukee Trust company, special administrator.

MUST BUILD NEW STATION

RAILROADS RECOGNIZE NEED OF IMPROVED UNION TERMINAL.

Owners and Lessees of Present West Side Depot Will Be Forced to Find Other Quarters When Drainage Canal Acquires Part of the Pennsylvania's River Frontage, but Officials Declare That Project Has Not Yet Assumed Definite Form.

Chicago has got to have a new Union railroad station and the owners and lessees of the present station on the west side are aware of the fact. They have thought of it for a long time, but now the matter is being forced upon their attention. The drainage canal is going to get about 50,000 square feet of the Pennsylvania's river frontage, which will cripple its terminal facilities, passenger as well as freight.

That the station will cost probably from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 to carry out this project also is certain, and that is one reason for the procrastination. None except one of the tenants of the present Union station has any financial interest in that property, it being owned entirely by the Pennsylvania and Panhandle, but it is said the others have been sounded on a proposition to each take a one-fifth interest in the new station. When the station is built this plan will be followed. It is certain, however, that the matter has not progressed to a point where any date has been set for tearing down the old station.

Terminal Merger Is Denied.

A rumor to the effect that the Baltimore and Ohio has secured control of the Chicago Terminal Transfer company property, and that this property will be merged with the Pennsylvania property to form one big terminal, proved to be without foundation.

The tenants of the Union station are the Alton, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Burlington, Panhandle, and Pennsylvania. The last two are practically the same, so that in the community of interests, which governs the operation of the depot, the Pennsylvania has two votes. The officials of all the tenant roads profess profound ignorance of any project to rebuild, and the only confirmation comes from the local attorney of the Pennsylvania, Frank J. Loesch.

Attorney Confirms Project.

"There is no use denying that the Pennsylvania company will have to enlarge its terminals," he said, "and that a new station is needed. I do not think the matter is shaped up into anything like concrete form yet, but I believe that the outcome of the drainage canal suits will hasten matters. With terminals crowded to the limit now it would be impossible to do business here after the land which the drainage canal wants was taken away."

LONG QUARREL OVER LEASE CAUSES SUITS FOR $585,000.

Attorney William Burry, Executor of J. McGregor Adams' Estate, Charged with Refusing Rent Payments.

Eight years of litigation over the ground lease to the New American theater, North Clark and Kinzie streets, culminated yesterday in the filing of three suits, aggregating $585,000, against Attorney William Burry as executor for the estate of the lessee, the late J. McGregor Adams of Highland Park.

Burry is charged by the three plaintiffs, Ellen W. Shirk, Joseph H. Shirk, and Elbert W. Shirk, with refusing to recognize their claims for back rents and is asked to pay them himself as well as all future rents up to 1990.

The back rents are estimated at $30,000 and the balance of the lease at $550,000. A third suit was filed, asking for $5,000 for special assessments and taxes, which the Adams estate had failed to meet.

The Shirks charge that Adams assumed the lease in 1895, but after two years tried to evade payment of the annual rent of $9,000. He died last year and on Oct. 24 Burry was appointed as executor.

Elbert W. Shirk is a banker at 260 Clark street and resides at the Calumet club. The other two plaintiffs live in Peru, Ind.

THINKS CAR KILLED M'GARRY.

Son of Deceased Manufacturer Criticises Coroner's Verdict That Footpads Caused Father's Death.

The verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of the death of Patrick McGarry, the manufacturer, called forth the disapproval of his family. Eugene McGarry, the son, declared last night that he did not believe his father was murdered by footpads.

"The robbers probably stunned him," said the young man, "but their blows did not kill him. The street car which ran over him, I think, caused his death.

"It is our theory that he would have survived but for the fact that he was struck by a street car, which broke his neck. If we could have submitted our side of the case I believe a different verdict would have been given. As it is, we were not notified of the time of the inquest, and for that reason had no chance to attend it. We should have been notified. There was neglect on the part of the police, who should have served the notices."

Ninety-six cases of diphtheria were reported to the Chicago health department between Oct. 13 and Oct. 20, the greatest number of cases reported in any one week this year. No smallpox cases have been reported within the last two weeks.

RAILWAYS SPEND MANY MILLIONS.

Orders for Equipment Placed This Year Break All Previous Records.

CAR BUILDERS ARE BUSY.

Illinois Central and the Southern Secure Option on Tennessee Road.

Orders for new equipment for the railroads of the country this year will break all previous records. In the forty-one weeks that have already passed, the orders for freight cars, passenger cars, and locomotives have exceeded the figures for any of the last five years. The Railway Age today will say:

"Orders placed by the Pennsylvania this week for 21,500 cars, in addition to the 16,160 ordered in August, made a new record in contracts placed by a single company and practically preempts all steel car building facilities during the entire year of 1906. It is stated that all car manufacturers are crowded with orders, and that the American Car and Foundry company alone has unfilled contracts aggregating 60,000 cars, while no company can promise delivery before the middle of next year, unless the order is for a few wooden cars.

"The following table shows the orders for the last five years:

	1901.	1902.	1903.	1904.	41 weeks. 1905.
Freight cars.	193,439	195,248	108,936	136,561	196,672
Pass. cars...	2,879	3,459	2,310	2,213	2,297
Locomotives.	4,340	4,665	3,283	2,538	4,131

"Orders for freight cars for the first forty-one weeks of the current year are in excess of the previous years, while the contracts for passenger cars and locomotives, if continued at their present rate, will exceed any previous record."

Option on Tennessee Central.

President Fish of the Illinois Central railroad company has given out the following official announcement:

"For the account of the Southern Railway company and the Illinois Central railroad company, the Standard Trust company of New York has obtained a three year option upon a controlling interest in the stocks and bonds of the Tennessee Central railroad and the Nashville Terminal company.

"Pending the life of this option the securities have been deposited subject to the control of the Standard Trust company, and it is expected that the Tennessee Central railroad will be operated directly in the interest of the two railway companies, so as to give each of them an entrance into the city of Nashville."

It is probable that $2,000,000 at least will be spent in Nashville in extending the terminal facilities and in making other improvement. A large tract of land has been purchased at the northern outskirts of the city, which, it is understood, will be devoted exclusively to Illinois Central purposes.

The official party of the Illinois Central, including President Stuyvesant Fish, Vice President J. C. Welling, Second Vice President J. T. Harahan, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, John Jacob Astor, and others, arrived in Nashville yesterday.

President Murray Much Better.

Oscar G. Murray, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has so far recovered as to be able to sit up in his room at the Auditorium Annex and to receive a few of his personal friends. It is expected he will be well enough to be moved this morning, and the officials will leave on their special train for the east. The report of President Murray's illness brought hundreds of telegrams and letters of inquiry from all parts of the country.

New Director of Omaha Road.

Only one change was made in the directorate of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha road at the annual meeting held at Hudson, Wis. Zenas Crane of Dalton, Mass., was elected to succeed H. G. Burt of Omaha, whose term had expired. Mr. Burt was formerly general manager of the Omaha road, vice president of the Northwestern road, and later president of the Union Pacific. Excepting Mr. Burt, the directors and officers of the Omaha were all reëlected.

Change in Train Service.

An important change in the train service of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway becomes effective tomorrow. The Overland limited will leave Chicago at 8 p. m. daily, arriving in Omaha at 9:20 a. m. the next morning; leaving Omaha at 9:40 a. m. via the Union Pacific, arriving in San Francisco at 5:48 p. m. the third day. The change will shorten the running time between Chicago and the Pacific coast by two hours.

The Colorado special will leave Chicago daily at 6:05 p. m., arrive in Omaha at 7:35 a. m. the next morning, and reach Denver via the Union Pacific at 9:50 p. m. the evening of the same day. The Colorado-California express leaves Chicago daily at 10:25 p. m., arrives in Omaha at 3:10 p. m. the next afternoon, Denver 7:50 a. m., the second morning, San Francisco 12:48 p. m., the fourth day.

WHAT'S the matter, George?
Can't you get your mind down to business after lunch?—Well, that's bad!

For you know energy has a cash value—and every half day or day you lose from feeling sluggish or "heady" is just so much money out of your pocket.

What had you for lunch today?

Rare Roast Beef and Yorkshire Pudding, German Fried Potatoes; a glass of Beer, a demitasse of Coffee; some Stilton Cheese and a good smoke.

Phew! Well, no wonder you do not feel like doing things—for you're depressed in the same way you're depressed the next morning after a night with the Boys—only in less degree.

You see, all that nice food you ate for Lunch today contained a lot of poison which the Doctors call Uric Acid.

This Uric Acid is contained in all Food in varying degree—and because you eat and drink quite a good deal, and because you exercise your tongue mostly and not the rest of you—a whole lot of this Uric Acid remains in your body—gets into your Blood—Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Bowels.

That's why you feel "sluggish" after your noon-day meal.

For when Uric Acid gets into the Blood it clogs up the Circulation, and eventually, by weakening the heart, the vitality of the body is lowered—because, you see, the heart has to force blood against the resistance of the Clogged-Up Circulation.

Now, your Luncheon today was made from Foods that contain a great deal of Uric Acid.

And when you get a great deal of Uric Acid at one time it acts in a peculiar way.

It first of all clears the Blood of the Uric Acid already in it—just as a large dose of poison will antidote itself—and drives the Uric Acid into the other organs of the Body—the Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

That's why immediately after your lunch you felt fine—for, you see, the Uric Acid Clogs in your Circulation were then removed, your blood was bounding rapidly and naturally through your Arteries and Veins—the pressure was removed from your Heart—your Vitality was restored to normal.

But,—and it's a mighty big But,—when the effect of this Big Dose of Uric Acid was over, the Uric Acid that had been driven into your Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Bowels began to come back into your Blood.

And because the ordinary or usual amount of Uric Acid was greatly increased by the Big Dose you put into your Body today at Lunch, your Circulation was more clogged than ever before—more Pressure was imposed on your weakened Heart—your Vitality was lowered, and you yourself put out of Business.

Now it costs money to lose a half day or a day—and your business will feel it.

And it's expensive to your Health, too, to have this Uric Acid collecting in your System, because repeated or continued lowering of your Vitality means serious business if disease germs come around.

And yet that Luncheon tasted mighty good, didn't it, George—there wouldn't be much fun in living if you had to lead the Simple Life, would there?

Yet what is there to do—take medicines?

No—very few medicines have any effect on Uric Acid—that's why it is so hard to cure Rheumatism, or Gout, or other Uric Acid Diseases with medicine.

No—you needn't take foul-tasting medicines, and yet you can eat Good Luncheons without any after-depressions to put you out of business, or to hurt your Health—as you had today—if you drink Londonderry Lithia Water.

You see, the Lithia in Londonderry is rapidly absorbed by the system, and saturates every part of the body—and the Lithia renders harmless every drop of Uric Acid in the Body—turns it into a non-injurious compound.

Now, of course, Lithia is Lithia, and any Lithia will do that in a way.

But Londonderry doesn't leave the Uric Acid in the system to develop eventually into new and probably worse diseases—as do ordinary Compounds of Lithia.

No, there are other valuable elements in Londonderry which no other Lithia Compound has or can have. Even the best Analytical Chemists concede this. These elements peculiar to Londonderry are so powerful as to gently stimulate the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, so that they cast the Uric Acid right out of the body.

Consequently, your Circulation is freed from the Uric Acid Clogs—the pressure is removed from your Heart—your Vitality is restored, and you feel Bully—any time and all the time.

Just a glassful or so of Londonderry at Meals and whenever you're thirsty will do.

It isn't a medicine, you know—there's none of that flat, insipid and sometimes disagreeable taste common to most mineral waters in Londonderry—it is a clear, sparkling, delicious tasting water—a superb thirst quencher—just as nice to take as it is beneficial to the system in removing Uric Acid.

Sold in quantities by leading Grocers, and also by the more exclusive Buffets, Cafes and Hosteleries—Price, $2.25 per dozen quarts; $1.50 per dozen pints; $1.25 per dozen splits.

If your dealer can't supply you remit direct to Londonderry Lithia Co., Room 416, 167 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

All cases delivered promptly without extra charge.

PRINTING WASTE $1,000,000 PER

Representative Landis Says Government Could Lop Off 25 Per Cent of Work Without Loss.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Supplementing his statement yesterday regarding waste in public printing, Representative Charles B. Landis, chairman of the subcommittee of the congressional printing investigation committee, charged with an inquiry into the alleged extravagances, today reiterated that the government could save $1,000,000 a year by reasonable economy.

Mr. Landis says this can be done not only without material injury to any public interest but to the great relief of members of congress, public officials, and the public generally.

Mr. Landis declared today that "a printing contagion seems to have swept over and taken possession of congress and all departments of the government to such an extent that an arbitrary reduction in the appropriations of from 20 to 25 per cent could be made without doing violence to the public welfare."

MAROONS IN FORM FOR WISCONSIN.

Stagg's "Beautiful Bit of Football Mechanism" Confident of Victory Today.

TEAMS WELL MATCHED.

Battle at Madison Not Expected to Be Settled Until Middle of Second Half.

Chicago, that eleven of "beautiful mechanism," polished to Stagg's satisfaction, wages battle today with Wisconsin, the football team Phil King and Holt has driven to a late season form, over which all Madison and the surrounding wilds of the Badger state are bubbling with unabated confidence. The maroons as a team this year are the best Stagg has brought forth. The cardinals are the best eleven King has produced.

Time, effort, and money have been lavished in bringing the two bands of football warriors into readiness for this great fight—the first crucial point in the western championship season. Since Sept. 9 King has pitched his ambitions for this struggle, when he took away his Badger veterans and the most promising other prospective Badgers to Marinette, Wis., and started the Chicago game campaign. Two days later Stagg went into camp with his men. With only the game today in mind both teams have been pointed.

Rivalry Is Intense.

Not since the memorable game of '99 has such intense rivalry ruled between the Badgers and the maroons. Not since the fall of that season have maroon and cardinal teams been more evenly matched, man for man, line for line, backs for backs, condition for condition; never before was either eleven so confident of winning. It will be a battle of the coaches, of the veterans. Neither team is a favorite, and the battle probably will go down well on into the second half before a victory is assured.

Defeat for the Badgers would perhaps be of serious consequence, for upon the result of this game rests largely Wisconsin's chances of returning to its old time position as a leading power in the "big four" fight. Dissension in the teams of the last few years have brought defeats, financial embarrassment, and the disruption of the athletic department. A victory today is necessary to lead the way for the wiping out of these defections. "Victory at any cost" has been the cry at Madison all season.

Means Much to Wisconsin.

If the Badgers win it will practically put the maroons out of the running for the championship. Hopes for these honors have been cherished since '99 and nourished since early season. This fall, it is believed at the Midway, Stagg has a rosy opportunity to take the western laurel wreath. Accordingly, a defeat would be unbearable. A victory would place the maroon team in direct line for the game with Michigan, with no apparent further obstruction until the Thanksgiving day struggle.

Stagg has rounded his team in a shape that would do credit to the final fight of the year. He is satisfied. The team work has attained a delicate perfection, and, as the maroon coach himself says, it is like a beautiful bit of mechanism. Of late the eleven has rounded to in surprising style, especially in the last week. The practice on Thursday was inspiring. Yesterday it was even better, and Stagg had nothing but the highest praise for his team.

King's Men Reported Fit.

King has got his men together for the game. Just how fine an edge he has worked on in the matter of team work is unknown. It seems certain, however, that the Badgers are ready for the game. There has been no handicap to the work of development, and King has a reputation for bringing an eleven around early in the year. All in all, it seems as if the cardinal clad warriors will be able to give the maroon stockinged opponents tit for tat in the fine points of the game and in polish of team play.

With the exception of Walker, the Chicago team is in good shape. Every other member of the eleven will be able to last the game throughout, unless bumped badly. Walker's condition is reported to be doubtful, but it is said on good authority that the seriousness of his injury has been exaggerated in the Midway camp. DeTray has completely recovered from his recent attack of tonsilitis and will not be handicapped by his injured shoulder, as a special pad has been made for his use, which is expected to ward off the bruising blows. Gale is no longer suffering from the bruised bone in his foot.

"Bear" Stories from Madison.

"Bear" stories have been handed out from the Badger camp with regularity. Roseth, the "find" of the year at Madison, is said to have suffered a broken nose; Remp is declared to have undergone an operation on Thursday for tonsilitis, while Hunt and Deering have been taken "suddenly ill." Vanderboom, however, is dedclared to have completely recovered from the fracture of his cheekbone, and will be able to mix up in his usual plunging, bulldog, determined style.

Chicago will depend on the work of the back field for a victory. The maroon backs, declares Stagg, are working together perfectly. They are the best he has ever trained, he states. They are speedy, unusually shifty on their feet, good at bucking the line, at running the ends, excellent dodgers, and good in forming interference. If the team stands by Eckersall, predicts Stagg, the backs will walk straight down the field.

The maroon line, however, is doubtful. Whether it will be able to withstand the attack of the Badgers remains to be seen. So far this year the Midway forwards have failed to get together to the satisfaction of their tutor. Their defense has not been of the stonewall variety. Indiana was the first team with a strong line that has been met, and the Hoosier forwards outplayed the Midway men in the three center positions and managed to hold their own at the tackles. Speed in charging and craftiness in blocking and getting through to break up the play have been absent features. Stagg has worked with his linemen industriously, but inasmuch as he has given them little scrimmage work during the last three weeks, the chances of improvement are not expected to be sensational.

Badgers Stronger in Line.

Wisconsin seems to be a little stronger than the maroons in the line and slightly inferior in the back field. With such veterans as Bertke, Donovan, Remp, and Bush in the line the Badger front line will probably be formidable. It is said that the left side of the cardinal line is not so strong, with Gelbach and Johnson and Brindley. It is upon this wing probably that Eckersall will direct his attack in his efforts to puncture the Badger defense.

Vanderboom is considered the best half back in the west, and with Findlay and Roseth a mate in the back field the ground gaining ability of the Badgers will not be of the first water. The style of game, apparent from the ability of the backs, will be of the [illegible]

ter of it with Findlay, due to his greater speed and better judgment. Bezdek seems to be the mainstay of the back field and unless calculations are turned topsy turvy he will take the full back honors from Roseth, the former Eau Claire high school star.

Eckersall, the incomparable, will of course run away with the laurels at quarter back, though if the field is not dry or solid his work will be handicapped. His drop kicking, his open field running, speed, and judgment in directing the attack make him the greatest power in the game. He is the one man the Badgers fear. He alone has twice defeated the Badgers. Kuemscthed and Melzner are both heady quarter backs, but not in the Eckersall class.

Does Not Fear for Eckersall.

Recent gossip concerning the probable attempts of the Badgers intentionally to lay out Eckersall brought forth a statement from Stagg yesterday. Vanderboom told former Assistant Coach John Koehler of the maroon team of 1903 that he had been coached to put "Eckie" out of the game in 1903, according to a recent statement of Koehler's. He was nearly successful, and a repetition of the actions of the Badger captain are feared in the Midway camp. Stagg, however, passes over it lightly.

"I have known Phil King for years, and I know his true sportsmanship. I know he would not permit any such dirty work on the part of his players. I do not believe Vanderboom was coached to use 'Eckie' as he did, and I do not expect to see him or any other Wisconsin player rough house 'Eckie.' President Roosevelt's ideals in football are an excellent thing, and they should be put into practice in this game."

Maroons' Last Practice.

Stagg took his men off to the sequestered prairies of the city yesterday afternoon for the final practice. The work was light, lasting a little over an hour. It was declared to be the best of the year. Only the new plays were practiced. New cleets over an inch long were put on the football shoes yesterday after receiving word from Madison that the field would not be fast.

Speaking of the maroons' chances in the game Stagg declared after the return to the gymnasium:

"I think we will win. It all depends on what happens to our team in a physical way—injuries, I mean. If we can go along with our regulars we will come out on top, otherwise I fear we will be up against it. Our team is decidedly on edge for the game, as shown by the weight and spirit of the men. The team work is satisfactory and there is nothing to complain of in their condition. Walker is the only man not in good shape. I kept him indoors this afternoon, having his leg 'baked.' The treatment improved his condition."

Two Special Trains.

Over 1,500 persons are expected to go to Madison with the team this morning. Four trains will be run, an extra "special" having been added yesterday when applications for tickets surpassed expectations.

About 900 students of the University of Chicago have bought tickets and it is expected that more than 1,000 will accompany the team.

The first train leaves the Northwestern depot at 8:30 a. m. The second leaves at 8:45, the third at 9:00, and the fourth at 9:30. The rates differ, according to the trains. The $3 rate is good only on the 8:30 train. The officials will be Rheinhart of Lafayette, referee; Hackett of West Point, umpire. Joe Hunter of Northwestern will be head linesman. The game will be called at 2:30 p. m.

YOST RESPECTS NEBRASKA.

Wolverine Coach Looks for a Warm Battle When Michigan Tackles the Cornhuskers' Eleven.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—"Michigan is after Nebraska," said Yost, as he and his Wolverines left Waterman gymnasium at the close of the class in football tactics that was held tonight as the final chapter in the practice before the Cornhusker game. "We may be beaten. If we lose, Nebraska can rest assured that Booth's eleven won only because our best efforts could not equal theirs. Surely, we are against a fighting foe. Nebraska has plainly demonstrated for the last three years that it was stronger than Wisconsin by its play against Minnesota."

The coach and most of his men were not present at the massmeeting, attended by 4,000 students in University hall this evening. Longman, Schulte, Schultz, and the few others who were there passed the hat for a collection with which to save the band from going on the rocks of financial embarrassment. They acted as collectors on condition that they would not have to address the crowd. Vociferous cheering greeted the pictures of Yost, Fitzpatrick, and Capt. Norcross, thrown on the stereopticon screen. Prof. Albert Stanley, head of the school of music, led in the singing and also in the voicing of the "locomotive" yell.

Coach Booth and twenty burly Cornhuskers arrived at 9:30 o'clock from Chicago. Booth took his men to their hotel and then sent them for a short walk to loosen their joints, which had stiffened in the long ride of 850 miles.

This will be Nebraska's line up, according to Booth: Left end, Johnson; left tackle, Weller; left guard, Nelson; center, Borg; right guard, Taylor; right tackle, Cotton; right end, Benedict; quarter back, Morse; left half back, Little; right half back, Wilson; full back, Mason. Only one freshman, Taylor, will be played by Nebraska.

"We have come up to win," said Booth. "Whether we lose or win tomorrow, we will play our best game. All the men are in good condition."

IOWA TEAM IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Hawkeye Players and Rooters Ready for the Gopher Game—Minnesota Is Confident.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The Iowa football squad of thirty-seven husky players, including the regulars and the freshman team, together with Coach Chalmers, arrived in Minneapolis today and everything is in readiness for tomorrow's play. The visitors look heavy and are ready to make the fight of their lives against Minnesota. They are in the best of condition and 100 per cent better than when they met defeat at the hands of Chicago, two weeks ago.

Rainy weather has interfered with Minnesota's practice during the last week and much of the work has been indoors. Dr. Williams, however, has a strong team and Minnesota feels confident of victory. The men, with the possible exception of Burgan, Cutting, and Capt. Current, are in good condition.

Betting favors Minnesota, with odds of 2 and 3 [illegible]

FINAL PRACTICE FOR ILLINI.

State Team Shows Well in Last Workout Before Purdue Game—Carrithers Unable to Play.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The final practice for the Purdue game was given the Illinois team today. The showing was good. Ray and Wheeler alternated at quarter back. [illegible] Wheeler is a dangerous man when he is in form, and the rooters count much on his playing tomorrow. [illegible]

[illegible] The coaches make no predictions, contenting themselves with the statement that they expect a hard game.

MADISON SURE OF BADGER VICTORY.

Wisconsin Supporters Think Team Will Avenge Three Years' Defeats.

BUT THEY WANT ODDS.

Players Are Warned Against Overconfidence—Ideal Weather Promised.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—All Wisconsin, from head coach to bootblack, is confident of achieving a great victory tomorrow in the game with Stagg's veterans from Chicago, which will not only wipe out sad memories of recent years, but will put the cardinal back in the position which once belonged to it in western football.

There is no doubt about this confidence. It is the real thing. There is nothing loud or boastful about it. There are no premature explosions of student noise around campus or town tonight. Coaches are guarded in their expressions of satisfaction with the Badger team. Players are being warned against over confidence, and students discuss the game in earnest groups. But down under this quiet surface there is apparent the firm conviction that this is Wisconsin's year in football.

Cardinal Backers Ask Odds.

Despite all this the cardinal backers are asking odds of 4 to 5 and 9 to 10, although even money is to be had. Perhaps the odds are asked because the students think they can get them from the maroon cohorts, who are coming here equally confident, and because Wisconsin's men want to clean up at once their losses in recent years. Little money has been placed publicly, however, because few Chicago adherents are on the ground, but plenty of "dough" is expected tomorrow.

When Phil King dismissed his wards early today after a brief signal drill out on the campus in full view of a thousand cheering students, he wore a satisfied look (in addition to his football togs). He would make no predictions, nor would Assistant Coach Holt except that it would be a hard fight and that Chicago would have to "go some." That seems to be the watchword—"hard fight"—and it is believed here that King's men will fight harder than Stagg's because they have more at stake.

Players Say "We'll Win."

Dr. Alvin Kraenzlein said: "The physical condition of the entire team is almost perfect. Barring accidents, we will go into the game without a single man in the hospital." None of the players would make any statement as to the outcome beyond the simple declaration, "We will win."

Wisconsin not only wants to win, but must win this year to hold its place. It is this desperate spirit which King has tried to instill into his men. They must win for the honor of their alma mater and their state. Back of this is the fact that several of King's veterans are playing their last year here, and they will give their right hands, almost, to be remembered by future generations of students as members of a winning team.

Chicago Not Underrated.

There is no inclination to underrate Chicago. There is no doubt Eckersall is feared mightily. Stagg's men are believed to be stronger than they have been for years. But Phil King has worked wonders under the conditions with which he resumed the coaching reins this fall. He has taken what was left of a good team, but one that was badly disorganized, and has welded together its former breaks into a strong, unified whole. He has produced a fighting machine which at least looks like the real ones he used to turn out, and has won back the loyal support of the students, alumni, townspeople, and of the whole state.

There is the possibility that present conditions inside and outside the team are so much better than last year and the year before that the improvement has produced, by sheer force of contrast a greater feeling of content than the actual results will justify, but it is only the thoughtful, cautious badger who will admit the possibility of this.

Every Star to Be in Game.

Of one fact all are sure, Wisconsin will line up at 2 o'clock against Chicago with every star who was considered doubtful in full regalia, and better than that, in the best of condition. Remp was back at center in the practice and showed no signs that his brief struggle with tonsilitis had affected his work. Vanderboom's injury practically is forgotten in the nerve and dash he is putting into his playing in practice and there are no men on the list who cannot be depended on to possess full strength throughout the game, barring new injuries.

It is admitted the maroons will bring a whirlwind in Eckersall and a great trio of backs to execute Stagg's wily offense, but King is utilizing his best linemen, particularly Bertke, to carry the ball from behind the line, and there looks to be a lot of strength in and behind the veteran tackler's plunges.

Every way the cardinal rooters look at it Wisconsin seems to have better than a fighting chance and not a soul doubts that King's men will fight to the last trench and then some, as King's men always did. By "fight" the cardinals mean the clean kind, for which King's teams always have been commended. Wisconsin is well equipped with substitutes, and the removal of any regulars through injury will tend to slow up the team. But it is pointed out that Stagg is little, if any, better off than the Cardinals in the matter of reserves, and the hope is openly expressed that neither team will be handicapped by substitutions, so that the battle may be fought to the end wholly on the merits of the rival teams.

Expect Ideal Weather.

There is every indication that ideal football weather will be furnished for the game, with clear skies and crisp, cool air, but what the going will be under foot is doubtful. Randall field still is muddy and slippery from the effects of the heavy rain of the previous day and night, but the ground is drying out rapidly under a stiff breeze and clear sunshine. It is expected the footing will be fairly good tomorrow, although it cannot be fast under the circumstances.

The advantage of a slow playing field will be in Wisconsin's favor, for it will eliminate many of the chances of Eckersall's getting under full sail for the goal line before he can be doused by the Badgers, who have been drilled especially to guard against his broken field running. It is figured here, however, that a heavy field will help the Chicago line more than Wisconsin and in this way tend [illegible]

Rehearsal on Campus.

King did not take any of his men to Randall field today, but kept them busy on the campus, which was dry and fast. No attempt was made to accomplish anything more than the perfection of signals. After a brief workout the men were sent to [illegible] The players spent their evening in [illegible] Soon after breakfast the players will be taken to [illegible] hall and a band has been engaged to furnish music for [illegible] Lunch will be served at 11:30, [illegible] war paint.

No one would suspect from the prevailing quiet that this little place was destined to be the scene of so important a game so soon. Most of the early arrivals are renewing old acquaintances and associations, while the real crowd of enthusiasts will not begin to arrive until late tonight or tomorrow morning. The great majority of Chicago's delegation is not expected until noon along with the maroon team.

Madison to Wake Up.

All the excitement is subdued and the town has not put on its glad rags yet to welcome its guests. Many stores have done honor to the occasion by lavishly decorated windows, in which a decided hue of cardinal outshines the more subdued maroon. But tomorrow will see the town blossom out in a gay dress of bunting if all plans are carried out.

Manager Downer and Chitwood conferred today over the final details for handling the expected crowd and by noon tomorrow expect to have everything in a state of completeness. Already over 4,000 seats have been sold in advance, and with the invasions from Milwaukee and Chicago a crowd of not less than 10,000 is expected.

SONGS FOR THE OCCASION.

CHICAGO.

[Air, "Yale Boola."]

O, ten to one when the game's begun
We will shout till the echoes reach the sky;
What is it tells us under the sun
That another victory is nigh?
Not the sound of all our voices,
Not the tramp of all our feet;
But the singing of that spirit
That can reckon with defeat.

Go Chica-go, Go Chica-ga,
Go Chica-go, Go Chica-ga,
Go, Chica-go, Go, Chica-go-go.

[Air, "Little Boy Blue."]

Give a shout for our alma mater,
Let the echoes reach the skies,
As the boys come on the gridiron
Let a loyal shout arise.
When the varsity band starts playing
That "Go-Chicago" tune,
Then we'll sing with hearts and voices
For the team that wears maroon.

PLAN TOUR OF ALL-STAR TEAM.

College Football Men Who Have Played Four Years May Form Eleven and Go Barnstorming.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—If present plans go through at the conclusion of this football season an all star western football team will be formed to go on a three weeks' barnstorming tour through the country. The players will consist of college football men who have played their four years and for this reason are unable to compete further as amateurs. Thomas Purtelle of Madison is a prime mover in the project and probably will manage the team.

The intention is to start out from Chicago on Nov. 18 and play the team representing the athletic clubs in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, St. Louis, and Indianapolis. Steps have been taken to secure games with each of these teams. The matter has taken definite form during the last week, and many of the players have signified their willingness to go on the trip. The Wisconsin men interested in the project are enthusiastic over the idea.

TIGERS EXPECT HARD GAME.

Princeton Rooters Not Overconfident of Outcome of Today's Contest with Lafayette.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Princeton goes up before Lafayette tomorrow in what is expected a hard game. The Eastonians outweigh Princeton and play a strong offensive game and the soft condition of the gridiron will favor them. Lafayette has held Princeton down to low scores in the last two years.

The team was given a light practice today, no scrimmage being allowed, but only a short drill in running through formations and handling punts. Bard and Daub were in the line today, and it is believed they will be able to play tomorrow.

The lineup probably will be Fryer and Tooker, ends; Cooney and Phillips, tackles; Rafferty and H. Dillon, guards; Carothers, center; E. Dillon or McClintock, quarter; Simons and Bard, halves; McCormick, full.

Chicago Boys in Yale Game.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Veeder and Tripp of Chicago, cripples on the Yale lineup during the first of this week, will be able to play tomorrow. In spite of the rain a sharp twenty minute scrimmage was played today, the varsity making two touchdowns on the scrubs, Veeder scoring the first on a twenty-five yard run, and Flinn counting the second, taking the ball on the scrubs' ten yard line. The second team surprised the regulars, making three forty yard gains, the biggest of the season. Vance, McCormick, Brink, Torne, and Grass have been chosen as additional coaches.

MOTORISTS NAME THEIR TICKET

John Farson Nominated for Presidency of Chicago Automobile Club—Secretary Gorham Up for Re-election.

John Farson has been selected to head the regular ticket by the nominating committee of the Chicago Automobile club, which made its report to the board of directors yesterday. Mr. Farson, who is now in New York, was communicated with by telegraph and accepted the nomination.

Ira M. Cobe, the present incumbent, did not seek reëlection but accepted a nomination for a position on the board of directors. Robert Tarrant Jr., N. H. Van Sicklen, Jerome A. Ellis, F. C. Donald, and Charles E. Gregory are the other candidates for the directory.

S. S. Gorham has been named to succeed himself as secretary and T. J. Harrison will officiate as treasurer. Allan S. Ray for first vice president and R. H. Marshall for second vice president are the other nominees. The election will be held Nov. 9. It is not expected that an opposition ticket will be put in the field.

Play in Pool Match.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—While Clearwater held De Oro to practically an even score in the second block of their 600 ball pool match tonight, De Oro still has almost a prohibitive lead. The score tonight was: Clearwater, 213; De Oro, 212. Total: De Oro, 412; Clearwater, 302. Tonight's high runs were: De Oro, 50; Clearwater, 37.

HARD GAME IS EXPECTED.

NORTHWESTERN TO MEET KENTUCKY AT EVANSTON TODAY.

With Coach McCornack, Capt. Rueber, and Van Ryper Absent and Many Substitutes in the Lineup the Purple Eleven May Strike a Hard Proposition in Southerners—Johnson to Run the Team, Which Is Not in the Best of Shape.

With Coach McCornack, Capt. Rueber, and Half Back Van Ryper at Madison watching the Chicago-Wisconsin game, the Northwestern team will meet the Kentucky university eleven at Evanston this afternoon. Quarterback Johnson will be acting captain of the purple squad in the absence of Rueber. The team will be in charge of Assistant Coach Allen and Trainer Holland.

The men were put through a light signal practice and were not given any scrimmage work. Turner will not be in the game as he has not sufficiently recovered from the injury to his knee. His end probably will be played by Weinberger, who has been out for practice only a week. Hamilton, the other end, also is new at the position, having been recently shifted to end from tackle.

With the large number of substitutes in the lineup the Evanston players anticipate a hard fight, as the Kentucky men are known to be headed toward Evanston with the determination of pulling out a victory. The following will be the Northwestern lineup: Hamilton, left end; Gilbreth, left tackle; Schoch, left guard; Davis, center; Carlson, right guard; Jenkins, right tackle; Weinberger, right end; Johnson, quarterback; Granberg, left half back; Barry, right half back; Blair, fullback.

GAMES IN BOWLING LEAGUES.

Ben Stell Breaks Two Seasons' Record, Averaging 239 2-3 and Getting High Score of 269.

Ben Stell, the original Chicago 300 bowler, last night broke two local season's records. Bowling with the Halcyons against the Senators in the Southwest league, he averaged 239 2-3, with high game of 269.

His team average, 1,029, just missed the high mark of 1,030 2-3, held by the Blue Island team. All three totals run over the four figure mark. Krueger averaged 218 2-3. Scores:

RACE IN MUD AT JAMAICA

THREE FAVORITES RUSH HOME TO VICTORY ON SLOPPY TRACK.

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—In the sloppy mud three heavily backed and bedraggled favorites rushed home to victory at Jamaica today. Sydney Paget's Woodsaw, however, was unable to get any part of the money in the Garden City stakes, at one mile and a sixteenth, although he got off in front and showed the way to the head of the stretch. At that point J. H. McCormick's Grenade came away from T. D. Sullivan's D'Arkle and won in a romp by five lengths in 1:48. D'Arkle had a couple of lengths over Oarsman.

Senator McCarren's Czaraphine, a hot favorite in the first race, at six furlongs, was left flat footed at the barrier. Lochinvar, who made the pace from the outset, lasted long enough to win by a neck from Ralbert, with J. H. McCormick's Emergency two lengths away.

The handicap for all ages at one mile and a sixteenth was only a gallop for Spring. He led always, Creamer easing him at the end, where he beat Jocund, with a stable boy up, by a length and a half.

Lotus, a daughter of Watercress, took the third event, for 2 year old fillies, in a gallop. Baron Esher, another good mudder, took the fifth event in spreadeagle style. He was eased up to a walk at the wire, where he beat Lindale by a couple of lengths.

Chicago Bowlers Go to Louisville.

Chicago members of the executive committee of the American Bowling congress and several local bowlers left last night to attend a meeting called by President Haager at Louisville. The party included Treasurer Frank Pasdeloup, City Clerk A. C. Anson, Godfred Langhenry, W. V. Thompson, John G. Hemmer, C. Bastian, A. R. Pudewa, and W. H. Terry of Milwaukee, who is a member of the executive committee. The main business of the session is the arranging of the contract between the Louisville Tournament association and the American Bowling congress to insure the financial end of the national championship. The Chicago men will endeavor to have several ideas used with success in local tournaments introduced into the national event. One of these is the addition of an extra scorer, and another the tagging and weighing of balls well in advance of the contest. Milwaukee bowlers are reported as booming Abe Langtry for the next secretary of the congress.

HERMAN-O'LEARY BATTLE A DRAW.

Fight Eight Rounds to Even Break in the First Show of Milwaukee Season.

SANTRY IS EASY WINNER.

Chicagoan Stops Johnny Stone in Second Session After Beating Him Badly.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Two of the hottest fights in Milwaukee's history marked the opening of the season tonight. "Kid" Herman of Chicago was held to a good draw by "Young" O'Leary, Milwaukee's latest favorite, and Eddie Santry of Chicago provided plenty of excitement by giving Johnny Stone of Milwaukee such a walloping in two rounds that the referee stopped the fight after Stone had been floored four times.

Herman had promised to knock out O'Leary in five rounds, but the contract was too big for him. O'Leary went on the offensive at the start, landing a punch with plenty of steam on Herman's jaw. For the rest of the round the men felt each other out with leads to the jaw and body. In the second O'Leary started things with rights and lefts to the body, and the men exchanged sharp rights to the jaw.

In the third both warmed up to their work, and Herman went after the Milwaukee lad with rights and lefts to all points. O'Leary came back strong, handing Herman straight pokes to the jaw, and there was some hot infighting.

The climax of the fight came in the fourth. O'Leary led to the head, then handed Herman a straight right to the jaw, staggering the Chicago lad. The boys exchanged body blows, and O'Leary landed another to the jaw. Herman planted a right and left to the head, but O'Leary put another right to the jaw, and again had Herman watching the stars.

Herman played lightly, then getting his nerve again he pushed a hard left to O'Leary's head, staggering the Milwaukeean. The boys exchanged rights and lefts to the head. O'Leary tried for a knockout, but only landed his third staggering right to Herman's jaw.

In the next round Herman evened things, landing a swing on O'Leary's ear, which brought a stream of blood, and time after time he repeated the blow, but O'Leary took the punishment well. The sixth, seventh, and eighth were marked chiefly by infighting, neither having much advantage.

Jack Britton of Chicago knocked out Steve Kinney of Milwaukee in the first round, and "Young" Edwards of Milwaukee won on a decision from "Kid" Moran of Chicago.

HART DENOUNCES JEFFRIES.

Louisville Pugilist Claims He Did Not Get Fair Show in Bout with Root.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—A local newspaper this afternoon published an interview with Marvin Hart, in which the latter makes the charge that Jim Jeffries did not give him a fair show in the recent fight with Root.

Hart says: "The night before the fight I was in a room in a hotel with Jeffries, Root, and Lou Houseman, Root's manager. Jeffries said, 'Hart, I believe you and Root are the two best men in this country. I wanted to turn my title over to my brother, Jack Jeffries, but I do not believe he can defend it. I may not give it to either of you boys, I'll see.'

"Houseman then said I must fight Root under break clean rules. Right off the reel I agreed to fight break clean, knowing I could beat Root. Later I became suspicious, because Jeffries said: 'If either of you hit in a clinch I'll disqualify you.'

"In the seventh round of my fight with Root, just as the gong sounded, and as I turned to go to my corner, Root hit me on the ear, sending me to my knees. I have the picture of the round to prove my statement. Jeffries said he did not see the foul. In the eighth round Root hit me low, but a protector which I wore saved me from damage. Jeffries said he did not see Root commit a foul. As certain as I live, the plan was to trim me at Reno and give the championship to Root, and then let Jeffries and Root fight. I am ready to fight Jeffries, and I mean it."

O'BRIEN PUTS TWO TO SLEEP.

"Philadelphia Jack" Plays to Crowded House Training for His Fight with Al Kaufmann.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien played to a big matinée at Ocean boulevard today. Of the three men who faced O'Brien in the ring, two found the mat before two rounds had been reached. They were Sam Spaulding and Harry Chester. Spaulding is a big heavyweight, whom "Biddy" Bishop enticed out of the wilds of Michigan on a promise that he would make a champion of the world out of him. Over at Croll's garden, Al Kaufmann went through his usual routine, doing about eight miles on the road in the morning and boxing with Joe Kennedy in the afternoon.

Walsh Outpoints Stanley.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—Jimmy Walsh of Newton was given a decision over Peter Stanley of London, England, tonight, at the end of fifteen rounds before the Douglas Athletic club, Chelsea. During the early part of the match Stanley did most of the offensive work, but the American boxer seemed to be in better condition at the end. Stanley entered a protest when Eugene Buckley announced his decision, claiming that he had fairly outpointed Walsh.

JAKE WEIMER GETS HIS NOTICE.

President Hart Formally Tells Pitcher He Has Been Traded to Cincinnati for Steinfeldt and Sebring.

President Hart of the Chicago National league club announced yesterday that the deal with the Cincinnati club whereby Jake Weimer was traded to the reds for Steinfeldt and Sebring, had been completed. Weimer received his ten days' notice of release yesterday and at the same time Steinfeldt and Sebring were notified of the trade in Cincinnati.

President Hart and Vice President Murphy of the local club are pleased with the deal and expect the addition of the two reds will greatly strengthen the Third Nationals next season. Mr. Hart said:

"Steinfeldt and Sebring should more than make up for the loss of Weimer. We have another left hand pitcher coming to us next spring, Jack Pfeister of the Omaha club, and from what I have heard of him he should prove one of the best in the big leagues."

All of the correspondence received for the Selee testimonial was sent to the stricken manager at Colorado Springs. The letters, close to a hundred in all, made a large package and will show Mr. Selee the esteem in which he is held by lovers of the game.

Two games, in which the Nationals and the White Stockings are billed as star performers, are scheduled this afternoon. The Nationals will play the Gunthers at Gunther's park, while Comiskey's men will meet the West Ends at West End park. The lineups of the two major league clubs will be almost the same as those which played during the championship season.

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—President P. T. Powers of the Eastern league, sent out notices today that he would not permit his name to be used as a candidate for reëlection at the annual meeting of the league. President Powers included in this notice his withdrawal from active management of the league, calling a special meeting to be held at the Hotel Imperial in this city on Oct. 24. President Powers has been connected with the Eastern league for twelve years as president.

Cleveland Signs Second Baseman.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Preparing for an emergency, the Cleveland baseball club today signed Scott Ingerton, who played second base for the Ashtabula Trolley league team last season. He will be tried out in the spring, and will be used at second in case Lajoie is unable to play.

MUELLER LAW CERTIFICATES.

It is the general impression that the mayor will send a message to the council on the subject of Mueller law certificates. It is understood that he will ask it to pass an ordinance authorizing the issue of certificates for an unknown amount to be submitted to the voters for ratification next April. None can be issued without previous popular approval. Unless the mayor is courting another rebuff on the part of the council he hardly will submit the ordinance in question.

The Mueller law provides generally that certificates may be issued to acquire street railroads by purchase or construction, or to equip a road. The certificates are not to be issued for an amount in excess of the cost to the city of the property acquired and 10 per cent of the cost in addition. It was the understanding of the framers of the Mueller law that when the council had ascertained definitely what it would cost to buy, construct, or equip a road it would ask the voters for authority to issue certificates for the exact amount required. It was not their understanding that power to issue certificates should be granted to the municipal authorities before it was determined precisely how the certificates were to be used. Then if the authorities seemed to be ready to pay too much for the purchase or construction of a road the voters would have it in their power to veto the transaction.

This appears to be the view of the case taken by most of the aldermen. They are of the opinion that the precise use to be made of certificates should be determined before authority to issue them is asked for. They see nothing to be gained by action such as it is understood the mayor desires. They are not thinking of buying or constructing a road. They are pursuing a policy which, if it be successful, will make a resort to Mueller law certificates unnecessary.

If the mayor is well informed as to the temper of the council he must know that the ordinance which it is understood he is having drafted will not impress it any more favorably than his "contract" plan did.

The council is open to suggestions from him, but they should be of a practical nature.

THE STATE'S ATTORNEY.

"Is it not a fact that the office of state's attorney is the most powerful and important office, so far as the interests of the people are concerned, that we have under our form of state government?" This question, Gov. Deneen says in an article in the Saturday Evening Post, was put to him recently by a newspaper man, and he answered "Yes." Mr. Deneen was one of the best state's attorneys Cook county ever had, and he speaks with authority born of experience.

The state's attorney, as Gov. Deneen points out, is "the people's lawyer, the legal protector, in his community, of the people's rights and the interests of good government, the man who must take the initiative in applying the arm of the law to those who are believed to be defying it." Upon the way he performs his duties largely depend the public safety and moral welfare. If he be incompetent or venal open immorality and outrage will prevail. If he be honest, aggressive, and able he may, in large measure, stamp crime out and raise the tone and character of the whole community. Folk in St. Louis, Jerome in New York, and Deneen and Healy in Chicago have in recent years shown what an honest and capable prosecutor may do almost single handed toward driving out immorality, graft, and other forms of crime and securing the disgrace and punishment of those responsible for them.

The importance of having a strong prosecutor is hardly less in rural localities than in large cities. Unfortunately, it is not generally recognized in either. In rural counties the prosecutor's office usually goes to young men who have just been admitted to the bar. As might be expected, the fledglings usually prove incapable either of bringing evil conditions in the community properly to the attention of the grand jury or of opposing successfully the trained and skillful lawyers who usually appear against them in the trial of important criminal cases. In cities also leading lawyers are seldom put in the state's attorney's office, and, as the state's attorney in a city often owes his place to some political boss, he is likely to be venal or supine even if able.

One of the chief reasons why, in both city and country, the prosecutor's office so seldom is occupied by the right man is that the salary paid usually is not half what a lawyer of good reputation and ability may reasonably expect to make in private practice. It is time the public awakened to an adequate appreciation of the great importance of the work of the state's attorney and made the office profitable enough to be attractive to the best lawyers at the bar. Defective procedure and judges and juries are usually blamed for the numerous miscarriages of justice that take place in the United States, but many—perhaps most—of them are due to poor prosecutors. Public morals and public safety demand that the people shall be represented in the courts by as experienced and able lawyers as defendants, with large financial resources at their command.

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION.

An election may be extremely important and yet evoke no popular interest. That is emphatically true of the approaching election. The registration was small, and, according to all indications, the vote will be light. Last spring, when the vague, indeterminate question of municipal ownership was being discussed there was great excitement. This fall, when some really practical questions are being submitted to the people they are profoundly indifferent.

A board of drainage trustees has to be elected next month. Its members will hold office for five years and will expend millions of dollars during that time. The main drainage channel has been completed, but there are additional channels to be cut. There must be one to take care of the sewage in the Calumet basin. There must be another north of Evanston to connect the North branch and the lake. The widening of the South branch to provide an adequate flow of water has to be completed. The work of developing and utilizing the water power the drainage channel has created must be finished.

These are costly undertakings even when carefully and prudently conducted. They can be made to swallow up millions to no purpose—unless it be the enrichment of contractors—if intrusted to men who are incapable or dishonest. Here is sufficient reason why the voters, and especially those who are taxpayers, should take a lively interest in the approaching election. The health of the community, so far as it depends on the purity of the drinking water, and the size of tax bills for the next five years, will be affected by the kind of men who are chosen as drainage trustees.

The voters should look at the lists of candidates, make inquiry as to their standing in the community and their competency, and then go to the polls to vote for the men they deliberately conclude are most worthy of their support. The coming election is too important to be treated with indifference.

BRIDGE CLOSING HOURS.

The proposition to change the hours for closing the bridges to navigation in the morning is one to be earnestly recommended for favorable action by the council. The present hours for closing, 6 to 8, undoubtedly were satisfactory at the time of their institution. Since then, however, conditions have changed. The time for beginning work in stores, offices, and other lines of occupation has altered. The proposed new hours, 6:30 to 9, will be more in accordance with the present business hours of the downtown district.

The plea of the vessel owners that a change in the hours of bridge closing will work hardship to them without benefiting pedestrians and patrons of the street cars is hardly borne out by the facts. The traction officials, who make it their business to know at just what hours the traffic is heaviest, testify that the morning rush comes now much later than it did formerly. The number of people who come to work at 8:30 or 9 has steadily increased. Probably the majority of downtown offices do not begin the day's work before 8:30. Certainly the majority of the large stores do not. The people employed in offices and stores downtown equal, or outnumber, those in the shops, factories, or trades in the business district. With the bridges opening for the passage of boats at 8 o'clock it is inevitable that tardiness should be often forced upon store and office employés.

An additional reason for changing the hours exists in the impending closing of the tunnels. At present the cable lines take care of a vast number of workers who have no fear of coming late because of the opened bridge. With the closing of the tunnels this army will come to work over the bridges. The likelihood of delay to hundreds of passengers each morning will be then greatly increased if the hours for opening the bridges to river traffic were allowed to remain as at present. Changing conditions demand that the hours for morning navigation be altered. The vessel owners, who are the only dissenters to the proposed change, will find that they can arrange their schedules to accord with the new hours, and they cannot expect the question of their convenience to offset that of the hundreds of thousands who would be benefited by a new ruling.

NELSON AND FRANKLIN.

The people of England will enthusiastically celebrate today the centenary of one of the greatest events in their country's history. One hundred years ago this morning Lord Nelson hoisted over his flagship the famous signal, "England expects every man to do his duty," and sailed to meet the combined French and Spanish fleets off Cape Trafalgar. Ere evening he was dead, but not before his heroic soul had tasted the satisfaction of knowing that the enemy was annihilated.

The celebration will be in honor not only of the victory of Trafalgar but also of Lord Nelson. England well may commemorate both. Aboukir bay, Copenhagen, and Trafalgar give Nelson the first place among naval commanders. He possessed in unrivaled measure the physical and moral courage and the at once farseeing and audacious genius which make a great sea fighter. Aboukir bay and Copenhagen were perhaps as well fought as Trafalgar, but in effects on world affairs Trafalgar far surpassed either. It was one of the great decisive naval battles of history. It blasted forever Napoleon's hopes of a successful invasion of England and gave England the supremacy upon the seas which she has maintained without successful challenge to this day.

While England is doing honor to the memory of her great naval hero the United States ought to begin preparations to celebrate the bicentenary of the birth of one of its greatest men of peace. It will be two hundred years on Jan. 17, 1906, since Benjamin Franklin was born. The recital of the achievements of a Franklin do not appeal to the imagination and stir the blood as does the story of the deeds of a Nelson. But the services of Franklin to the United States, if less shining, were not less solid than those of Nelson to England. As agent of the colonies in England he exerted himself with admirable tact and ability to get the justice from the mother country which would have prevented a rupture. Failing to secure the necessary concessions he did more for American independence than any other man except Washington. He helped draft the declaration of independence. When the colonies were bankrupt he got in France loans without which Washington would have had to send his soldiers home. When more than money was required his consummate diplomacy got from France fleets and armies. When the new nation needed a constitution Franklin's ripe wisdom helped frame it and patriotically urged its acceptance, although it failed in important respects to meet his ideas.

Boston, the birthplace of Franklin, and Philadelphia, where most of his life was spent, are preparing to observe his centenary. Not Boston and Philadelphia only but the entire nation is his debtor and ought to join in paying appropriate tribute to his memory. Self-made man, writer, philosopher, patriot, diplomatist, statesman, few Americans have reflected so much luster upon their country or are so worthy to be held up for the emulation of this and future generations.

The governor of Mississippi may say something to the governor of Arkansas before the president's trip is over, but it should be regarded as sacredly confidential and not given out for publication.

Perhaps Cap'n Anson has a lurking suspicion that he will be called upon to run for the mayoralty some day on a "no lid" platform.

No city has ever surpassed Glencoe's speed record in bumping itself into fame.

It ought not to be expected that Mr. Robert McCurdy would consent to travel in a style less gorgeous than that to which he is accustomed at home.

It is a shock to learn that anything is going on in Evanston upon which it is necessary to clap a lid.

William A. Clark's presentiment that Tom Lawson would get around to his case some day has been realized.

In order to avoid possible confusion Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Edison should hold a conference and arrange separate and distinct advice itineraries.

The fierce storms of the last few days have destroyed much property along St. Joe's water front, and if they continue over Sunday they will inflict serious injury on St. Joe's marriage industry.

Mr. Dougherty will note that the "wave of reform which seems to be sweeping over the country" threatens to wash the McCurdys off the landscape.

The asphalt companies acknowledge that they used $30,000 in pacifying Venezuela.

The Esch-Townsend bill is beginning to look like the Schleswig-Holstein question.

Under President Roosevelt the country has "grown and prospered," likewise, but there is no talk of raising his salary to $150,000 a year.

In the matter of expense the drainage canal threatens to make even the Panama canal look sick.

The president might have made another hit by addressing the immense crowd at Atlanta yesterday as "ladies, children, and candidates for governor."

October's repentance for having given us a few weeks of superb weather earlier in the month appears to be deep and sincere.

When Lake Michigan decides to go on a rampage, not even Montgomery Ward can stop it.

When the policy holder who wanted to know what had become of his dividends saw the figures showing that the McCurdy family had been paid nearly $5,000,000 for its services, he got his answer.

Sculptor Elwell's protest against the Morganization of art comes too late to be effective, but it makes good reading.

A natural desire to show that the McCalls and McCurdys did not succeed in getting it all may impel young Mr. Hyde to present a large and interesting array of figures when it comes his turn to be investigated.

Or is October merely acting as the advance agent of November?

No trouble is anticipated in removing the Coyne from the old postoffice building to the new.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Still Further Back.

The man in the mackintosh had told what he regarded as his best story.

It had been received in silence.

"O, it's a Joe Miller, is it?" he said.

"Older than that," sorrowfully answered the man who had his feet on the table. "It's a Chauncey Depew."

Outranked Him.

It happened at a station on the elevated.

A big policeman and a 16 year old special delivery boy attempted to rush through the gate at the same instant.

They collided, and stuck fast in the gate.

The train pulled out and left them, just as they wrenched themselves loose.

Then the big copper turned on the boy.

"You dad-burned, insignificant little——"

"Aw, wot's bitin' ye!" interrupted the boy, raising his hand warningly. "Skiddoo! You work fur de city, an' I work fur de United States guv'ment. Git away f'm me!"

The officer, who probably had read in his little book that he could not arrest a carrier on duty, gnawed his mustache reflectively and walked to the other end of the platform.

Whereupon a man who owns an automobile relieved his feelings by clapping the boy enthusiastically on the shoulder and giving him a 50 cent piece.

His Indignant Protest.

The college freshman, who had doubled himself up on a seat in the smoking car, was sound asleep when the train ran off the track.

He was thrown across the back of the seat ahead, and half a dozen men were piled on top of him.

"O, I say, fellows!" he mumbled, angrily, "let up! When you've hazed a chap once, good and proper, that's enough! Cut it out!"

Found Out.

Rivers—"What have you got that string tied around your finger for?"

Brooks—"By George, I'm glad you mentioned it! That's to remind me to ask you for the fiver I lent you a month ago."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1905: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

Switzerland has decided to change her national anthem, owing to the identity of its melody with those of the national anthems of Prussia and of Great Britain. These national anthems, contrary to popular belief, are a relatively modern institution. For until the eighteenth century no country possessed a national anthem of any kind. One of the first nations to adopt a national anthem was England, and considerable pains were taken to emphasize the fact that it was King George I., and not the Jacobite pretender, who was meant. A preposterous attempt has been made to prove that the melody was a composition of Lord Halifax's illegitimate son, Henry Carey. But the air is a much older one, of a religious origin, and was adopted almost immediately afterward by Prussia and by Russia, Switzerland, and America following suit. That is to say, at the end of the eighteenth century there were at least five countries—namely: England, Prussia, the United States, Russia, and Switzerland—using identically the same melody for their national anthem.

It was Emperor Nicholas I. who in the middle of the nineteenth century, at the time of the Crimean war, decided to cast aside a national anthem borrowed and imported from the enemy, and to substitute for it a genuine Russian anthem of native composition. The present national hymn of Russia is probably the only one that was ever adopted as the result of an open competition—like the legendary tournaments of the bards of the court of Thuringia, of the master singers of Nuremberg, and of the violin makers of Cremona. The musical committee appointed to do the first rough work of collection rejected all the anthems sent in except two, the respective merits of which were left for the emperor himself to determine. One was by Glinka, the renowned composer of "Life for the Czar." The other was by Lvoff. Glinka's hymn was thoroughly Russian in character and in the form of a march. Lvoff's was more solemn, but much less original. He knew, however, too well that a highly military style of instrumentation would appeal to the imperial ear, and his drums and trumpets decided Nicholas against all claims to recognition on the part of the more artistic Glinka. Nicholas cannot, however, be said to have made a bad choice. Both works were good, and if he preferred the more demonstrative of the two it was probably because he knew so well the tastes of his people.

The Austrian imperial hymn, as every one knows, was composed toward the latter end of the eighteenth century by Francis Joseph Haydn, though whether on his own initiative or by imperial order seems uncertain.

With regard to the French national anthem—namely: the "Marseillaise," the words thereof, as every one knows, are by Rouget de L'Isle. But few people are aware that the melody is German, and that, as shown by the late Castil Blaze, the most eminent French musical critic of the nineteenth century, the air was borrowed by Rouget de L'Isle from a collection of German religious melodies.

National anthems, it may be added, play a much more important rôle in monarchical countries than those which are blessed with a republican form of government. For the playing of the national anthem invariably proclaims the advent of one or another of the members of the reigning family at any public or semi-public function, the number of bars played depending more or less upon the importance of the scions of royalty present and upon their proximity to the throne. To such an extent is this custom practiced that some of the anointed of the Lord have conceived a perfect horror of the national anthem of their respective countries, due to the fact, of course, of its being dinned into their ears so often.

King Leopold, anyhow, entertains the most holy abhorrence of music of any kind, and one of the most plausible reasons for his notorious preference for the strictest kind of incognito in his queer peregrinations, both in his own dominions and abroad, is that by this means he manages to avoid the hated strains of "La Brabançonne."

King George of Greece, on the other hand, is a remarkably clever musician, and it is just on this account that he cannot bear the ear splitting melody that does duty for the national anthem of Greece. He makes no secret of his sentiments about the matter, at any rate when he is abroad, and one of the first things that he does each year on his arrival at Aix-les-Bains for his annual cure is to address an entreaty to the local authorities, and particularly to the bandmasters, asking them to spare him the Greek national anthem during his stay.

In the colonies, particularly in those of Great Britain, the national anthem has had the effect on several occasions of setting the entire population by the ears and of bringing about the recall of the governor, the point at issue being as to whether this august dignitary should remain with his hat doffed when the national anthem was played. Some governors have argued that as the representative of the sovereign they were entitled to remain covered when the anthem was played in their honor, and their wives have even gone so far as to remain seated on the specious pretext that they were entitled to share their husband's honors and prerogatives.

On the other hand, it may be pointed out that not only Queen Alexandra but even King Edward himself makes a point of invariably rising to his feet when "God Save the King" is played, on the ground that it is the national rather than the royal anthem, and that it is a national rather than a royal institution. All these things may seem trivial and futile to people in this country. But abroad they play an important rôle, far more so than any one here would be willing at first sight to believe.

Ambassador Jusserand at Washington has just missed enjoying at any rate the temporary proprietorship of a handsome steam yacht known as the Jeanne Blanche. The latter was bequeathed last summer by a multi-millionaire tallow candle manufacturer of the name of Faulquier to the French government, the will stipulating that it should if possible be placed at the disposal of one or another of France's ambassadors. There is one ambassador to whom the services of a yacht are allowed—namely: the envoy at Constantinople. But for reasons which are obvious it has always been considered preferable that the ships affected to this particular duty should take the form of gunboats, so as to afford protection and refuge to the embassy staff in the event of anti-Christian rising at Stamboul. The French ambassadors at St. Petersburg, Berlin, Madrid, and Rome found that they would have no use for a yacht, and Paul Cambon in London was equally positive about the matter.

But the French embassy at Washington, especially those junior members thereof who are in the habit of spending the summer at Newport, thought that a fine steam yacht would be useful, and endeavored to convince the department of foreign affairs at Paris that its possession would be conducive to the prestige of France and of her representatives in America. The minister, however, could not see where the funds for the maintenance of the yacht were to come from, and, realizing that to keep it in commission even for a few months in the summer would make a big hole in his budget, he declined the bequest as far as his department was concerned.

The legacy was about to be refused by the state when finally the minister of the colonies decided that he could use the boat on the west coast of Africa, and from now on it will be employed by the governor general of that least salubrious of all France's transpontine dependencies for his official visitations along the coast.

HOWDY, MR. WINTER?

Howdy, Mister Winter! But isn't you again!
Haven't had a visit from you since I dunno when.
Thought I heard you laughin'—mus' 'a' been a week ago—
When the north wind shouted just as it began to blow;
Thought I heard you chuckle when the grass was turned to brown
An' the withered flowers lost their holt an' fluttered down.
Hear you at the window; hear you in the chimney, too—
Howdy, Mister Winter; howdy, howdy do!

See the leaves a-racin' down the middle o' the street,
Leapin' an' a-dancin' like they all was bound to beat,
Jumpin' far an' fu'ther till they're scattered roundabout—
Some gives up an' falters like they was all tuckered out;
They all know you're comin', and they rustle from the trees
Catchin' in their hurry to the fingers of the breeze,
Worryin' an' scurryin' to get away from you—
Howdy, Mister Winter; howdy, howdy do!

Little brook is sleepy where it winds around the hill—
Yesterday 'twas singin' but today it's very still;
Somethin' come an' told it in the middle afternoon
An' it stopped its singin'—never finished all the tune.
Hawk away up yonder in a never-endin' sail;
Somewhere from the stubble comes the whistle of a quail;
Frosty mist a-creepin' where the sky was clear an' blue—
Howdy, Mister Winter; howdy, howdy do!

Howdy, Mister Winter! I can hear you at th' door,
Got the fire a-blazin' an' the shadows paint the floor,
Play among the pictures; an' the ruddy gleams o' light
Stream out through the windows, where you're waitin' in the night.
I can hear you mutter in the bushes down the lane,
See your snow flakes pattin' on the glowin' window pane.
Here's the place for me to be, an' there's the place for you—

ROOSEVELT WINS SOUTH BY RICHMOND SPEECH.

President's Address at Old Confederate Capital Declared to Rank with Abraham Lincoln's Famous Speech at Gettysburg.

BY HENRY WATTERSON.

[From an editorial printed in the Louisville Courier-Journal this morning.]

Certain puzzle headed newspapers affect to see in the warm welcome met everywhere by the president on his journey through the south a variance from the storm of indignation which followed the Booker Washington incident. Their surprise, where it happens to be genuine, is the offspring of a literalism equally without sympathy and imagination, or else it is the figment of a sectionalism which has put party spirit before all other considerations. Bigotry so dense knows not the people of the south.

Theodore Roosevelt, the partisan republican, succeeding the gentle McKinley with a ruthless assault upon southern ideas and predilections in the Indianola affair, in the Crum affair, and in the Booker Washington affair—Theodore Roosevelt, the self-willed executive, twirling the big stick, and riding rough shod over whoever or whatever got in his way without much regard to law or usage—Theodore Roosevelt, the presidential candidate who, having captured the machine and secured his nomination, seemed borne along upon a golden stream of campaign contributions wrung from the corporations by methods that to say the least of them looked like coercion—in short, Theodore Roosevelt, the strenuous, aroused the antagonism and invited the attacks of all who could see in his election only a menace to the peace of the country as well as to good order and good feeling in the southern part of it.

That was a year ago.

Coming in upon a wave of unexampled popular volition, partly the rebound of extraordinary conditions, but at the same time an undeniable personal tribute, another and quite a different Theodore Roosevelt appeared upon the scene. The big stick was laid away; the habiliments of the rough rider were exchanged for more conventional apparel; words were uttered and engineries were set in motion which gave the people promise of emancipation from the rapacity of certain aggregations of capital that had long defied the law, and finally by an act of daring as original as it was felicitous and sustained throughout by unflagging, persistence and intelligent purpose, this re-created Theodore Roosevelt stands forth an archangel of peace, bringing upon himself and his country glory unspeakable.

These are simple facts emphasized by their unexpectedness, for they did not spring and could not spring from any logical deduction, either of personal character or of political antecedents.

The Theodore Roosevelt who spoke at Richmond of Lee and Jackson, who, standing in the confederate capital, under the shadow of sectional battlefields, bravely put sectionalism and partyism beneath his feet, who tenderly, and in the name of a dead mother, claimed kindred, there is a gray horse of quite another color. Then and there he touched the button that in an instant thrills as it lights all southern hearts. Then and there he wiped out every old score and opened a fresh set of books. Who has changed, he or we; what boots it? May be neither, may be just a case of plain old fashioned misunderstanding.

Meanwhile there is no disputing, no resisting words like these:

"Coming today by the statue of Stonewall Jackson, in the city of Lee, I felt what a privilege it is that I, as an American, possess in claiming that you yourselves possess no greater right of kinship in Lee and Jackson than I have. I can claim to be a middling good American, because my ancestry is half southern and half northern. I was born in the east and I have lived a good while in the west, so long, in fact, that I do not admit that any man can be a better westerner than I am. There was an uncle of mine, now dead, my mother's brother—who has always been among all the men I have ever known the man who it seemed to me came nearest to typifying in the flesh that most beautiful of all characters in fiction, Thackeray's Col. Newcome—my uncle James Dunwoody Bulloch, an admiral in the confederate navy. In short, gentlemen, I claim to be neither northerner, nor southerner, nor easterner, nor westerner, nothing but a good American, pure and simple. Next to a man's having worn the blue comes the fact of the man's having worn the gray as entitling him to honor in my sight."

In breadth of patriotic spirit and in far reaching statesmanlike suggestion, nothing finer than this was said by Abraham Lincoln. It deserves, indeed, to be recorded in letters of gold alongside the Gettysburg speech, being at once an echo and confirmation of that immortal utterance. Breathing such sentiments, bearing such a message, Theodore Roosevelt becomes one of us, which is only to say that we are all Americans, equally proud of a common country, equal heirs of its sublime traditions, nor less loyal to the flag of the union because we followed the flag of the confederacy.

The south has wandered forty years through a wilderness of sectionalism for this vision of the promised land of perfect nationality. It has longed for some messiah of patriotism and brotherhood to rise in the north and to reach out to it the hand of equality having a heart in it. To Theodore Roosevelt this happy lot has fallen; and having fought him like a man the south sends the memory of all frictions to the rear and greets and acclaims him as a kinsman.

Though we differ tomorrow, never again shall there be from us acerbity of thought or speech. Today at least shall be given to the love of God, to the fellowship of manhood, and to the unity and glory of our country. Let mean and paltry bigots, let glum faced partyism for a moment stand aside. Room, room alone, whilst the president passes through "the states lately in rebellion" for the grandeur of the nation and the majesty of the people.

MORE GLORY AND ADDED PLAUDITS ARE ROOSEVELT'S PORTION IN SOUTH.

To a Man Almost, Democratic Strongholds Are Preparing Enthusiastic Welcome—The President Appeals to the Imagination, a Fitting Object for Hero Worship, Like to None Since Grant.

BY RICHARD WEIGHTMAN.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The president, accompanied by his party, is now making his long promised and much discussed southern trip. As regards the itinerary in general, it meets with practically unanimous approval. Mr. Roosevelt proposed to visit a number of localities which he has not seen hitherto, and to make contact with many communities that are total strangers to him so far.

Of course, as I already have explained, his object is twofold. He wishes above all things to meet the southern people, with whom he has many ideas and aspirations in common. He wants to visit his mother's birthplace in Georgia and to mingle with those who knew and loved her.

But he also intends to talk to the southerners about his proposed reforms, especially that which relates to governmental regulation of the railroads. He knows that there is a deep desire in the south to have this consummation achieved, and it must be admitted that he has arranged his route shrewdly with this object in view.

He will visit districts where the sentiment is strong, and speak to many thousands of men who are already in full sympathy with his plans. Naturally, he will not be able to cover the whole ground, but he will come as near it as possible in the time he can spare for the propaganda.

Dislike Negro Recognition.

As might have been expected, we already have had certain indications of an unfriendly nature here and there. A number—though a small one, I am told—of invitations to the Richmond banquet were declined. Then in Montgomery, the capital of Alabama, the city council refused to appropriate even so much as $250 for the president's entertainment. They heard that he intended to spend as much time at Booker Washington's Tuskegee institute as at Montgomery, and this they construed as an indelible affront.

Similarly, at Tuskegee itself, when the mayor of that sprightly town received a communication from Secretary Loeb suggesting a conference with Prof. Washington and a division of the president's time between the municipality and the college, all in the interest of harmony and expedition, the mayor replied that he had no intention of discussing that or any other matter with Booker Washington. Indeed, he intimated brusquely that while Tuskegee would be glad and proud to welcome the president of the United States, the people did not care to enjoy the honor in partnership with the negro college just outside of town. It was not put exactly in the language I have employed, but that was the meaning of the message, and even Mr. Loeb could hardly have misunderstood it.

In Arkansas, also, there has been an awkward hitch. It seems the governor of that astonishing state has made up his mind to have nothing to do with the ceremonies at Little Rock, the capital, and great is the commotion and the excitement thereof.

But these are all mere unimportant incidents, sound and fury, signifying nothing. The great body of the southern people—and that is what chiefly concerns President Roosevelt—is awaiting him with perfect good will, with eager interest, and with genuine admiration.

He appeals to the southern imagination as no man, with the exception of U. S. Grant, ever has done. Even in the bitter and cruel days that succeeded the civil war, and when Grant officially was behind the machinery of oppression and spoliation which crushed and desolated a brave and conquered people, the old soldiers of the defunct confederacy always persistently believed that he was misled—the innocent victim of bad advice and his own generous emotions.

In the late '60s there was a perfectly developed movement at the south, having for its object a military dictatorship with Grant at its head. It was a much more formidable affair than the country imagined at the time, but it failed only because Grant was above the temptations of imperial power and loved his country better than he did himself.

Southern Glory Will Be His.

This is ancient history. The men who were behind the movement are dead and cannot testify. And so the country will never know the facts of Grant's colossal renunciation. The fact remains. What I say is true, and if Grant had sold himself to ambition—swallowed the most alluring bait ever dangled before the eyes of mortal man—the tragedy of our civil war would have faded into insignificance in the dread shadow of the gigantic drama that Grant could have ushered in by the very simplest word.

But this is to discuss the buried past. I am talking about Mr. Roosevelt, who is as far apart from Grant as the arctic is from the antarctic pole. He is impressionable, passionate, instant. Grant was deliberate, phlegmatic.

And I repeat that Roosevelt has appealed more powerfully to the southern imagination than any man, with the single exception mentioned, who has ever sat and ruled in Washington. He will go south and win admirers by the thousand.

He is young, impulsive, obviously sincere, instinct with high and patriotic purpose. He has the dash and élan of a Rupert, the bravery of Boabdil, the patriotic enthusiasm of Kossuth or Garibaldi.

The south will respond to him—for the time being, at least; and he will return to Washington crowned with the laurels of public approbation.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Thomas Orchestra.

Surprise was written large across the public rehearsal of the Thomas orchestra in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. It was the opening of the fifteenth season of the valued organization and an audience of large proportions was present to welcome Mr. Stock and his men and to enjoy what they had to offer. That the hall had undergone some changes since the close of last season was known, and curiosity as to what the effect of these changes would be was not wanting. That the alteration in the stage had made possible a different placing of the men also was known and the result of this new grouping was awaited with keen expectancy.

The hall and the orchestra were subjects, therefore, of interest, but that the program would discover anything out of the usual was not anticipated. A list of works consisting of the Bach D-major Suite, the Beethoven Fifth Symphony, the Strauss "Don Juan," the Wagner "Siegfried Idyll," and the Liszt "Les Preludes"—a list of such oft heard selections certainly could bring to light nothing especially new or startling. It was a "regulation" program, purely orchestral in character, as is customary for the opening concerts, and calm, quiet enjoyment of long familiar messages of musical beauty was about all that reasonably could be expected. But just in this feature of the afternoon the greatest surprise was offered. The works themselves were familiar, that is true, but the performance accorded them was so remarkable that even the most thoroughly routined concert goer soon began to straighten up and realize that new meanings and new beauties were being revealed in those messages, every sound of which was supposed to have been familiar long ago.

The Bach Suite did not prepare for the surprise that was to follow. It was a beautiful performance, and a wonderfully warm blooded, virile reading of the sturdy, noble work. The opening bars of the Overture were slightly unsteady, as though the nervousness of the commencement of a season was not without its effect on both conductor and men, but the forces soon swung into perfect accord of purpose, and the rest of the movement went finely. The Air was taken a shade more deliberately than patrons of the concerts had been accustomed to, but the gain in breadth and lyric bigness due to this slightly slower tempo was unmistakable, and was especially commendable, inasmuch as any suggestion of the draginess of sentimentality was carefully avoided. The Gavottes, Bourree and Gigue, were crisp and full of the impulse and spirit of humor and youth. It was an admirable performance in every way, but the audience, while appreciative, did not expect that which followed. Beethoven's Fifth Symphony! It has been heard and admired until admiration almost is content to forego further hearing. Surely nothing new could be disclosed in that work!

The first "knock of Fate" claimed notice, however, and before a dozen measures had been played every auditor was tense with interest and breathless with attention. All the dramatic significance of that first movement, all the struggle, all the longing, all the unrest which are voiced in it—and Beethoven has written the genuine "program music" in this first movement of "the fifth," if it has been penned in any score—were voiced as they have not been voiced before in Chicago. And there was no disrespect shown to Beethoven in this impassioned reading, either. All the broad, majestic lines of the noble work were preserved, and with a plastic beauty and unswerving strength that made the truly monumental character of the symphony impress as it rarely has done before. But the attention to detail, the lyric beauty with which every phase, whether in leading voice or middle part, was shaded, nuanced, and lifted into light but not into obtrusiveness, stamped the performance and the reading as among the most remarkable that admirers of the great work have been permitted to hear. And the other three movements were equally striking in the wonderful lyric beauty, the unfailing repose, the impressive breadth, and the superb poise proportion and surety which distinguished their delivery.

The men of the orchestra played as they but rarely have played before. Every eye was on Mr. Stock from the first measure to the last, and, with avoidance of all fuss or display, the young leader impressed his men and his hearers in a manner such as it is given but to the elect in the musical world to do. It was a master performance, a performance individual, strongly personal, and distinctly the young leader's own, and yet the best and truest Beethoven spirit was not wanting in a single measure of it. The "traditions" may have been jogged a bit, and their worshipers doubtless felt their nerve centers twinge, but those who find in the Beethoven music the utterances of a man who was full of the sympathies, the poetry, the passion, and the beauty of life in its broadest, best sense could find nothing in Mr. Stock's splendid treatment of the symphony which did not call for most unqualified praise.

Following the intermission the surprise and delight experienced in the symphony continued. The "Don Juan" of Strauss impresses as the most inspirational, the most unified creation of the daring composer. It is "from a single pouring," to borrow a German phrase, and rehearings of it serve but to deepen admiration. Yesterday it fairly blazed in color under the baton of Mr. Stock. The men gave of their utmost, and a performance exceptional in every particular was the result.

The "Siegfried Idyll," as played, was a piece of as pure lyricism as could be found in orchestral literature. Its phrases were sung, every one of them, and the poetic spirit of the lovely composition knew a revealment which spoke in terms of unqualified praise of the splendid technical condition of the men at this, the opening concert, and of the perfect accord and enthusiasm which they feel in their work. Liszt closed the program, and with no falling off in the high interpretative standard reached by Mr. Stock and his players. New beauties and new meanings were disclosed in even this hackneyed number, and the rehearsal in its entirety took place as one of the most interesting, most impressive, and most notable the orchestra ever has held.

Tonight the same program will be heard again, and if its presentation equal that of yesterday afternoon an evening of delight is in store for every person who attends.

HIGH TRIBUTE TO IRVING.

ENGLAND GIVES BURIAL TO ASHES IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Services for Dead Actor Are Impressive in Character and Conducted in Presence of Many of Leading Personages in Official Life of Empire—That Demise Is Considered as National Loss Is Shown in General Evidence of Sympathy.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The ashes of Sir Henry Irving today were given burial in Westminster Abbey, thus being accorded England's greatest tribute to her dead. The services which were of an impressive character, were conducted in the presence of a congregation which included many from the highest official life of England. King Edward was represented by Gen. Sir Dighton Probyn, keeper of the privy purse, and the Prince of Wales was represented by Lieut. Col. William H. P. Carrington, controller of the prince's household.

Service Most Impressive.

The service, although simple and short was most impressive. As the mourners arrived Sir Frederick Bridge, the organist of Westminster Abbey, played Chopin's funeral march, followed by Purcell's funeral music rendered with trumpets and trombones. Then came Schubert's "Marche Solennelle."

At noon the procession started from the chapel of St. Faith, where the casket containing the ashes had lain over night, and passed through the cloisters to the space between the choir and the sanctuary where the casket, covered with the pall of laurel wreaths, was placed on a catafalque. During the procession the choir sang the hymn, "Brief Life Is Here Our Portion." Then followed the psalm, "Lord, Thou Hast Been Our Refuge." The lesson was read by Canon Duckworth. After the anthems the casket was borne to the grave as the organ pealed forth the funeral march from "Coriolanus."

Widow and Sons Mourners.

The only mourners were Lady Irving and the sons of Sir Henry Irving. A few intimate friends and the pallbearers, Sir Squire Bancroft, the earl of Aberdeen, Lord Tennyson, Lord Burnham, Sir Alexander Muir-Mackenzie, Beerbohm Tree, Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, Sir James Dewar, Arthur Wing Pinero, Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M. P.; Charles Wyndham, John Hare, George Alexander, and J. Forbes Robertson, followed the casket to the grave in the narrow space surrounding which are tombs and statues of many of England's great men of letters.

Of the mass of floral pieces but four had places during the service. One of these was a cross of lilies from Queen Alexandra bearing the words:

"To Sir Henry Irving from the Queen—Into Thy Hands, O Lord, Into Thy Hands!"

That the death of Irving is considered a national loss is shown by the universal mourning throughout London. Scores of thousands of persons stood in the streets for hours around the abbey as the only means of paying a last tribute. The flags on many public buildings, including the American embassy and consulate, were at half mast, and hundreds wore crêpe bands and black ties.

Ambassador Reid sent the family of Sir Henry Irving a message conveying his personal regard of Sir Henry and sincere condolences in behalf of the American nation.

Novelist Condemns Irving.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—George Bernard Shaw, the Irish novelist, has found the Neue Freie Presse of this city willing to allow him to relieve his spleen against Sir Henry Irving in its columns. Shaw condemns the dead actor as a narrow minded egotist who was devoid of culture and who lived to dream of his own greatness.

TRIBUTE TO NELSON'S MEMORY.

Celebration in Honor of Centenary of Naval Hero's Death Ushered In with Banquet at London.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The national celebrations in honor of Lord Nelson, the hero of the Trafalgar, which will culminate tomorrow in ceremonies at the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square on the centenary of the hero's death, were ushered in tonight by a banquet. A telegram was received from Vice Admiral Togo expressing "Our ever increasing admiration for and devotion to the great admiral." Baron Hayashi in a speech declared that Lord Nelson's memory was as much revered in the Japanese navy as it was in that of Great Britain. The Nelson column in Trafalgar Square has been beautifully decorated. Nelson's ship, the Victory, which is lying at Portsmouth, will be brilliantly illuminated tomorrow night and British warships throughout the empire will parade their crews.

NEMESIS OF GRACE IS HELD.

Grand Jury Will Consider Charge That Mrs. Dahlberg Threw Pepper Into Rich Contractor's Face.

Mrs. Augusta Dahlberg, who was arrested recently on the charge of throwing pepper into the face of William Grace, the contractor, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Justice Wolf. She was enjoined from molesting Mr. Grace and her bonds were placed at $1,000. Mr. Grace told the court that Mrs. Dahlberg was endeavoring to blackmail him.

"She has threatened my life a hundred times," he said.

Mrs. Dahlberg denied that she had threatened to kill him. "I did not throw anything in his eyes," she explained. "He had broken up my home and I wanted to talk to him. I didn't hit him with an umbrella."

Thomas Maher, an express driver, testified that he kept the two apart at the time of the alleged assault. He said neither struck any blows.

CONVERT INDIA PRINCESS BACK.

Sooboonagum Ammal, Who Disappeared from Mission in India Two Months Ago, Returns.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—A message received by the foreign missionary branch here from Grace Stephens, at Madras, India, says that Sooboonagum Ammal, the convert Hindoo princess who left the mission two months ago, has returned to her work.

The first reports from India of the princess' disappearance said she probably had been kidnaped by her relatives, who were so angry at her embracing of Christianity they performed a funeral service over her effigy.

A later report, however, declared the princess had recanted and gone back to her Brahmin home. Miss Stephens' message does not straighten out the tangle.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE VOTES AGAINST OUTER BELT PARKS.

Trustees on Building and Grounds Body Trustees on Buildings and Grounds Body Will Lessen Board's Income.

Condemnation of the proposed outer park belt system for Chicago was voted at a meeting of the buildings and grounds committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon. On receiving a legal opinion that the tax feature of the forest reserve would come within the Juul law 5 per cent limitation the Rev. R. A. White introduced a resolution expressing disapproval of the plan. It also provided that the president of the board be authorized to take steps to protect the funds of the board from depletion, should voters favor the outer belt project. Dr. White said part of the $400,000 for the improvement would be taken out of the school treasury.

The full board will pass on the resolution later.

The committee settled the Wicker Park school feud by an "honorable" transfer to Michael Condon, the engineer, to another school near by. Both sides were "vindicated."

Complaint was received from John Scanlan, engineer of the Charles R. Darwin school, that John M. Brennan, a pipeman at fire station No. 43, had caused annoyance by standing as champion for unruly pupils. The matter was referred to Chief Campion of the fire department.

PAYS $1 TO GO NOWHERE; CABMAN'S LICENSE REVOKED

Italian Carried from La Salle Street Station and Back Again by Preston Scott, Who Loses His Permit.

A cab ride from the La Salle street station to the same station cost Lancino Vincenzo $1. It cost Preston Scott, the driver, his license yesterday.

Vincenzo, an Italian and a stranger in the city, arrived on the Lake Shore railroad Oct. 17. He approached Scott's cab, presented a letter written in Italian, and said he wanted to go to the station of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad.

Scott said nothing and there was not even a smile on his face when he opened the door of his cab and beckoned for the foreigner to enter. Vincenzo eagerly obeyed, glad to find some one who could direct him. Then Vincenzo was driven to Van Buren and Halsted streets and back.

Vincenzo paid the money demanded, but he thought the station had a familiar appearance and he confided his suspicions to M. Walsh, station master.

The cab licenses of Patrick Coughlin and Frank Clark, stationed at the Auditorium hotel stand, also were revoked.

SIMPLE LIFE FOE OF DISEASE.

Prof. Mix of Northwestern University Says It Will Give Protection from Germs.

The simple life as a protection from disease was recommended last night by Prof. Charles L. Mix of Northwestern university, who gave a lecture on disease germs at the Academy of Sciences, Lincoln park.

"We can ward off disease germs," said the professor, "if we are careful to eat those things which are healthy. I firmly believe that farm cooking and a simple life, together with plenty of fresh air, will keep the body in good health and in condition to fight off these germs.

"We make a great stir," he continued, "over yellow fever and smallpox, which cause comparatively few deaths, and pay no attention to consumption and pneumonia, which cause half the deaths by germ diseases.

"We are working to prevent these diseases, and I believe that diphtheria can be stamped out by proper isolation and the use of counteracting poisons. Consumption is decreasing, and it would decrease more in Chicago and Illinois if we had a tuberculosis hospital."

TRACK EXPERT O'NEILL FIGHTS BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT.

Has Filed in Court the Deposition of a Traveling Man Who Claims to Have Written Fervent Love Letters to Plaintiff, Miss Mabel Beland—The Young Woman Wants $50,000 Damages from Defendant, Whose Adopted Niece She Is.

The story of the love making of John O'Neill, the track elevator expert, will be told in court soon by his adopted niece, Mabel Beland, who is suing O'Neill for $50,000 damages for alleged breach of promise. The case will be placed on Judge Gary's trial call.

O'Neill's defense will be a general denial of the charges and an attempt to show that the girl received the attentions of other men, while according to her allegations, she was engaged to O'Neill. This was shown by a deposition filed in the Superior court yesterday.

The deposition is that of Robert G. McLellan of Oshkosh, Wis., a traveling salesman. A number of fervent love letters are identified by McLellan as having been sent by him to Miss Beland, or O'Neill, as he knew her. The meeting between McLellan and Miss Beland is described by McLellan in a letter as "just like a fairy tale." It occurred on a snow bound train in Michigan, McLellan and the girl being the only passengers on the car.

Question of Ability to Pay.

In answer to the statement of Henry Bernritter, the contractor who is reputed to be worth $300,000, that he is too poor to pay the temporary alimony sought by his wife, Laura, who is suing him for divorce, Mrs. Bernritter filed an affidavit alleging that her husband has spent large sums of money on Lucia A. Sothern, who is said to be the daughter of a St. Louis (Mo.) clergyman. Miss Sothern is said to live in a richly furnished apartment at 4119 Ellis avenue.

Adventures in the Antarctic.

Capt. Scott's "Voyage of the Discovery."

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

MESSRS. SCRIBNER expect to publish next week an unusually important book of travels. It is called "THE VOYAGE OF THE DISCOVERY," and is by Capt. Robert F. Scott of the royal navy, and is published in two large illustrated volumes. The book contains a complete and elaborate account of what is described as the most important antarctic exploration expedition ever undertaken. Not only were important geographical and scientific discoveries made, but a point much farther south was reached than by any previous explorers. Capt. Scott, the author of the book, was the commander of the expedition. In writing this account of his voyage, Capt. Scott has taken it as his first duty to write for the guidance of future voyagers, and he has done his best to keep this object in view, and he has succeeded. The book, while valuable to the scientist and the specialist, is good reading for the average public.

For one reason or another the antarctic region has never offered the same inducements to the explorers as has the arctic circle. Expeditions have been sent out to the south pole, but they were not as many as to the north pole, nor has the general public cared as much for what has been done at the southern extremity of our hemisphere. I do not mean to say that there have not been a great many important expeditions to the south pole, but it has not attracted the romantic interest that hovers around the north.

The expedition of which Capt. Scott was the commander set sail in June, 1900. He confesses at the outset that he had no predilection for polar exploration. Early in June, 1899, he was spending a short leave in London, and, chancing one day to walk down the Buckingham palace road, he espied Sir Clements Markham on the opposite pavement, and "naturally crossed, and as naturally turned and accompanied him to his house." "That afternoon," continues Capt. Scott, "I learned for the first time that there was to be such a thing as a perspective antarctic expedition; two days later I wrote applying to command it, and a year after that I was officially appointed. On June 30, 1900, I was promoted to the rank of commander, and a month later my duties in the Majestic lapsed and I was free to undertake the work of the expedition."

* * *

I am interested in what Capt. Scott says about dogs as a means of transportation. Every arctic expedition that was ever fitted out depended largely upon dogs and sledges. On this subject Capt. Scott says:

"To say that they (the dogs) do not greatly increase the radius of action is absurd; to pretend that they can be worked to this end without pain, suffering, and death is equally futile. The question is whether the latter can be justified by the gain, and I think that logically it may be, but the introduction of such sordid necessity must and does rob sledge traveling of much of its glory. In my mind no journey ever made with dogs can approach the height of that fine conception which is realized when a party of men go forth to face hardships, dangers, and difficulties with their own unaided efforts, and by days and weeks of hard physical labor succeed in solving some problem of the great unknown. Surely in this case the conquest is more nobly and splendidly won."

This argument will be disputed, I imagine, by other arctic and antarctic travelers, but it has the sound of truth in it.

* * *

A special chapter is added to the end of this book giving a general survey of the observations of the expedition; but Capt. Scott freely admits that it is impossible to give anything like a complete summary of the results of the expedition until the scientific observations have been thoroughly examined by experts. Packed ice he found, of course, the main obstruction to exploration, and icebergs were also, of course, one of the terrors to be confronted. The size of antarctic icebergs, he thinks, has been much exaggerated, though when the formidable appearance of these objects is considered there is every excuse for such exaggeration. Of the many hundreds encountered by the discoverer few exceed a mile in length or 150 feet in height.

Only an expert can do justice to these two volumes, and I do not pretend to know anything more on the subject than the average reader. I heard a man who had made several expeditions to the north pole say that the public was not interested unless you had suffered; the more you had suffered the more wonderful the public regarded your accomplishment. Two of the expeditions, this man stated, had accomplished a great deal in the way of scientific discovery, but as there had been comparatively little suffering there was no great enthusiasm over the expedition. Another expedition that followed these into the frozen north, by not knowing how to travel in those regions, met with much hardship, and its sufferings were told in detail. The consequence was that this expedition aroused great sympathy and attracted wide attention.

Capt. Scott's expedition had comparatively little suffering. It should, nevertheless, attract attention for its discoveries, of which we will know more later on when experts have given their verdict.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has set aside all thoughts of Sherlock Holmes for the present and is engaged upon a novel of which more than one-half is already written. The name of this new story is "SIR NIGEL." The scene is laid in the middle ages, earlier, even, than the scene of "The White Company." The story will begin in the Christmas number of the Strand Magazine, which magazine, it will be remembered, gave birth to Sherlock Holmes. Indeed, Sherlock Holmes may almost be said to have given birth to the Strand Magazine, for it was the adventures of that ubiquitous gentleman that gave the Strand its greatest circulation. As the Strand Magazine is published in New York as well as in London, and as it has a large following over here, in all probability no American magazine will have the serial rights in the new tale.

The announcement that Mr. Charles Dana Gibson is going to fold his tent and silently steal away to Spain has come in the nature of a surprise to those who are not in his confidence. Mr. Gibson is so much of a New Yorker that it is hard to imagine his setting up his drawing board in any other city. But it is not, after all, his drawing board that he is going to set up. He is going to set up an easel and paint pictures after he has studied the art, and he is going to Spain to study it. He may, however, return to this country for his summer holiday. Mr. Gibson is a fortunate young man. He has been fortunate from the start. No sooner did he put his pencil to paper than his work was appreciated. No illustrator has ever made anything like the money that Mr. Gibson has made, putting it entirely on a commercial basis. De Maurier, while he made a good living, never made anything approaching a fortune until he became a novelist. Mr. Gibson has made all his money with his pencil, and he has been paid fabulous prices ever since he attained his great popularity. It is quite right that he should, too. A man should be paid according to his earning capacity, and if an artist or a writer can draw a crowd of admiring subscribers to a magazine, the magazine can well afford to pay handsomely for his work. It is pleasant to record that Mr. Gibson is entirely unspoiled by his success. In this respect he is not like some of his would-be rivals.

I have just learned that the interesting letters of art criticism signed "N. M.," that appear with more or less regularity in the columns of the New York Evening Post and Nation, are written by Elizabeth Robins Pennell. Mrs. Pennell is the wife of Joseph Pennell, the etcher and illustrator, and the niece of the late Charles Godfrey Leland, who will be remembered as the creator of "Hans Breitmann," though he was the author of books of a much more serious character.

* * *

The reverend gentleman who suddenly became famous as the author of a book called "How to Be Happy Though Married," Mr. E. J. Hardy, is out with a new book (Scribners) called "JOHN CHINAMAN AT HOME." Mr. Hardy is not a great writer, but he is an entertaining writer and ranks in prose with Tupper in poetry. Mr. Hardy's famous book was bought by a great many people who misunderstood its character. They imagined it would be more or less sensational, instead of which it was as gentle as the Rev. Charles Wagner's "Simple Life," and much on the same order. In visiting China he looks through the eyes of the author of "How to Be Happy Though Married," and he writes with the pen of the author of "How to Be Happy Though Married." Not bad eyes so far as they go; not a bad pen so far as it goes. It is interesting to see what this writer has to say about betrothal and marriage in China, a subject upon which he is supposed to be more or less familiar. Writing of married life, Mr. Hardy says:

* * *

"Perhaps the ordinary Chinese married woman does not in practice obey her husband much more than does the British, but she must obey her husband's father and mother. The latter she calls 'mother,' or 'mother-in-law-mother.' If she receive a present she must hand it over to her mother-in-law. This mistress not seldom beats her, and may call upon her son to do so, too. Should she strike back she may be brought before a magistrate and receive a hundred strokes of the bamboo. And yet there have been mothers-in-law who were conquered by the tact and forbearance of their daughters-in-law. Dr. Williams quotes the following, translated from the moralist Luhchau: 'Loh Yang traveled seven years to improve himself, during which time his wife served her mother-in-law and supported her son. The poultry from a neighbor's house once wandered into her garden, and her mother-in-law stole and killed some of them for eating. When the wife sat down to the table and saw the fowls she burst into tears. Asked the cause of her distress, she said: "I weep because I cannot supply you with all I wish, and because I have caused you to eat what belongs to another." The mother-in-law was so affected by this that she threw away the dish.'

"A Chinese gentleman does not eat with or talk to his wife, or make her a companion in any way. Nor can the poor thing indulge in talking to him, for loquacity is one of the seven reasons for the divorce of a wife recognized by law in China. The other six reasons are childishness, wanton conduct, neglect of husband's parents, thievishness, jealousy, malignant disease.

"There are, however, three conditions under which the above seven reasons fail to justify divorce—viz.: if the wife has no home to go to, if she has twice shared the period of three years' mourning for a parent-in-law, and if she has risen with her husband from poverty to affluence.

"The position of a married woman is shown by the proverb, 'You must listen to your wife, but not believe her.'"

* * *

It is quite likely that Mr. Hardy's book will find a greater number of readers than the books of more learned travelers; but I am not ashamed to say that I find it entertaining; not as entertaining as Mrs. Isabel Bird Bishop's books, nor as thrilling, but none the less interesting.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

STRIKING, ANONYMOUS NOVEL.

"Trident and the Net" Reviewed by George C. Howland of the University of Chicago.

"THE TRIDENT AND THE NET," by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress" (Harper & Brothers), is one of the most striking novels of the year. Among the gladiatorial combats there was one in which the weaker contestant was enveloped by a net which rendered his struggles vain and left him to be pierced by the trident in his opponent's hand. Here it is Fate that holds the net and the trident. A young man, noble by birth and by nature, the heir to great estates in Brittany, is driven to desperation by the jealous suspicions of his mother. In a moment of mistaken chivalry he assumes the protection of the daughter of an adventuress. Grief upon grief gathers. Every opening in the entangling net, every outlook upon joy is but the opportunity for another thrust of the trident. Indeed, one high evidence of the author's genius is the skill with which the lengthening list of Fortune's stabs is kept from seeming unnatural.

Incident to the earlier portions of the narrative are some exquisite scenes of life in Brittany. Like a Greek tragedy the story opens with the blue sky, the cliffs, the wrinkled sea, and the free salt air. The brother and sister whose mutual love makes the wounds of the trident more poignant are pictured as two children seeking at the risk of life the sea birds' nests. Then appears the pageant of a Breton peasant wedding, with the 6 year old lord of the manor ruler of the feast. Strength, beauty, joy are the watchwords here and these bright pages serve to deepen the gloom in which one of these gay lives, still young, is to close. The art that conceals art renders the reader unconscious of anything but the story. It is only when the end is reached that he realizes that he has been under the spell of a great writer.

The author's earlier writings contained nothing to arouse anticipations of such a work of genius as this. To prove versatility as well as a high order of talent charming reproductions of water color sketches by the author illustrate the text. The headings for the chapters are bits of verse which even in fragments reveal a true poet. The volume is a surprise. It is to be hoped that it does not indicate a height never to be regained.

"A MAID OF JAPAN," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser (Henry Holt & Co.), is a charming idyl of the Japanese coast, complicated and almost spoiled by the introduction of a comic element. Himé, the maid of Japan is a naiad, a fairy, a girl half Japanese, half English, and wholly lovable. The love passages between her and her wandering cousin are delicate and poetic. But, unfortunately, a guide is introduced, Nakayama, a Japanese professor, who has studied in America. He is meant to be a dignified exponent of the best that is in the Japanese character, but the British author of the story combines in Nakayama's language all the slang, current, and obsolete, all the dialectic peculiarities, which she has been able to remember after a wide reading of American humor, and the result is not funny, but exasperating. Japanese students are better known to the American universities than to the English universities, perhaps, but Nakayama should never have been introduced to any public.

This one blemish aside, "A Maid of Japan" is a pretty story, and from its author's well earned reputation may be assumed to be a faithful picture of Japanese life. It is printed and bound in a way that suggests the Japanese, without being a direct imitation. It is not a long story, but will reach the reader's heart.

NEW MEMOIR OF LORD TENNYSON.

Correspondence, Diary, etc., Edited by His Son.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

It is long since I have known such a pleasure as that experienced in reading the "Memoir of Alfred, Lord Tennyson," by his son. (The Macmillan company.) Numbering over 500 pages, it comprises all of the correspondence, diary record, and unpublished poems which the Tennysons care to have made public, and the memorialist is quite open in the expression of his desire to have no further work of biography of his father given to the public. Nor is there need, for the record is complete. Nothing more remains to be said. The volume contains nothing which the most reverent admirer of Tennyson would desire to have expunged. Never was a memoir written in a finer spirit. It is simple without being homely, dignified without being conventional, confidential, but not unduly so. The profound love of the son for the father appears continually, yet it is an undercurrent and is never forced upon the notice. The author has purposely refrained from giving a personal estimate of the character or the literary product of the poet, but has left that to such intimates as Edward Fitzgerald, Frederick Locker-Lampson, Aubrey de Vere, and others.

It has been the idea of Americans that Lord Tennyson was exclusive, cold, and critical. If, in his sensitive and delicate old age, he kept a retirement which excluded him from the sight of many who would fain have made a boast of grasping his hand, he appears to his associates to have been an affectionate friend and a marvelous companion. An excerpt from the diary of Lady Tennyson may explain the ways by which her husband acquired a reputation for hauteur.

"The bishop of Winchester," she writes, "bishop of Albany, and others spent the afternoon. Six Americans tramped up the drive and rang the doorbell and asked to see Alfred. He did not feel up to entertaining six strange Americans, so rushed up the tower, followed by the two bishops—but eventually asked the bishop of Winchester to go down and receive them, saying: 'A live bishop will be more appreciated than a poet laureate.' So down went the bishop from the study and made himself most agreeable, and they departed, charmed."

* * *

Tennyson's first meeting with the queen who was to honor him, and whom he was to honor, was touching in the extreme. She was fresh in her widowhood, and too moved by the presence of the poet to talk with freedom.

"'In Memoriam,'" she told the poet, "has been a greater comfort to me than anything save the bible."

He had little recollection of what they said to each other. They stood near together, examining each other with curious and sympathetic eyes, Tennyson too nearly blind to perceive her features clearly, and she looking at him with wistful innocence. Fitzgerald, the crust, so ungracious in his attitude toward many of his contemporaries, appeared to have an unenvious and beautiful affection for Tennyson. The Carlyles gave him something more than good will, the Brownings were enchanted with him and his work. The full tide of admiration and confidence that flowed toward him bore him along in a flood of contentment.

Tennyson fils has been able to follow scrupulously the development of his father's mind. In many instances he was acquainted with the incidents which inspired poems, or stanzas, or lines. The poet writes: "There was a period in my life when, as an artist, Turner, for instance, takes rough sketches of landscape, etc., in order to work them eventually into some great picture, so I was in the habit of chronicling, in four or five words or more, whatever might strike me as picturesque in nature. I never put these down, and many and many a line has gone away on the north wind, but some remain—e. g.:

"A full sea glazed with muffled moonlight.

"Suggestion—The sea one night at Torquay, when Torquay was the most lovely sea village in England, tho' now a smoky town. The sky was covered with thin vapors, and the moon behind it.

> "A great black cloud
> Drags inward from the deep.

"Suggestion—I was walking in the new forest. A wind did arise and

> "Shake the songs, the whispers, and the shrieks
> Of the wild wood together.

"Et cetera, et cetera."

* * *

At no time, in all of this voluminous correspondence of Tennyson with many friends, or in the records in this books, or casual utterances to friends, does he appear ignoble. A sweet nobility appears to sit upon him. He moves to high music. From the time when he left his young sweetheart because he had not the means with which to support her till, ten years later, he returned to her, faithful as the day they parted, and on till the close, he seems to have been governed by an inherent loyalty and rectitude of soul. His profound friendship for young Hallam is dilated upon in this book in a manner satisfying to the curiosity of all admirers of that alliance of adolescent dreamers. Indeed, the finer inquisitiveness with which one approaches the life of a great man is satisfied. One sees in imagination the scenes amid which the poet walked, the order of his days, his modes and moods of work, his faith and doubt, his sorrow and his joy, his soul development, and, at the end, his serene passing; yet, seeing all this, one is yet spared a too intimate view. With an exercise of taste most admirable, the younger Tennyson has kept his distinguished father in this proper place, moving, a grave demi-god, amid shades congenial to him. For this dramatic triumph all those who love the essence of a man rather than his external eccentricities will feel grateful.

The "passing of Arthur" was not more exquisite than the passing of him who made of Arthur's dream life an immortal reality. As the last hours approached he said to his son:

"Where is my Shakspeare? I must have my Shakspeare." Then: "I want the blinds up; I want to see the sky and the light." He repeated, "The sky and the light."

So philosopher and poet have cried for the sun—always, in dying, the same cry!

When Tennyson died the page of Shakspeare was open at the words, often quoted, by the laureate:

> "Hang there like fruit, my soul,
> Till the tree die."

His last words were a blessing to his wife and his son, and his son spoke over him the words of the poet's own prayer:

"'God accept him. Christ receive him.' Because," says the son, "I knew that he would have wished it."

It is not alone an ennobling view of Tennyson that this gravely beautiful memoir gives, but the fine aspects of other poets, and of Victoria, and personages in other walks of life. Never did Victoria appear to better advantage than in her affectionate correspondence with the Tennysons. Letters of condolence or of congratulation were written with the frank confidence of a friend, and signed "yours affectionately, V. R. I."

It is a noble literary statue that the later Tennyson has erected to his father. Of heroic size, calm, beautiful, inspired, it cannot but better all who look upon it. The reader must feel, perforce, a noble jealousy of the privileges of a son who has such a father to memorialize, and who has inherited the feeling and the taste to enable him to do it so fittingly.

* * *

I always feel a great interest in the virgin product of a talented writer. There is something so expectant, so unreserved and confiding about such a book. Seldom in the subsequent products is there to be found the same exhibition of temperament, the same revelation of principles and ideals.

I dare say you have read some one of the novels of Mr. Arthur Stanwood Pier. He has written two or three, and now produces "THE ANCIENT GRUDGE," which is more ambitious than the preceding ones. Hitherto there has been a certain obviousness about Mr. Pier's work, which seemed a quality of his youth, or—as one feared in pessimistic moments—an inherent habit of mind. But Mr. Pier stands at man's stature in this new book. (Houghton, Mifflin & Co. are the publishers.) He has produced a good, strong, sane, interesting, and earnest American novel, which has every argument of probability.

The hero of the book is Floyd Halket, the grandson of an iron magnate, and one who grows to a serious manhood from a serious boyhood, to find his responsibilities ready made to his hand. The creation of Halket is one on which Mr. Pier may pride himself. A consistent, perfectly understandable character is this stern, inflexible, generous, wistful young man, who offends an insouciant world with his inopportune heroism. His earnestness is the trap which catches him and holds him back from mere enjoyment. He incurs the enmity of the companion he most admires by saving his life—the friend finding gratitude an unbearable burden. He loses the woman he loves through sheer magnanimity. He meets all responsibilities without compromise and all but loses his life as a result.

The story deals extensively with the question of unions and the attitude of a certain class of employers toward union labor. The hero is opposed to the union, or at least to the tyranny of the unions, and declares for nonunion labor in the vast iron mills to which he has fallen heir, and he wins his point. The only compromise he makes with life is to accept the love of a woman who is "as moonlight unto sunlight" compared with his earlier love. But that, you will agree, is a probable enough circumstance. In fact, the book is distinguished by its probability. The vacillating character and the enduring charm of Stewart Lee, the friend whom Halket saved from death, is probability itself; so is the haunting, indescribable charm of Lydia Dunbar, who was loved of Halket but married to Lee; so is the shifting mood of the ironworkers; so, too, is the calumny, the opposition, the animosity that all but submerge the hero; and so, too, thank heaven, is the contentment that the hero finds at last.

Mr. Pier's book is a dignified and highly creditable performance, and he goes up over the heads of several in his class as the result of his achievement.

ELIA W. PEATTIE.

W. H. Grattan Flood is the author of "THE HARP" in the Music Story series, imported by Scribner's Sons. It deals with the antiquity and history of the instrument, the harp in the bible, the Irish and Welsh harps, medieval, English, Scotch, and Irish harps, and all the variations of the instrument down to the present day. There are many illustrations.

G. P. Putnam's Sons are handling in this country a reprint of "ROMANO LAVO-LIL," one of those strange collections of gypsy lore which George Borrow was so fond of making. It is, as he styles it, "a wordbook of the Romany language, with specimens of gypsy poetry, and an account of certain gypsyries or places inhabited by them." The Romany and English are on opposite pages. There will be others perhaps besides the Barrovians who will be interested in the book. Among other various things it contains the Spanish gypsy version of "Malbronk."

THE STEINWAY PIANO
A MINE OF MUSIC

THERE is a pleasure in selling a Steinway, that is entirely out of proportion to the profit involved in the transaction. In fact, Steinway Pianos are sold upon a very narrow margin. But when we sell a Steinway Piano, there is a finality, a completeness about the transaction, that is a source of deep satisfaction.

In the sale of a Steinway we receive a few hundred dollars. Now what does the purchaser get?

You get a piano that will prove not only a source of exquisite delight to you as long as you live, but also a musical pleasure to your children during their lifetime.

Long after the average house will have been torn down or have reached the shabby stage, the Steinway will hold, but little dimmed, great possibilities of enjoyment.

Great melodic treasures are stored in every Steinway. It is a mine of music.

How comes the Steinway to be filled with music to such a superlative degree?

Patient, loving care in the making is the answer. It is practically all hand-work, that is, no machine is used for the purpose of cheapening. Where hand-work is better it is invariably employed. Every idea for generations of the greatest family of piano makers the world has ever seen, is carried to its highest perfection in the Steinway Piano.

The Truth About Stoves

By the Largest Makers of Stoves and Ranges in the World

MANY people have been deceived in believing that stoves were cheap because of a low price, when experience proves them the most expensive.

A small price may be paid for a stove which looks attractive in the catalogue, which has been described as "perfect," but it is liable to prove a very expensive purchase; for ten chances to one, trouble will arise from this stove in a month's time—it may not heat or cook properly, or it may consume fuel like a locomotive. Then the material in the stove itself may wear so poorly that at the end of a year or so it will have to be replaced.

You never get something for nothing in this world, and when you pay a small price for a stove, that price must cover the cost of material and labor, and include a reasonable profit, consequently inferior cast-iron and steel, and the cheapest and most inexperienced labor, must go into this seemingly low-priced stove.

Expert Stove Advice Free.

We have opened an "Advice Department," in charge of an expert stoveman, simply to tell the people, absolutely free of cost, all about stoves. And this expert will honestly advise you just which stove or range will best suit your needs. We also want those who have lost money on the seemingly inexpensive stove, to let us tell them how they can save money by buying a "Garland," even if the first cost is a little more than that of the cheap and unsatisfactory stove. We want them to let us tell them about the advantages of "Garland" Stoves and Ranges, which always prove a good investment.

We make a "Garland" to fit every stove need and have books accurately describing the different kinds. We could not afford to open this "Advice Department" or send out the valuable literature we do, free of charge, if "Garland" Stoves and Ranges were not distinctly superior to other makes; if the magnitude of our operations did not make it possible for us to sell them at reasonable prices, and if our reputation and methods of doing business did not insure absolute satisfaction.

If you are considering the purchase of a stove or range, cut out this coupon, check (this way ✓) the kind of stove you are interested in, mail it to us today, and you will promptly receive our Expert Advice as to just which stove is best suited to your needs, and why, and our literature, free of charge.

Receiving our Expert Advice and literature will not put you under any obligation to buy. We simply desire the opportunity to give you the evidence of the tremendous superiority of "Garland" Stoves and Ranges, and leave the buying decision entirely with you.

* * *

In order that "Garland" Stoves and Ranges shall last, we make them of the very best materials and employ the most expert workmen in the world.

"Garland" Stoves and Ranges are durable and handsome in appearance. They are highly nickeled and each "Garland" will last a lifetime.

"Garland" Stoves and Ranges will not "burn out," but will heat and cook perfectly, and will save fuel, save repairs, save worry, save money.

We have local dealers who handle our stoves exclusively, in nearly every village, town and city in the United States. You can examine "Garlands" before you buy, instead of after. You can satisfy yourself that "Garlands" are exactly as represented. There will be no freight to pay on "Garlands" and the dealer will set them up without charge.

If no dealer in your town sells "Garlands," or you decide to buy a stove not in your local dealer's stock, you can enjoy the above advantages. We will make a special arrangement so that the stove you want will be delivered to you and properly set up ready for use in your own home.

The Written Guarantee of The Michigan Stove Company accompanies every stove, and protects you by the absolute guarantee that every "Garland" is as represented—The World's Best.

THE HULBERT HOUSES ...OAK PARK...

RESIDENCES ONLY—NO FLATS ALLOWED.
$4,250 TO $7,000 ON PAYMENTS ANY BUYER CAN EASILY MAKE.

Too many houses are bought on their attractiveness at one time, rather than on their adaptability for all the time. In the summer there is no great objection to being landed at a railway station a mile from your business point nor to the long walk at the home end of the line, but for seven months of the year, they mean constant discomfort, exposure, and loss of time. In spite of all this, the smoke, the dirt, the noise, and the ever encroaching flat building of the central city, have been forcing the people farther and farther out, the pure air, the cleanliness, and the healthfulness more than atoning for the drawbacks they had to endure to gain them. How to be able to obtain all of these without discomfort, without exposure, and without loss of time, has until recently been an unsolvable problem. But this problem has been solved. It means good location, good surroundings, the conveniences of city life, the absence of the flat building, and the quick transportation that will take you from where you are and land you where you wish to go, and THE HULBERT HOUSES ON THE HULBERT PROPERTY AT OAK PARK mean all of this and more. Their beauty of design, their thoroughness of construction, and their location in the choice residence section of Oak Park and the ease of reaching them, make them the most desirable homes for sale today in or about Chicago—and with no other homes can you buy protection from the flat building, now and forever.

TRANSPORTATION.

Garfield Park branch of Metropolitan Elevated to Oak Park-av., walk two blocks west. Lake Street Elevated to end of line, walk one block east, four blocks south. From west side Madison-st. cars direct to Clinton-av.

IN THE REAL ESTATE WORLD

John P. Wilson has purchased from Silas P. Hubbell the property at 1436 Michigan avenue, fronting 25 feet, with a depth of 172 feet, for $25,000, and from Thomas E. Wells the property adjoining on the south at 1438, also 25x172 feet, for $25,000. Both have old improvements, which were not given any value in the transaction, making the sale at the rate of $1,000 a front foot. Mr. Wilson plans to improve the two properties with a brick business structure. Both sales were negotiated by E. C. Waller Jr., associated with Oliver & Co.

The property at 33-35 River street has been sold by Nellie E. Church of New York City to William E. Furness for $35,000. The ground fronts 34 feet with a depth of 100 feet, and is improved with a three story brick building. The board of review valuation was $48,600.

The flat property in Wabash avenue, forty-nine feet south of Thirty-second street, with 50x164 feet of ground, has been sold by Roland T. Goode to Robert H. Langston. A nominal consideration is named in the deed, but the sale is subject to an incumbrance of $20,000. The property was subsequently conveyed to Gustave H. Adamick.

J. A. McDowell has sold to William H. Fahrney property at Sheridan road and Granville avenue, 104x195 feet, for $12,500.

Greenebaum Sons have loaned $36,000, five years at 5 per cent, to Wallace G. Clark and J. Wilton Trainer, on 113x97 feet in Ellis avenue, 195 feet north of Forty-second street, west front.

The Union Trust company has loaned $36,000, five years at 4½ per cent, to William L. De Beck on flat property at Indiana avenue and Forty-second street, with 65.9x160 feet of ground.

ON THE LOCAL EXCHANGE.

SUBWAY STOCK ACTIVE AND ADVANCES 2¼ POINTS.

Canal and Dock a Feature in Firmness, Buying Being Based on Expected Purchase of Tract from the Company—Horse Show Financial Affairs—Standard Milling Report Shows Decrease of Profits—Mergenthaler Linotype Earnings.

Chicago Subway stock became active on the local exchange yesterday, and the price advanced 2¼ points from an opening at 43½. The buying was broad, several houses which heretofore had declined to purchase the shares except for cash being buyers. The encouragement afforded by genuine business appeared to invite some of the buying of the character which has discredited the shares. A little more of the same sort and the market for the stock will be akin to that which obtained for several months.

Canal and Dock shares were a feature in firmness, the price advancing from 57 to 60. At the close 60½ was bid. The buying results from negotiations for the purchase of a tract of land owned by the Canal and Dock company. A purchaser of property from the company may meet half the purchase price by turning in the company's stock, which is accepted at par. The motive for buying the shares can thus be appreciated. Stock worth 60c on the dollar may be turned in at 100. But it is probable the recent buying has been of a speculative character due to the knowledge that a considerable deal is on and that the prospective purchaser would in all probability lighten the cost to himself by turning in Dock stock as part of the purchase price. The shares have been picked up in small lots.

In Illinois Brick shares there was a fair amount of activity. The market indicates an effort to advance the price for the purpose of unloading. Some stories have recently got in circulation about extraordinary earnings, and it may have been observed that any advance meets a liberal supply of the shares.

Western Stone advanced to 40. The position of the company probably has been greatly improved, and if the building season of 1906 be not marred by strikes the company should do well. However, the building season is some distance off, and it may be that a pool is helping the price along at this time.

American Can shares continue neglected by the market. The earnings are good, but competition has grown to such an extent that some conservatism is being exercised while noting the outcome of trade conditions.

The bond department West Chicago first mortgage 5s advanced to 100-¼. The buying was by W. H. Colvin & Co.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Since last Friday the New York subtreasury has lost $4,357,000 to the banks.

Known movements of money indicate the banks for the week have gained altogether $4,961,688. Of this amount $606,688 was from the interior.

Horse Show Finances.

From the financial viewpoint, the Chicago Horse Show association is not overprofitable to its stockholders, although a great success from other points of view. It appears that last year the association spent $57,000, and, after paying all bills, realized $250 net profits. The capital stock is $25,000 and is owned by half a dozen people. The largest individual holder is W. H. Moore, with 3,000 shares. In 1903 the profits were equal to 40 per cent on the stock, or a total of $10,000. But after deducting $600 or $700 paid for a box, a horse show stockholder does not have much left. Last year he had nothing.

The managers hope that in time the show will annually attract half a hundred thousand visitors and shoppers from surrounding territory.

Standard Milling Company.

The Standard Milling company, for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, shows a decrease in profits of $620,411. The company, in common with other flour milling concerns, suffered because of the short wheat crop of 1904 and the bull speculation in the cereal. The present wheat crop, being much larger than that of last year, is expected to help all flour mill interests. Following is a detailed statement of the Standard company for the year ended Aug. 31, 1905:

At the annual meeting no changes were made in the directory. William Lanman Bull, Edwin Gould, J. Edward Simmons, and Charles P. Armstrong were reëlected for three years.

Dividends Declared.

The Standard Milling company has declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 1 per cent on preferred stock, payable Nov. 1. Books close Oct. 25, reopen May 1.

The H. B. Claflin company declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent on its first preferred stock and of 1½ per cent on its second preferred stock, both payable Nov. 1. Books close Oct. 23, reopen Nov. 2.

Directors of the Chicago Edison company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable Nov. 1. Books close Oct. 21, reopen Nov. 1.

The Procter & Gamble company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent on its common stock, payable Nov. 15 to holders of record Oct. 31.

Mergenthaler Linotype Earnings.

The annual report of the Mergenthaler Linotype company for the year ended Sept. 30 shows net receipts from all sources of $2,204,520, being a decrease of $178,776. The number of machines sold was 839, against 868 the previous year. The number of machines leased was 447.

President P. T. Dodge says in the annual report that the gain from ordinary sources was the greatest of any year in the company's existence. The profits of the preceding year, however, were swollen by a large order from the government and by many large orders resulting from the great fire in Baltimore. Excluding these gains, the business of the previous fiscal year was materially less than that of the year just closed.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders the number of directors was increased to ten and Norman Dodge elected to the board. The other directors were reëlected.

Electric Switching Plant.

Contracts have been let for the installation of an electrically operated switching plant on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at Mystic, Conn. This trial which is to be made of electricity as a power for the operation of switches and signals, when considered in conjunction with the recent order for electric motors, may be taken to indicate the policy of the New Haven toward electrical equipment.

The new electric system, which, like the manual system it replaces, is interlocking. Signals will be operated by individual motors placed on the roadbed, which will receive their power from a storage battery and generator located in the switch tower.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Stocks were strong and active today. American woolen common was bought on a large scale, the price advancing rapidly nearly to 4 points. Coppers generally were buoyant, Calumet and Hecla advancing 5 points. Medium and low price issues all were in good demand at generally higher prices. The activity partly is due to a shade easier in money conditions. Call loans, 5½ per cent; time loans, collateral, 4¾@5. Time loans, mercantile paper, 5 per cent. Clearing house loans, 5 per cent.

STANDARD PUTS UP OIL PRICE.

All Grades of Crude, Except Raglan, Are Advanced and Others Five Cents Higher.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—The Standard Oil company today advanced the price of all grades of crude oil, except Raglan. Pennsylvania, Tiona, New Castle, and Cabel oil were advanced 5c. Corning was raised 10c and Somerset 8c. The lower grades were advanced 2c. The quotations follow: Pennsylvania, $1.61; Tiona, $1.71; Corning, $1.13; New Castle, $1.38; Cabel, $1.21; North Lima, 96c; South Lima, Indiana, and Somerset, 91c; Raglan, 49c.

Five Cents Up at Lima.

LIMA, O., Oct. 20.—The Standard Oil company posted a bulletin here today announcing an advance of 5 cents in the price offered for Pennsylvania crude oil and an advance of 2 cents on Lima and Indiana oil. Pennsylvania, $1.61; North Lima, 96c.

Kansas Oil Also Higher.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Oct. 20.—The price of high grade western oil was advanced 1 cent a barrel by the company to 50 cents. The price of fuel oil was not changed.

$60,000 STOCK SUIT SETTLED.

James J. Townsend and Sternberger, Sinn & Co. Agree to Pay John J. O'Leary $35,000.

Settlement of a suit for $60,000 brought by John J. O'Leary, board of trade and stock exchange operator, against James J. Townsend of Chicago and Sternberger, Sinn & Co. to recover losses sustained by reason of the "corner in Northern Pacific stock," was effected yesterday by an agreement between the parties for a payment to O'Leary of $35,000. The case will be withdrawn soon, according to a statement made by Townsend. O'Leary sold 200 shares of Northern Pacific "short" a few days before the "corner," at $115 a share. In the panic which followed the advance in price to $1,000 a share on the New York exchange, Sternberger, Sinn & Co. bought the 200 shares at $350 and $400 a share, receiving the orders from Townsend. O'Leary claimed he should not have been closed out.

TRADE VOLUME IS LARGER

R. G. DUN & CO. REPORTS CONTINUED FAVORABLE CONDITIONS.

Business in the Chicago District Confirms Strong Increase in Growth Since a Year Ago—Requirements for Transportation and Construction Greater and Conditions in Commercial Branches Better—Dealings in Staple Merchandise Sustained.

The weekly review of trade in the Chicago district, published by R. G. Dun & Co., the mercantile agency, will say:

"Developments have continued to affirm the most optimistic confidence in the strong position upon which business progresses. Little more than twelve months have passed since the industrial tide began its rise, but the period which in the meantime elapsed evidently has been one of gathering strength rather than exhaustion. Considering the enormous demands placed upon productive capacity during recent months, the volume of new needs now being secured for delivery well into the future, is of such remarkable proportions as to occasion surprise.

"Requirements for transportation and construction appear to be greater than hitherto, resulting in commitments which draw upon furnaces, mills, and factories enormously. Distributive operations make steady gains and increased complaints as to delays testify to the inadequacy of carrying facilities to cope with the unprecedented freight offerings.

Staple Trade Well Sustained.

"Dealings in staple merchandise are well sustained. Lower temperature has stimulated the buying of seasonable necessaries, the aggregate of sales indicating that the purchasing power of consumers is at its best. Wholesale branches are receiving supplementary orders and bookings are fairly active, especially in textile fabrics, footwear, clothing, and food products. Improvement is seen in the demand for furniture, carpets, and jewelry.

"Large augmentation in the forward bookings of iron and steel, inability to accumulate surplus stocks and premiums for urgent needs, indicate prevailing conditions in the leading manufacture. Railroads make additional heavy commitments for rolling stock and rails, car building forces are increased, and other factories enter into expanding activity. More pressure upon output is noted in farm implements, heavy machinery, and hardware, while most of the forges and foundries are rushed."

Grain Operations Increase.

"Grain operations are reflected by a total movement at this port of 10,807,955 bushels, against 10,001,345 bushels last week and 9,178,569 bushels a year ago. The receipts increased 45 per cent, but the shipments were disappointing, these declining 10 per cent, as compared with the 4,670,979 bushels for corresponding week in 1904. The demand for flour has been good for domestic account. Provisions were in excellent request, and sales showed a better tone in the export division.

"Bank clearings, $208,007,084, exceed those of corresponding week in 1904 by 11.3 per cent.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 26, against 23 last week and 35 a year ago.

Big Business, No Boom.

New York, Oct. 20.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

Business is brisk and improving, yet there is no disposition to start a boom either in commodities or securities. Manufacturers receive liberal orders for remote deliveries. Current retail trade is not equaling expectations, but this is attributed to mild autumn weather, and preparations for the future are undiminished.

Statistics of foreign trade for the United States eclipsed all September records last month. Another splendid exhibit is assured for October, the last week alone at this port providing gains of $3,967,901 in imports and $2,120,803 in exports, as compared with last year's figures. Evidences of conservatism are more numerous in the primary markets for textile fabrics, although there is no weakness in quotations, but more indications of inherent strength.

Failures this week numbered 23 in the United States, against 215 last year, and 23 in Canada, compared with 39 a year ago.

Cool Weather Will Help Trade.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade reports are more irregular, but industry is still at higher tension. Heavy rains west and too high temperatures south and east have exercised an influence, but back of this is to be reckoned the fact that wholesale trade has been active for three months past and some quieting is naturally in order. Colder weather now advancing is reported stimulating retail trade and influencing reorder business with jobbers.

The price situation is strong as a whole, though some weaknesses, as in sugar, corn, hog products, and raw silk, and quiet in other lines of raw material, point to demand having been satisfied. Nothing of this sort is, however, indicated in hides, leather, or shoes, and the weather market for cotton, with strength in other metals than iron, and stronger export demand for cereals, make for a balance of up and down movements.

Wool is quiet as a whole.

SMART RALLY IN WHEAT.

MARKET RESPONDS PROMPTLY TO ARMOUR SUPPORT.

Local Traders Who Try to Force Further Decline Cover Their Sales, as a Rule, at a Loss—Estimate of Large Stocks in Country Elevators in the Northwest Brings Some Selling from That Quarter—Little Change in Coarse Grains.

Local traders who believed the Armour interest had been a seller of wheat for two days and were convinced the market was in consequence due for a break of more than 1c were bearish at the start and their selling was largely instrumental in forcing a further decline of ⅜c, December selling off to 85⅞c. But there were contradictions of the pet theory that the leading bull interest had been a free seller, and, what was still more effective, there was Armour support of the market around 86c for December. This intimation that the attitude of the leading holder was unchanged was responsible for a smart rally of ⅞c, and, although wheat came out on this upturn, causing a quick setback again, the close was strong near top figures, 86⅝c bid, a net gain of ⅜c for the day. The December as usual was the strongest delivery, the longer futures gaining ¼c.

There were indications of selling here for northwestern account, possibly encouraged by a new estimate putting country elevator stocks in the three states at 30,000,000 bu. Country receipts, however, were reported to have dropped off considerably on account of bad roads. Minneapolis advices told of a good flour demand, and millers were paying ½c advance in premiums for cash wheat. Stocks there increased 600,000 bu for the week. At Duluth there was a decrease of 100,000 bu.

Europe Taking Wheat.

There was a steady export demand, with sales of 136,000 bu, part macaroni and part hard winter. New York messages also reported a better demand for Manitoba wheat for December shipment, a suggestion that foreign buyers might be taking the reports of damage by locusts to the Argentine crop more seriously than they were willing to admit.

There were estimates from Kansas City that over half of the southwestern crop had been marketed. The Modern Miller said drought conditions in the winter wheat belt had been relieved, and predicted a much larger acreage would be sown that that of last fall. Northwestern receipts were relatively small, 670 cars, compared with 867 the previous week and 795 a year ago. Total primary receipts were 1,089,000 bu, compared with 1,056,000 bu. Winnipeg had 435 cars, compared with 229.

Clearances of wheat and flour were 127,000 bu for the day, and for the week from both coasts and Canada were 2,831,000 bu, compared with 1,068,000 bu last year. Argentine exports were 584,000 bu, compared with 1,136,000 bu last year. Liverpool futures were ⅛d to ⅝d lower, in sympathy with the American decline, but prices were steadied by less favorable weather in Argentina, a good spot demand and small offerings of off coast cargoes.

Corn Prices Harden.

More settled weather in the west, favorable for movement of old corn and curing the new crop, with the early weakness in wheat, started some local selling in the pit and there was a moderate decline, but the market rallied on a little Armour buying, the recovery in wheat, and reports of a continued good export demand. The range was barely ½c, with the close ⅛c higher for the day. The rally was helped by scattered reports from southern and eastern Iowa claiming damage to the standing corn by high winds. Receipts were light, 182 cars in and 116 estimated. Prices were steady to ¼c lower in the sample market, the shipping demand moderate, sales 315,000 bu, including 100,000 bu for export. The seaboard reported export business of 120,000 bu. Primary receipts were 346,000 bu, compared with 239,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 63,000 bu for the day and 776,000 bu for the week. Argentine shipments were 1,203,000 bu, compared with 2,920,000 bu a year ago. Liverpool futures were ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower.

Oats Slightly Lower.

Trade in oats was dull and tame, prices off ⅛c early and the market not responding to the closing strength in other grains. Last prices were unchanged to ⅛c lower. The shipping demand was a shade less urgent, although some business was done for export. Total sales, 205,000 bu. Cash prices were unchanged to ¼c lower. The seaboard reported 60,000 bu taken for shipment to Europe. There were 303 cars in and 79 estimated for the day. Clearances were 21,000 bu.

Provisions Are Draggy.

Selling of January and May ribs and January lard by Cudahy Packing company and weakness in grains gave provisions a weak start from which they did not entirely recover, with the sole exception of October pork, which closed 5c higher under the impetus of buying by shorts. October lard lost 7½c and lard 2½c, and January product was about 5c lower all around. The buying on the decline was by shorts and local traders. Receipts of hogs were 21,000 head and 14,000 are expected today. Prices at the yards were steady for good and easy for poor hogs. The leading western packing points received 61,300 hogs, against 53,900 last year. Liverpool prices were steady for lard and bacon and 6d higher for hams.

Rye, Barley, and Seeds.

Rye was quiet and firm, May selling at 71@71½c, closing at 71½c bid and December at 68½c bid. No. 2 car lots sold at 68½c and No. 3 from 64c to 68c f. o. b. Receipts were 11 cars. New York reported a better export inquiry.

Barley ruled steady to firm, with feed in active demand from shippers and exporters at 36@37c. Malting grades ranged from 37c to 52c, sales largely from 38c to 45c, and screenings 24@36½c. Receipts, 70 cars; export sales, 450,000.

Flaxseed ruled steady, with No. 1 northwestern at 99c and No. 1 93c. May was offered at $1.03. Receipts were 2 cars here, 101 at Minneapolis, and 148 cars at Duluth.

Timothy seed was firm. March was $3.35, January $3.25, and October $3.20. Country lots ranged from $2.00 to $3.10. October clover seed was steady at $13.25 and bag lots ranged from $9.50 to $12.75, according to quality.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The dry goods trade was much less active and operations were conducted on a conservative scale today. This had no effect on prices, which remained steady. The decision of the Fall River operators regarding the new wage schedule was awaited with interest.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Trading in hogs was brisk at steady prices at the stockyards yesterday. There was a considerable demand for good shipping hogs, but packing sorts were weak. The moderate receipts held prices from any decline.

Trading in cattle was dull and prices suffered more or less all along the line. Choice steers show a little change for the week, but butcher stock and other medium sorts are off a good 30c.

The strength of the sheep market shifted from lambs to sheep. Lambs were quoted at the figures of the preceding days, but the trading was less brisk. Western sheep have advanced more in proportion than natives, the quality being better.

Cattle.

Western cattle have lost less than natives during the week, the decline on the former being only 10 and 15 cents. Prime steers were held at a top of $6.30 and goods sorts were sold at $5.20. Cows, canners, and cutters were lower.

Prices ranged as follows:

Choice to prime steers	$5.25@6.30
Common to good steers	4.00@5.00

Feeders have gone soaring with the great demand for killing sheep, country buyers being forced to pay as high as $5.10 for their purchases. Native lambs were quoted up to $8.00, with none of the top on the market, and westerns were wanted at $7.65.

The prices of the day:

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

Local houses sold 88,000 bu wheat yesterday, including 48,000 bu hard wheat for export via the gulf, and 25,000 bu No. 2 hard to Buffalo mills. A local elevator concern was reported to have bought 100,000 bu No. 2 hard at Kansas City, and Minneapolis claimed further purchases of No. 1 northern had been made there by Chicago houses. Local mills were buying sparingly, but most of the car lots went to elevators at prices which showed no change relative to futures. St. Louis reported 50,000 bu No. 2 red sold for shipment, and prices firm. Minneapolis quoted premiums unchanged at 2¼@2½c over December for No. 1 northern. Winnipeg called export business flat, with freight congestion in the east a factor, but New York reported wheat in better demand at 93½c, c. i. f. Liverpool, relatively lower than the day before. While eastern roads are not furnishing cars for the shipment of grain from Buffalo fast enough to suit shippers, in some cases they are furnishing and forwarding them at almost express speed to make up for lost time. One train load of corn left Buffalo yesterday on a guarantee that it would reach Boston in thirty-six hours. However, New York grain merchants are getting only occasional lots for all rail shipment, unimportant in quantity. Congestion at Buffalo is not unusual in the late fall, but the aggregate grain received at Buffalo all of the current year ending next December will probably not exceed 70,000,000 bu, compared with three times that quantity in some of the active seasons of the past, yet the railroads confess incapacity to take care of this business. The steamship interests at New York have combined with the transportation committee of the New York produce exchange in attempts to change the present preferment shown to merchandise which pays a higher rate.

The Modern Miller, in its weekly summary of the wheat situation, said: "Drought conditions, which have delayed winter wheat seeding in some sections, particularly in the west and southwest, have been relieved by good general rains. The seeding of the full area devoted to that grain should be completed before long. A much larger acreage than was sown last fall is assured. There has been a partial resumption of farmers' deliveries of both hard and soft winter." Exceptions were taken by other authorities in the southwest to the concluding statement. A Kansas City message said: "The Drovers' Journal, Star, and World will contradict the Modern Miller summary so far as southwest is concerned as to the alleged increased wheat movement from farmers."

Wheat traders are thoroughly convinced of the existence of large Armour holdings of December in this market, and while every little rush of selling orders or any break in prices gives rise to rumors that this holding is being unloaded, the Armour people are more bullish than ever on the market, according to advices from headquarters. While there is supposed to be a large Armour holding, there is less positiveness as to the character of the short interest, which is more scattered. The northwest is supposed to be short here, and there is a story current that another rich Chicago packer is short a line of about 4,000,000 bu.

European buying of feedstuffs is going merrily on, local houses selling 450,000 bu 46 lb feed barley to New York exporters yesterday, and sales of oats being 205,000 bu from Chicago and 200,000 bu from Minneapolis. Sales of corn were 315,000 bu, including 60,000 bu old for export at 53c f. o. b. Chicago, and 40,000 bu new for export, the rest domestic. Local houses are slow to accept bills until they get cars for some of the recent sales, the local freight situation being tight. The seaboard reported sales of 120,000 bu corn, 80,000 bu oats, and 35,000 bu barley abroad, and said inquiry for rye was better, with sales expected.

"They are worried at Kansas City over the lack of rain in Kansas and Oklahoma," said George Marcy, who returned from that market yesterday. "The dry weather has been long continued, and now it is cold and freezing, without moisture, the recent rains having skipped those states. Southwestern mills are having considerable difficulty in getting sufficient wheat supplies to run on, and are paying better prices than prevail at Kansas City. Texas mills are drawing freely from supplies north of them, and this demand has complicated the situation."

"I have estimated stocks of wheat in country elevators in the northwest at 30,000,000 bu," said James Pettit, "but I do not consider that a startling total at all in view of the large number of line elevators in the three states. I do not see how any one could arrive at the estimate of 14,000,000 bu given out yesterday. That would hardly be enough to cover the bottoms of the bins. Comparisons made with still smaller figures for the last few years are misleading, because no official estimates of elevator stocks have been given out for three years."

Exports from both coasts and Canada, as reported by Bradstreet's, are:

The board of trade will be represented at the interstate commerce law convention Oct. 26 by the following delegation: J. T. Sickel, B. A. Eckhart, R. S. Lyon, W. N. Eckhardt, E. L. Glaser, W. B. Bogert, I. P. Rumsey, E. W. Wagner.

Bids on December wheat sold at 86¼c to 86⅜-½c and offers at 86⅞c to 86⅞-87c, and May bids 87⅛c and offers 87⅜c. May corn bids were 44⅛c bid and offers 44¼c asked.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 99 cars; corn, 116 cars; oats, 279 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 68 cars; hogs, 14,000 head.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE HANDLES 1,000,000 SHARES.

Because of Relaxation of Money Situation Decided Animation Is Apparent and Obscure Low Priced Classes as Well as Prominent High Valued Groups Exhibit Unusual Activity—Professionals Have Control of Movements.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Almost 1,000,000 shares of stock were sold today on the stock market and the sales comprised not only many groups in a miscellaneous assortment of specialties of the non-dividend payment kind, which do not appear on the tape for months at a time, but also a class of gilt edged, high priced railroad stocks. The cause of the animation was the relaxation of the money situation. However, the market was almost wholly in professional hands, while the commission houses complained of small business.

The rather incongruous spectacle was presented of coincident movements in Standard Rope and Twine, Vulcan Detinning, American Grass Twine, American Hide and Leather, and stocks of a like class valued from $1.00 to $10.00 a share, and in high priced railroad stocks selling at from $200.00 to over $400.00 a share, while the body of the list of standard railroad stocks remained comparatively impassive.

The usually active railroad stocks averaged a gain of about a point, the advance occurring mostly after the movement in the specialties had proceeded for some time, being prompted apparently by a realization.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Rates for money and discounts were maintained in the market today, and the conditions were little changed. On the stock exchange generally a better tone prevailed on bear covering, but trading was inactive. Consols were steady, bearing up kindred securities. Americans opened steady, grew firmer on New York support, were mostly above parity and rather idle, rallied further during the last hour, and closed firm, with some stocks below the best quotations of the day. Kaffirs hardened though operators were nervous through fears of further liquidation. Paris recently has been a heavy seller of these stocks. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101⅞.

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Trading on the boerse today was much more cheerful on account of cheaper money. Many domestic shares were higher.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—There was continued inactivity and hesitation on the bourse today. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 93.00 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 527.00.

1869 UNION TRUST Co. TRIBUNE BUILDING CHICAGO 1905

Publicity While the Public Press almost daily of late, is calling attention to what are termed "DUMMY DIRECTORS," it is no more than proper that an institution so closely related to every individual as a Banking Corporation should make known the extent to which its DIRECTORS are active in the Bank's control.

The Public's Safeguard The Public necessarily can have but a superficial knowledge of a Bank's condition. They must consider the personnel of its Officers and of its Directory who have or should have a full knowledge of its affairs.

Directors Who Direct THE DIRECTORS OF THE UNION TRUST COMPANY ARE IN CLOSE TOUCH with its conduct, periodically making personal examinations in which the lines of credit are supervised, collateral passed upon, cash counted, accounts checked, and investments scrutinized.

Policy It long has been the policy of the Union Trust Company to allow its earnings to accumulate forming additional security for its depositors. The extent to which this policy has been adhered to may be appreciated when it is known that the ORIGINAL CAPITAL AND SURPLUS IN 1869 WAS BUT $125,000.00.

Results Not one dollar has been added to that from outside sources, but the EARNINGS HAVE BEEN RETAINED until the PRESENT CAPITAL AND SURPLUS has been attained. It is now $1,550,000.00.

Inferences The Directory of the Bank is comprised of men well known in the community. That they, with their access to the details of inside conduct should hold to this policy, is significant of their entire confidence in the management by the Bank's Officials and cannot fail to have weight with a discerning Public.

The Whitney Company has been formed for the purpose of developing the water power of the Yadkin River in North Carolina. A letter from Mr. George I. Whitney, of Messrs. Whitney & Stephenson, Pittsburgh, President of the Company, gives the following details:

Present development, 40,000 horse-power, with sufficient land (over 13,000 acres), and water rights to build an additional 50,000 horse-power plant. Within a radius of 80 miles (easily reached by electric power transmission) there are now 257 cotton mills, using about 73,000 steam horse-power, costing $35 to $50 per annum. There are also numerous other mills and furniture factories within the same radius—contracts could now be made for the entire present development of 40,000 electric horse-power at highly remunerative rates.

Gross Annual Earnings, estimated....$630,000
Operating Expenses....$97,000
Interest on Bonds....270,000—367,000
Estimated Surplus....$263,000

We quote in detail from Mr. Whitney's letter as follows:

"I do not hesitate to say that the project is sound in every particular. The Company owns an enormous and unfailing water power; the work is now more than 25% completed, and is being rapidly pushed by competent contractors, the T. A. Gillespie Company. There is a permanent constantly increasing demand for electric power at profitable prices without competition from nearby coal fields or forests, and there is no doubt that the Company will prove a highly profitable investment from its start.

"The development of this property from its inception has been in charge of the highest talent procurable in the country, and this is true of its legal and engineering departments, of the contractors who have taken charge of construction, who rank second to none in the country, and of the electrical and hydraulic builders, who will be readily recognized as of the highest class.

"As you know, there is demand for bonds of well-planned water power projects by reason of the permanence and large profits of such undertakings, as well as the inability of investors to buy desirable public utility or municipal bonds at remunerative prices. The bonds you now offer are, in my opinion, well secured, and should sell at a considerable premium in due time.

"Very truly yours, GEO. I. WHITNEY, President."

$1,500,000 of the bonds having been sold, we offer the remaining $3,000,000 for subscription at 100 and accrued interest.

Copies of the Prospectus and Mortgage can be had on application.

THE HUB
HENRY C. LYTTON Pres.

Clothes Logic

IF any man has clothes to buy—and all men have—why shouldn't he buy them at a clothing store? Any thoughtful man would. It's logical. He buys other of life's necessities where they are logically best—for instance: his groceries at a grocery store, his meats at a butcher shop, his furniture at a furniture store. In all of these there is concentration of effort and thought on one product. And each logically handles a better product in his line than the man who attempts to handle them all and divides his attention in a dozen or threescore directions. This organization—The Hub—has become the greatest clothing store in the world by handling clothing and accessories and nothing else. Its president, its superintendent, its heads of departments, and all employes think of nothing but clothes—they study nothing but clothes—they make nothing but clothes. They concentrate their time, study, thought, effort and ingenuity on clothes, and nothing but clothes. Is it any wonder then that they are better qualified to best serve the clothes-wants of Chicago than other institutions which deal in everything from a paper of pins to an automobile? To do one thing and do it well, that is the acme of human achievement.
